

LAY DOWN ON THE TRACK HOPING TO BE RUN OVER

HELD FIRMLY TO THE RAILS

And Two Men Were Unable to Pull Him Away As Engines Came Near.

ONLY SIX INCHES FROM DEATH

When the Locomotives Were Stopped And Their Crews Carried the Man to a Place of Safety—He Had Been Drinking Heavily.

Half crazed by over-indulgence in liquor and while suffering from a fit of jealousy, Jasper M. Johnson, a teamster of this city, who returned a few days ago from southwestern Ohio, where he has been working for several months, tried to kill himself last evening and came dangerously close to succeeding.

Johnson was married several years ago to Lizzie Brighthouse, who at that time resided in East Liverpool, but their domestic life became unpleasant to the wife, who separated from her husband and went to Wellsville to live. Since that time Johnson is said to have done little good for himself, but roamed about the country, finally landing at Hamilton, this state, where he secured a position with a showman.

Since his return to this city he has been drinking heavily and though he has made repeated efforts to induce his wife to live with him again she persistently refused. Johnson learned that she was keeping company with another East Liverpool man, which aroused within him a feeling of intense jealousy and he determined to watch the woman so as to learn the identity of her new suitor, who, it was told him by friends, lived in a boat house near the flint mill.

Making his way last evening to the vicinity of the flint mill Johnson stationed himself where he could have a commanding view of the boat house. It was not long before his wife made her appearance and later the husband saw her in conversation with his rival. This was too much for the man to bear, and making his way to the boat he implored his wife to come with him, but she refused.

Johnson was drunk at the time and becoming desperate at his wife's indifference in her treatment toward him, he threatened in her presence to kill himself. This did not have the effect of appealing to the tender mercies of the woman and Johnson immediately started up the river bank and climbed to the railroad track between the flint mill and the glass house.

Taking off his coat the man threw it over one of the rails and then placing his neck down upon the garment he pushed his arms under the rail between two ties and held himself in his dangerous position with bull-dog determination. A few moments later the yard engine coupled to another came speedily around the curve above the flint mill, both engines having just finished doing some shifting at the freight house. Some small boys who were playing in the neighborhood saw Johnson on the track, and believing he had accidentally fallen they ran to his assistance and endeavored to pull him off.

Their efforts were powerless, as he retained the firm lock hold he had secured on the rail and in a few minutes two men who had been summoned to the spot also were trying to get the man out of his dangerous position, but without success.

The engineer of the forward locomotive saw Johnson on the rail soon after coming around the curve, but believing he would be pulled off the track in plenty of time no attempt was made at first to stop. Johnson saw the approaching engine, but the harder his would-be rescuers tried to drag him loose from the rail the more determined he became to baffle them.

Finally seeing that something was wrong the men in charge of both engines applied the airbrakes. The speed was checked instantly, but before the wheels were brought to a stop the forward truck of the engine in the lead was within six inches of Johnson's neck, while the pilot was close against his head. Several brakemen, who were with the engines, ran to the assistance of the men, who were yet vainly struggling to break Johnson's hold on the rail, but before he was finally drawn out from his perilous position it required rough handling on the part of the six men to accomplish the task.

After he had been placed on his feet at the side of the track the engines again started toward Wellsville, when Johnson made a move to throw himself under the wheels. The brakemen grappled with the man and held him fast until the rear engine passed and then ran ahead and jumped aboard. On reaching Wellsville one of the engineers telephoned the circumstances to the mayor's office here. Several officers went to the scene, but found that Johnson had taken his departure. He was seen on the streets last night, but as he was then in a sober state no attempt was made to arrest him.

UPSET A BUGGY

CARELESS DRIVERS RUN INTO ANOTHER MAN'S RIG.

The Occupants, Man And Wife, Are Thrown Out And the Vehicle Demolished.

An odd accident occurred on Sixth street last night in which Mr. and Mrs. Fred A. Smith escaped being seriously injured. The latter were sitting in a buggy standing in front of the residence of Fred Nagle, while Mrs. Smith was talking to her mother, Mrs. Nagle. Without a moment's warning the head of a horse attached to a surrey struck Mrs. Smith on the shoulder. The surrey was being driven at such a rate of speed that it wrecked the buggy occupied by Mr. Smith and his wife, and threw the occupants to the ground.

When Mr. Smith recovered from his fright he found himself lying on the pavement under the buggy, but uninjured. Mrs. Smith was also thrown from the vehicle by it turning over, but she also escaped injury. The wrecked buggy was purchased by Mr. Smith a few weeks ago and was valued at $100. It is now a complete wreck.

Mr. Smith when seen this morning said: "The affair happened so quick that I do not know much about it, except that my buggy is a wreck, and my wife and I were thrown out. After the buggy was upset it was run over by the surrey, which was occupied by several liquor dealers. We were standing within a few inches of the curb, and there was ample room for any vehicle to pass. There was also an electric lamp burning near us and our buggy could be seen by any driver. Unless the buggy is repaired and placed in as good condition as before the accident, action may be entered to recover damages."

MARRIED BY THE SQUIRE

Girl From Texas Came North And Married a Pittsburg Man Here.

Justice McCarron yesterday afternoon married Miss Emma Brown, of Ft. Worth, Tex., and George Harlan, of Pittsburg.

There seems to be a romance back of the marriage, but the accommodating justice says if there is he knows nothing about it.

Miss Brown is the daughter of a prosperous farmer in Texas, and is good looking. Her age, perhaps, one might judge, is too tender to permit her to be married in her native state. Harlan is a steel worker, and did not feel as if he could afford to make a trip to the sunny south for his bride just now. So he asked her to come north. Within a few weeks Mr. and Mrs. Harlan will go south to make their home in the "Lone Star State."

The River Is Six Feet.

The heavy rains in the upper valleys yesterday caused the river to rise last night and the marks at the wharf this morning registered 6 feet. The Bessie Smith will pass up tomorrow for Pittsburg.

TRUST TO OFFER STRIKERS WORK

Lisbon Men Can Have Their Places Monday on the Company's Terms.

A WILD RUMOR AFLOAT

Of Men Shipped Into the Mill in Box Cars—Sheriff Noragon Vindicated. Strikers Satisfied He Did Not Swear in Deputies at Wellsville.

Lisbon, Aug. 24.—(Special)—The committee of strikers from the Lisbon Amalgamated lodge, which went to Wellsville to learn what Sheriff Noragon had done there, did not make a report at the special meeting of the lodge last night. In view of the developments of yesterday—the company's attempt to start the Lisbon mill—it was thought the part of wisdom to withhold the report until the next regular meeting, one week from today.

The exact nature of the report is not known except to the committee. But it is learned that the strikers are now satisfied that the sheriff has sworn in no deputies and has had nothing to do with Mayor Dennis' actions.

It was reported yesterday that 40 non-union men had been smuggled into the Lisbon mill in box cars. This is not true. If Manager Evans' statement that he has sufficient men to put the plant in operation be correct, the strikers cannot imagine how the men got into Lisbon undetected by the pickets. Those in a position to know think there may be a few men here who will go back to work, but not many—only the natural-born non-unionists, as Ed Herbert put it.

About 50 strikers met Erie passenger trains last night and this morning, as it was expected men would be brought in on them. But none came. The striking employees will be offered their places Monday by the mill management, on conditions similar to those offered the Niles strikers. So far everything is serene.

Henry Hollinger, one of the Lisbon men who was captured by strikers in company with Manager Evans, en route to Niles, left Lisbon yesterday. Strikers here thought he was out for a hunt for men for the Beaver mill and notified Niles and Youngstown to watch for him. It has been learned that he was away on private business. He came home last night shadowed by two Niles men.

After a long and careful inspection of the mill the strikers assert that there are not a dozen men in the plant and that these are office men, with perhaps a laborer or two. A man whose name the association would not divulge is said to have gained entrance to the mill today. He says there are no men at work and none to go to work.

Rev. George Fowler, pastor of the Christian church, will preach tomorrow on the labor question. He is a staunch friend of the workmen.

OLD SOLDIER ARRESTED

Told Mayor Davidson a Pathetic Story, Which Was Believed, And He Was Released.

William Voget, an old soldier and a cripple, was found on the street last night by Officer Davidson, suffering from an overdose of East Liverpool tanglefoot. The veteran was assisted to the bastille and this morning he told Mayor Davidson a story which was truly pitiful.

He stated that two months ago his house was burned in a southern Ohio town, and aside from the loss of his household goods his wife was so badly burned that death resulted. He was left penniless, but by selling pencils he managed to get this far on his way to Oil City, Pa., where he has a son. The mayor was convinced the man told the truth and gave him his liberty, but cautioned him to let liquor alone. The soldier said friends he met were responsible for his downfall.

STRIKERS QUIET AT WELLSVILLE

Their Attention Seems to Have Been Turned to Irondale and Lisbon.

SITUATION IS UNCHANGED

Union Men Who Went to Work in Irondale Agree to Quit—Strike Breaker in Wellsville, But Did Not Remain Long.

No important developments in the strike situation at Wellsville occurred last night or today. Since Irondale and Lisbon have taken a stir and succeeded in working up their share of the excitement, Wellsville strikers have almost forgotten their personal troubles and seem to be more interested in the doings of their neighbors.

The Wellsville mill continues to move along with the same force which has been at work there the past few weeks, there being none of the men to quit or others to join the ranks of the non-union men. The strikers are satisfied to allow the mill to continue as it is at present, as they are convinced that it is being operated at a daily loss to the trust. Manager Brookman insists that five mills are at work, but the strikers laugh at this statement.

At Irondale the situation is little different from yesterday, although it is claimed that the mill will be forced to close down on Monday. Several of the men now at work have given their promise to quit tonight, and it is believed they will do as agreed. On their way home from the mill last evening they were met by a crowd of the strikers, but no attempt was made to do them harm. The men claimed they were forced to return to work in order to provide for their families, as they were financially unable to do otherwise.

A meeting was held by the members of the Amalgamated Association of the Irondale lodge, at which Vice President Chappell was present. It is said an agreement was made by the lodge to give to the members of the union who had returned to work the sum of $40 per month if they would consent to leave the mill, and it is thought every one of them will accept the offer.

Another report which gained credence in Wellsville, but which is incorrect, was that the employees of the Banfield coal mine, which furnishes fuel for the Irondale mill, had struck this morning. One or two of the men quit, but the mine is still in operation.

Mr. Chappell returned to Wellsville on the noon train today, in company with several of the Wellsville strikers who went to that town yesterday. As the train left Irondale a young man named Thompson, who was among the number to return to work with Manager Banfield, stepped aboard and came as far as Wellsville, where he went up the street past the Amalgamated headquarters to call on his sister, who is employed in a restaurant on Third street. He was closely watched by the strikers, but as Sheriff Noragon and Deputy Bick were close at hand the fellow was not molested.

Just as the train was ready to leave, Thompson started for the depot. Several of the strikers followed him, but he hurried aboard. It was learned he was on his way to East Liverpool, and it was decided to follow him. Word was sent ahead of the train to some potters to be on the lookout, but Thompson succeeded in eluding capture, and it is thought he went to Rock Springs this afternoon.

The report which became circulated last night that a carload of men had arrived at Lisbon to work in the mill there excited the Wellsville strikers for a time, but it was soon learned that the rumor was incorrect. A number of the Lisbon men who have been in Wellsville the past several days went home this afternoon and several Wellsville men accompanied them. More will go Monday.

Owing to a difference which has arisen between the owner of the property now occupied as the headquarters of the Amalgamated Association at Wellsville and the officials of the lodge a change will be made in a day or two. The vacant room just opposite the present headquarters will be occupied.

Organizer Evans expects to go to Lisbon Monday, at which time it is thought Organizer Griffiths will be again in Wellsville. It is not believed by Mr. Evans that any attempt will be made to import men into Lisbon, and he feels certain that the management of the plant there will be unable to turn a single wheel Monday.

ARRESTED HERE

An Irondale Strike Breaker Surrounded By Union Men in East Liverpool.

Will Thompson, a doubler, employed at the Irondale mill, arrived in East Liverpool this afternoon and went to Chester after some clothing. He was watched by a "spy," so he told a reporter, who saw him at the passenger station this afternoon and warned the Wellsville man to keep away from him. Thompson was surrounded by a number of potters while at the station, and while he seemed somewhat nervous refused to leave the ladies' waiting room.

A number of Amalgamated men were also in the crowd, but no violence was attempted.

About 3 o'clock Thompson was arrested on the charge of carrying concealed weapons. Chief Thompson made the arrest.

LOST HIS POCKETBOOK

Farmer Got Drunk on the Money He Obtained From a Load of Produce.

A farmer from near Calcutta who bought a load of country produce to this city yesterday morning, polluted himself with liquefied cheerfulness of the amber hue before returning home last evening and wandered to the West End, where an acquaintance came to his assistance.

When the man was brought back to the place where he had left his team standing he found it missing. An investigation disclosed that his wife, who accompanied him to town, had driven home and left him. He was then escorted to a livery stable, where he expected to hire a rig to take him home, but found that his pocketbook was missing. The man's friend procured a horse and buggy and drove him to his place of abode, where his wife met him with a well-seasoned club. He claimed that the pocketbook he lost contained $20.

PROMISED TO BE GOOD

And a Leetonia Boy Was Released From Jail And Sent Home.

Lisbon, Aug. 24.—(Special)—Frank Inman, of Leetonia, aged 14, who has been in jail for a week, charged with train jumping, was yesterday sentenced to the Boys' Industrial School at Lancaster by Judge Boone. On the boy's promise to be good, the court suspended sentence. Inman was allowed to return home.

Harvest Home Depopulates Lisbon.

Contracts Soon to Be Let For the Erection of 75 Houses.

WILL BE BUILT THIS FALL

In Addition Grading, Paving and Sewering Will Be Done.

THE WORK WILL BE HASTENED

A Promising Outlook for Much Active Business on the Southside in Connection With the Starting of the Tin Mill.

It has become currently reported in among contractors that within the next three weeks work will be commenced upon the erection of probably 75 houses, which will be built on the flat owned by the old Chester mill company, occupying the space between the mill and the residence of E. D. Marshall.

Contractors will bid at once for this work, and a number of contractors from abroad are expected here to look after the work soon. This is by far the greatest improvement that has been planned for the rapidly growing town since it was incorporated.

These houses, it is said, will be built by the old stockholders of the mill, and will include 25 four-roomed houses, the cost of which is estimated at $900 each. The building of 50 six-room houses has been estimated at $1,400 each. Besides this, the streets that were laid out several years ago when the land was first surveyed, will be graded, sewered, curbed and paved. The cost of this work could not be ascertained. A large number of workmen will be employed on this work and the improvement will be pushed as soon as contracts are let.

The erection of these houses in the location of the mill will make the town put on city airs. Last year the Southside Land company erected 30 houses in the east end of Chester, but as the number that will now be built greatly exceeds this, the future of the town is exceedingly bright. The 75 houses which will be built will practically fill the space between the mill and the Marshall property.

BY LIGHTNING

BOY AND HORSE KILLED WHILE AT WORK PLOWING.

The Unfortunate Youth Was Frank Cope, Who Lived Near Winona.

Salem, August 24.—(Special)—Frank Cope, who made his home with his grandfather, Elijah Raley, south of Winona, was struck and killed by lightning Thursday afternoon while he was plowing. It was not raining, but as he neared a tree that was standing in the field the tree received an electric shock and he and one of the horses was killed.

The young and unfortunate man would have been 17 years of age next month. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Freeman Cope, of Winona. He was a relative of the Tomlinson family of this city.

A SAD OCCURENCE

Child Dies While Father Is Absent in Michigan With Unknown Address.

Lisbon, Aug. 24.—The 10-year-old daughter of William Wirebaugh died at the family home in Sallineville a few days ago after a brief illness with typhoid fever. The family lived until last spring on the Aldridge farm, north of town, moving from here to Sallineville.

One bad feature of the death is that the father is employed in Michigan, and as his address was unknown he is still unaware of the death of his child. The funeral was held Wednesday.

Barn Burned By Lightning.

A barn owned by James L. Russell, a farmer, residing near Sallineville, was struck by lightning Saturday night and burned to the ground, together with the contents, consisting of a large quantity of hay, grain and wool. The loss is placed at $2,000, with only $700 insurance.

It was learned he was on his way to East Liverpool, and it was decided to follow him. Word was sent ahead of the train to some potters to be on the lookout, but Thompson succeeded in eluding capture, and it is thought he went to Rock Springs this afternoon.

The report which became circulated last night that a carload of men had arrived at Lisbon to work in the mill there excited the Wellsville strikers for a time, but it was soon learned that the rumor was incorrect. A number of the Lisbon men who have been in Wellsville the past several days went home this afternoon and several Wellsville men accompanied them. More will go Monday.

Owing to a difference which has arisen between the owner of the property now occupied as the headquarters of the Amalgamated Association at Wellsville and the officials of the lodge a change will be made in a day or two. The vacant room just opposite the present headquarters will be occupied.

Organizer Evans expects to go to Lisbon Monday, at which time it is thought Organizer Griffiths will be again in Wellsville. It is not believed

ARRESTED HERE

An Irondale Strike Breaker Surrounded by Union Men in East Liverpool.

Will Thompson, a doubler, employed at the Irondale mill, arrived in East Liverpool this afternoon and went to Chester after some clothing. He was watched by a "spy," so he told a reporter, who saw him at the passenger station this afternoon and warned the Wellsville man to keep away from him. Thompson was surrounded by a number of potters while at the station, and while he seemed somewhat nervous refused to leave the ladies' waiting room.

A number of Amalgamated men were also in the crowd, but no violence was attempted.

About 3 o'clock Thompson was arrested on the charge of carrying concealed weapons. Chief Thompson made the arrest.

At the Horn switch a counter march will be made to the Diamond, where the parade will disband.

The prizes for the athletic events, which will be given at Rock Springs park during the afternoon, have been secured and are now on exhibition in a store on Fifth street. These prizes consist of revolvers, hats, jewelry, stands, socks and toilet cases. They are indeed useful articles to say the least.

LOST HIS POCKETBOOK

A farmer from near Calcutta who bought a load of country produce to this city yesterday morning, polluted himself with liquefied cheerfulness of the amber hue before returning home last evening and wandered to the West End, where an acquaintance came to his assistance.

When the man was brought back to the place where he had left his team standing he found it missing. An investigation disclosed that his wife, who accompanied him to town, had driven home and left him. He was then escorted to a livery stable, where he expected to hire a rig to take him home, but found that his pocketbook was missing. The man's friend procured a horse and buggy and drove him to his place of abode, where his wife met him with a well-seasoned club. He claimed that the pocketbook he lost contained $20.

PROMISED TO BE GOOD

And a Leetonia Boy Was Released From Jail And Sent Home.

Lisbon, Aug. 24.—(Special)—Frank Inman, of Leetonia, aged 14, who has been in jail for a week, charged with train jumping, was yesterday sentenced to the Boys' Industrial School at Lancaster by Judge Boone. On the boy's promise to be good, the court suspended sentence. Inman was allowed to return home.

Harvest Home Depopulates Lisbon.

Lisbon, Aug. 24.—(Special)—Lisbon is almost depopulated today on account of the harvest home picnic at Shelton's grove. Hundreds of people went by team and train and every train was crowded.

Contracts Soon to Be Let For the Erection of 75 Houses.

In Addition Grading, Paving and Sewering Will Be Done.

THE WORK WILL BE HASTENED

A Promising Outlook for Much Active Business on the Southside in Connection With the Starting of the Tin Mill.

It has become currently reported in among contractors that within the next three weeks work will be commenced upon the erection of probably 75 houses, which will be built on the flat owned by the old Chester mill company, occupying the space between the mill and the residence of E. D. Marshall.

Contractors will bid at once for this work, and a number of contractors from abroad are expected here to look after the work soon. This is by far the greatest improvement that has been planned for the rapidly growing town since it was incorporated.

These houses, it is said, will be built by the old stockholders of the mill, and will include 25 four-roomed houses, the cost of which is estimated at $900 each. The building of 50 six-room houses has been estimated at $1,400 each. Besides this, the streets that were laid out several years ago when the land was first surveyed, will be graded, sewered, curbed and paved. The cost of this work could not be ascertained. A large number of workmen will be employed on this work and the improvement will be pushed as soon as contracts are let.

The erection of these houses in the location of the mill will make the town put on city airs. Last year the Southside Land company erected 30 houses in the east end of Chester, but as the number that will now be built greatly exceeds this, the future of the town is exceedingly bright. The 75 houses which will be built will practically fill the space between the mill and the Marshall property.

BY LIGHTNING

BOY AND HORSE KILLED WHILE AT WORK PLOWING.

The Unfortunate Youth Was Frank Cope, Who Lived Near Winona.

Salem, August 24.—(Special)—Frank Cope, who made his home with his grandfather, Elijah Raley, south of Winona, was struck and killed by lightning Thursday afternoon while he was plowing. It was not raining, but as he neared a tree that was standing in the field the tree received an electric shock and he and one of the horses was killed.

The young and unfortunate man would have been 17 years of age next month. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Freeman Cope, of Winona. He was a relative of the Tomlinson family of this city.

A SAD OCCURENCE

Child Dies While Father Is Absent in Michigan With Unknown Address.

Lisbon, Aug. 24.—The 10-year-old daughter of William Wirebaugh died at the family home in Salineville a few days ago after a brief illness with typhoid fever. The family lived until last spring on the Aldridge farm, north of town, moving from here to Salineville.

One bad feature of the death is that the father is employed in Michigan, and as his address was unknown he is still unaware of the death of his child. The funeral was held Wednesday.

Barn Burned By Lightning.

A barn owned by James L. Russell, a farmer, residing near Salineville, was struck by lightning Saturday night and burned to the ground, together with the contents, consisting of a large quantity of hay, grain and wool. The loss is placed at $2,000, with only $700 insurance.

Will Not Return to China for at Least a Year—To Work in America.

Owing to the advice of physicians and for the benefit of the health of his wife and children, Rev. Charles Swan, for several years a missionary in China, under the supervision of the Presbyterian church, will not return to that country for a year at least. Such was the statement made by Rev. Mr. Swan this morning. His family has been ill since returning from the Orient soon after the war in China broke out, and at that time it was the purpose of the reverend gentleman to return to China within a few months. Since, however, the plans have been changed.

Rev. Mr. Swan expects to do missionary work in this country until the health of his family permits him to return to China. It is thought that upon his return there he will be sent into the interior of the country. In the past he has been working mainly in the coast and small inland towns.

A TRIVIAL CASE

East End Woman Fined $1, Pleading Guilty to Assaulting a Child.

In the court of Justice Carman, of the East End, yesterday Mrs. A. B. McCullough pleaded guilty to a charge of assault, and paid a fine of $1 and costs. A few days ago, it is alleged, Artie Jones, a little girl of probably 12 years, was gathering berries near the home of the McCullough family in the Calhoun addition, when it is said that Mrs. McCullough struck her.

A charge of assault and battery was preferred against the woman by the child, but when before the justice of the peace Mrs. McCullough denied that any blows were struck and pleaded guilty to a charge of assault. The case was a trivial one.

QUARTERLY CONFERENCE

To Be Held at the Second M. E. Church in the East End.

The last quarterly conference of the congregation of the Second M. E. church, of the East End, will be held in the church on Pennsylvania avenue next Saturday evening. The last quarterly service will be held Sunday morning. At the meeting of Saturday evening reports of all the societies of the church for the past year will be presented.

The meeting will probably be presided over by Presiding Elder Holmes, of Steubenville, who is expected to arrive here next Saturday afternoon. This church was never known to be in a better condition than it has been during the present conference year.

Street Commissioner Alex Bryan this morning made a trip about the East End for the purpose of ascertaining the condition of the streets of the suburb. There is an obstruction at the corner of St. George street and Ohio avenue that has occupied the attention of the street force for some time, and now this is to be removed.

EAST END AFFAIRS.

In the court of Justice Carman yesterday a lien was filed against the property of Philip Baker, for about $38 by Swan & Culbertson, contractors.

This evening in their rooms on Mulberry street a meeting of local union No. 52, Amalgamated Association of Street Railway Employees of America, will be held. The meeting promises to be of unusual interest, as there is much special business to transact. Several applications for membership will likely be presented at this meeting.

STILL DEADLY

Were Diphtheria Germs That Had Lurked in a Child's Toys 15 Years.

Mt. Vernon, Aug. 24.—Germs that lurked for 15 years in a child's toys may cause the death of two children at the home of Charles Hutton, in this city.

Mrs. Hutton died about a week ago, and her daughter, Mrs. George Keck, of Indiana, came to attend the funeral, bringing with her a small daughter. Yesterday this child and another child of Mrs. Hutton were taken suddenly and dangerously ill. Physicians were summoned and they pronounced the disease malignant diphtheria.

There is not another case of diphtheria in the city, and the physicians were at a loss to account for its origin. Upon investigation they found that a child of Mrs. Hutton had died 15 years ago of diphtheria. During her illness she had played with an assortment of toys, which, after her death, were gathered together by the father and stored in the garret of the home.

About a week ago the present victims found these toys, gathered them from their hiding place, and amused themselves with them. The physicians are certain that the germs have lingered about the toys all these years, and have caused the present illness.

WORK STOPPED

On the Alliance and Salem Street Car Line at Sebring-Trouble With the Sebrings.

Salem, August 24.—Fourteen teams which have been employed on the Alliance and Salem street car line stopped operations last evening and will not resume work again until the trouble with the Sebrings is settled. Rapid progress was being made by the officials of the company, but the action of the Sebrings have at present knocked their plan in the head.

The Sebrings wanted the street railway people to go through Sebring on the main thoroughfare of the burg. The route as laid out did not go this way and this action on the part of the company made the Sebrings angry and they are doing all in their power to block the street car men. The teams and men will at once be placed to work on the line between Alliance and Canton.

WHITE MAN WEDS NEGRESS

As a Result the Bride, Groom and Minister Who Married Them Are in Jail.

Wheeling, Aug. 24.—Frank Graves, a white man of good appearance and evident breeding, and Rev. J. R. Atkins, colored, pastor of the Ebenezer Baptist church, were arrested and are now in jail on a serious charge.

Graves, whose home is in this city, was married to Irene May Taylor, of Pittsburgh. Irene is a dark brown negress with nearly straight hair and rather good looking. Atkins performed the ceremony. The West Virginia statute provides a fine of $100 and a year in state prison for any white person who marries a negro, and a fine of $200 for the minister who performs the ceremony. The law provides no penalty to the negro contracting such an alliance.

The marriage license was issued because Graves failed to state that his bride was not white.

MILLION-DOLLAR COMPANY

It Will Be Organized By Columbus Men To Utilize the Cuyahoga River for Power.

Akron, Aug. 24.—The company which proposes to utilize the Cuyahoga river for power is being promoted and financed by Columbus men, at the head of whom is G. A. Ritchie, an engineer of prominence. A million dollar company will be organized, and Mr. Ritchie claims that the necessary power plant can be installed for $75,000. He estimates that 30,000 horse power can be furnished at the lowest stage that the river has ever reached.

COLD EXCITEMENT

Ruined By an Inheritance.

Akron, Aug. 24.—Mr. and Mrs. Jeremiah Gillen, four years ago respectable, hard-working people, were sent to the workhouse yesterday for intoxication and long-continued misconduct. Their downfall resulted from an inheritance of $3,000. Neither has worked since getting it, and none of it remains.

A CASE OF IT

Many More Like It in East Liverpool.

The following case is but one of many occurring daily in East Liverpool. It is an easy matter to verify its correctness. Surely you cannot ask for better proof than such conclusive evidence:

Mrs. Edward Orr, of 220 Thompson street, says: "My sister, Mrs. Borland, of Pittsburg, while visiting us, recommended Doan's Kidney Pills so highly that I was induced to try them. I had severe attacks of kidney complaint. Some times I was so bad I could not get up; many times my neighbors came and found me lying on the lounge suffering, when I intended to do a big day's work. I was so miserable I could do nothing. After my sister told me of the pills I made up my mind to try them and got a box at the W. & W. pharmacy. They did just what they claimed they would do—cured me sound and well in a few days. My little girl was feeling poorly and had a sallow complexion, for some time I gave her a few doses and after the treatment she felt splendidly."

SPOILED CHILDREN.

Cure Them by Teaching Them Mutual Consideration.

A summer hotel is a good place to study children's dispositions. The little troop which races around the piazzas and plays hide and seek on the lawn has all the characteristics of a circle of grown ups. You see the miniature conceited man, the tiny woman back biter and the embryo flirts of the next decade; but, above all, you are painfully aware of the prevalence of spoiled children.

For instance, the lunch bell rings. Bobby, aged 4, dashes up to his mother and tries to pull her away from a woman friend with whom she is talking. "Mamma!" he cries sharply. "Mamma, come; I want to eat!" No answer. "Mamma, mamma, m-a-m-m-a-a-a! Do you hear?" (Stamp of foot.) "Hurry up!" Bobby's mother turns half around and in a mild manner remarks, "Bobby, be still."

But Bobby won't be still. He tugs, pulls, pushes and squirms until finally his mother is glad to get up and follow him into the dining room.

"What a horrid temper that child has!" a woman remarks, and another who is wiser answers: "Not a bit of it! It's a temper he is acquiring because of the way she is bringing him up. When he annoys her too much, she punishes him; otherwise she endures him as a necessary evil. At all times she is sweetly selfish. She gives him the best of everything and waits on him like a slave. By her very selfishness she is making him into the most selfish little brute alive."

Which was only too true.

Children are being brought up differently nowadays. It is no longer the fashion to quote the proverb, "Children should be seen, but not heard." On the contrary, the tots are allowed to assert their individuality and even encouraged to that effect. Well trained children are simply brought up to act like well bred men and women. Jack is told that his mother is a lady and that he must treat her as such if he wants to be treated like a grown up man. On the same principle he is taught to be courteous to his little sister and to give up his chair to her the way men do to girls. He mustn't interrupt, not because he is a child, but because well bred grown ups never do it. And so forth and so on. This method of mutual consideration is the only right way of bringing up a child.

HINTS TO THE HOUSEWIFE.

Things Which Are Useful to Remember.

Raw potato juice is an excellent cleanser. It will remove stains from the hands and also from woolen materials.

Blacklead should be mixed either with turpentine or with soapy water, for thus a good polish is soon produced. The smell of onions may easily be removed from the hands by rubbing over with celery and then washing them with cold water.

Alabaster may be cleaned by applying a paste of starch mixed with water. Leave the paste on till dry, then remove with a stiff brush, when all dirt will come away with it.

To make red wash for bricks put an ounce of glue into three quarts of water and then gently heat it until the glue is dissolved, then add an ounce of alum. Mix together half a pound of venetian red and half an ounce of Spanish brown. Gradually pour the liquid on to the powder, stirring it well to make it smooth. Be sure that the bricks or hearthstones are quite clean, and then put on the color with a large flat brush. The color may be varied to suit individual taste by adding or diminishing the quantity of red or brown.

To clean black cloth mix one part of spirits of ammonia with three parts of hot water. Apply with a sponge and rinse off with clean water.

A Little Too Faithful.

A thief in Paris, being chased by the police, threw away during his flight the purse he had stolen and was in a fair way, after being taken to the police station, of being allowed to go free for lack of sufficient evidence to hold him when his faithful dog, which he had trained to fetch and carry, trotted into the station, wagging its tail, with the missing purse in its mouth.—Paris Journal.

A Bit of Evans' Wit.

When William M. Evans was secretary of state in President Hayes' cabinet, he said in an after dinner speech at Omaha: "I like the west. I like her self made men. And the more I travel west, the more I meet with her public men, the more I am satisfied of the truthfulness of the Bible statement that the wise men came from the east."

Sunny.

The word sunny borrowed its original significance from astrology. It described a person born under the influence of the sun, this luminary being supposed to exercise a beneficial influence on the character of the individual.

Rev. Mr. Swan expects to do missionary work in this country until the health of his family permits him to return to China. It is thought that upon his return there he will be sent into the interior of the country. In the past he has been working mainly in the coast and small inland towns.

A TRIVIAL CASE

East End Woman Fined $1, Pleading Guilty to Assaulting a Child.

In the court of Justice Carman, of the East End, yesterday Mrs. A. B. McCullough pleaded guilty to a charge of assault, and paid a fine of $1 and costs. A few days ago, it is alleged, Artie Jones, a little girl of probably 12 years, was gathering berries near the home of the McCullough family in the Calhoun addition, when it is said that Mrs. McCullough struck her.

A charge of assault and battery was preferred against the woman by the child, but when before the justice of the peace Mrs. McCullough denied that any blows were struck and pleaded guilty to a charge of assault. The case was a trivial one.

To Be Held at the Second M. E. Church in the East End.

The last quarterly conference of the congregation of the Second M. E. church, of the East End, will be held in the church on Pennsylvania avenue next Saturday evening. The last quarterly service will be held Sunday morning. At the meeting of Saturday evening reports of all the societies of the church for the past year will be presented.

The meeting will probably be presided over by Presiding Elder Holmes, of Steubenville, who is expected to arrive here next Saturday afternoon. This church was never known to be in a better condition than it has been during the present conference year.

Street Commissioner Alex Bryan this morning made a trip about the East End for the purpose of ascertaining the condition of the streets of the suburb. There is an obstruction at the corner of St. George street and Ohio avenue that has occupied the attention of the street force for some time, and now this is to be removed.

EAST END AFFAIRS.

In the court of Justice Carman yesterday a lien was filed against the property of Philip Baker, for about $38 by Swan & Culbertson, contractors.

This evening in their rooms on Mulberry street a meeting of local union No. 52, Amalgamated Association of Street Railway Employees of America, will be held. The meeting promises to be of unusual interest, as there is much special business to transact. Several applications for membership will likely be presented at this meeting.

STILL DEADLY

Were Diphtheria Germs That Had Lurked in a Child's Toys 15 Years.

Mt. Vernon, Aug. 24.—Germs that lurked for 15 years in a child's toys may cause the death of two children at the home of Charles Hutton, in this city.

Mrs. Hutton died about a week ago, and her daughter, Mrs. George Keck, of Indiana, came to attend the funeral, bringing with her a small daughter. Yesterday this child and another child of Mrs. Hutton were taken suddenly and dangerously ill. Physicians were summoned and they pronounced the disease malignant diphtheria.

There is not another case of diphtheria in the city, and the physicians were at a loss to account for its origin. Upon investigation they found that a child of Mrs. Hutton had died 15 years ago of diphtheria. During her illness she had played with an assortment of toys, which, after her death, were gathered together by the father and stored in the garret of the home.

About a week ago the present victims found these toys, gathered them from their hiding place, and amused themselves with them. The physicians are certain that the germs have lingered about the toys all these years, and have caused the present illness.

WORK STOPPED

On the Alliance and Salem Street Car Line at Sebring—Trouble With the Sebrings.

Salem, August 24.—Fourteen teams which have been employed on the Alliance and Salem street car line stopped operations last evening and will not resume work again until the trouble with the Sebrings is settled. Rapid progress was being made by the officials of the company, but the action of the Sebrings have at present knocked their plan in the head.

The Sebrings wanted the street railway people to go through Sebring on the main thoroughfare of the burg. The route as laid out did not go this way and this action on the part of the company made the Sebrings angry and they are doing all in their power to block the street car men. The teams and men will at once be placed to work on the line between Alliance and Canton.

WHITE MAN WEDS NEGRESS

As a Result the Bride, Groom and Minister Who Married Them Are in Jail.

Wheeling, Aug. 24.—Frank Graves, a white man of good appearance and evident breeding, and Rev. J. R. Atkins, colored, pastor of the Ebenezer Baptist church, were arrested and are now in jail on a serious charge.

Graves, whose home is in this city, was married to Irene May Taylor, of Pittsburgh. Irene is a dark brown negress with nearly straight hair and rather good looking. Atkins performed the ceremony. The West Virginia statute provides a fine of $100 and a year in state prison for any white person who marries a negro, and a fine of $200 for the minister who performs the ceremony. The law provides no penalty to the negro contracting such an alliance.

The marriage license was issued because Graves failed to state that his bride was not white.

It Will Be Organized By Columbus Men to Utilize the Cuyahoga River for Power.

Akron, Aug. 24.—The company which proposes to utilize the Cuyahoga river for power is being promoted and financed by Columbus men, at the head of whom is G. A. Ritchie, an engineer of prominence. A million dollar company will be organized, and Mr. Ritchie claims that the necessary power plant can be installed for $575,000. He estimates that 30,000 horse power can be furnished at the lowest stage that the river has ever reached.

A CASE OF IT

Many More Like It in East Liverpool. The following case is but one of many occurring daily in East Liverpool. It is an easy matter to verify its correctness. Surely you cannot ask for better proof than such conclusive evidence:

Mrs. Edward Orr, of 220 Thompson street, says: "My sister, Mrs. Borland, of Pittsburg, while visiting us, recommended Doan's Kidney Pills so highly that I was induced to try them. I had severe attacks of kidney complaint. Some times I was so bad I could not get up; many times my neighbors came and found me lying on the lounge suffering, when I intended to do a big day's work. I was so miserable I could do nothing. After my sister told me of the pills I made up my mind to try them and got a box at the W. & W. pharmacy. They did just what they claimed they would do—cured me sound and well in a few days. My little girl was feeling poorly and had a sorrowful complexion, for some time I gave her a few doses and after the treatment she felt splendidly."

SPOILED CHILDREN.

Cure Them by Teaching Them Mutual Consideration.

A summer hotel is a good place to study children's dispositions. The little troop which races around the piazzas and plays hide and seek on the lawn has all the characteristics of a circle of grown ups. You see the miniature conceited man, the tiny woman back biter and the embryo flirts of the next decade; but, above all, you are painfully aware of the prevalence of spoiled children.

For instance, the lunch bell rings. Bobby, aged 4, dashes up to his mother and tries to pull her away from a woman friend with whom she is talking. "Mamma, I cry sharply. "Mamma, come; I want to eat!" No answer. "Mamma, mamma, m-a-mma-a-a-a! Do you hear?" (Stamp of foot.) "Hurry up!" Bobby's mother turns half around and in a mild manner remarks, "Bobby, be still."

But Bobby won't be still. He tugs, pulls, pushes and squirms until finally his mother is glad to get up and follow him into the dining room.

"What a horrid temper that child has!" a woman remarks, and another who is wiser answers: "Not a bit of it! It's a temper he is acquiring because of the way she is bringing him up. When he annoys her too much, she punishes him; otherwise she endures him as a necessary evil. At all times she is sweetly selfless."

"Interrupting." She gives him the best of everything and waits on him like a slave. By her very selfishness she is making him into the most selfish little brute alive."

Which was only too true.

Children are being brought up differently nowadays. It is no longer the fashion to quote the proverb, "Children should be seen, but not heard." On the contrary, the tots are allowed to assert their individuality and even encouraged to that effect. Well trained children are simply brought up to act like well bred men and women. Jack is told that his mother is a lady and that he must treat her as such if he wants to be treated like a grown up man. On the same principle he is taught to be courteous to his little sister and to give up his chair to her the way men do to girls. He mustn't interrupt, not because he is a child, but because well bred grown ups never do it. And so forth and so on. This method of mutual consideration is the only right way of bringing up a child.

HINTS TO THE HOUSEWIFE.

Things Which Are Useful to Remember.

Blacklead should be mixed either with turpentine or with soapy water, for thus a good polish is soon produced. The smell of onions may easily be removed from the hands by rubbing over with celery and then washing them with cold water.

Alabaster may be cleaned by applying a paste of starch mixed with water. Leave the paste on till dry, then remove with a stiff brush, when all dirt will come away with it.

To make red wash for bricks put an ounce of glue into three quarts of water and then gently heat it until the glue is dissolved, then add an ounce of alum. Mix together half a pound of venetian red and half an ounce of Spanish brown. Gradually pour the liquid on to the powder, stirring it well to make it smooth. Be sure that the bricks or hearthstones are quite clean, and then put on the color with a large flat brush. The color may be varied to suit individual taste by adding or diminishing the quantity of red or brown.

To clean black cloth mix one part of spirits of ammonia with three parts of hot water. Apply with a sponge and rinse off with clean water.

A Little Too Faithful.

A thief in Paris, being chased by the police, threw away during his flight the purse he had stolen and was in a fair way, after being taken to the police station, of being allowed to go free for lack of sufficient evidence to hold him when his faithful dog, which he had trained to fetch and carry, trotted into the station, wagging its tail, with the missing purse in its mouth.—Paris Journal.

A Bit of Evans' Wit.

When William M. Evans was secretary of state in President Hayes' cabinet, he said in an after dinner speech at Omaha: "I like the west. I like her self made men. And the more I travel west, the more I meet with her public men, the more I am satisfied of the truthfulness of the Bible statement that the wise men came from the east."

Sunny.

The word sunny borrowed its original significance from astrology. It described a person born under the influence of the sun, this luminary being supposed to exercise a beneficial influence on the character of the individual.

MEN QUIT WORK.

Strikers Induced Some Men to Leave Star Plant, at Pittsburg.

Others Besides Some of Union Leaders Present—Significant Move Made at W. Dewees Wood Plant, at McKeesport.

Pittsburg, Aug. 24.—Twelfth street was full of excitement last night. It was caused by conditions surrounding the operation of the Star mill of the American Tin Plate company, at American and Etna streets. The strikers say they succeeded in getting 11 men from the mill yesterday, five in the morning and six in the evening. They say also they induced three men, who came from Dennison, O., to take the places in the plant, not to work. The management of the mill claims all is going well, and the men imported two days ago are satisfied.

Conference Held at Pittsburg.

A conference between National President John Mitchell, of the United Mine Workers, and President T. J. Shaffer took place at Amalgamated association headquarters yesterday afternoon. The meeting between the two labor leaders was somewhat unexpected, according to President Shaffer, who said that he had received a telegram from Mr. Mitchell Thursday asking if he could see him for a short time, as he was on his way to Chicago from the anthracite fields. Soon after Mr. Mitchell's arrival yesterday it was announced that Grand Master Sergeant, of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen, was to take part in the conference, but he did not appear at any time. Others who did appear, however, were Ralph M. Easley, secretary of the National Civic Federation, of Chicago; Prof. J. W. Jenks, professor of political economy, of Cornell university, and Henry M. White, president of the National Garment Workers' union, of New York. These men spent four hours in close conference with President Shaffer. President Mitchell and Prof. Jenks left for Chicago last night at the conclusion of the meeting.

President Shaffer said in explanation that there was no formal conference during the day. The matter was wholly informal and those present during the afternoon were simply interested in learning the true situation, and in getting at the bottom of the strike and its causes. There was nothing done at the meeting of importance, he said, and while all details of the matter were gone over with great care and deliberation, it was well understood that it was for information and not for anything else. President Mitchell said after the meeting that he did not come to Pittsburg for any special purpose. He had nothing to give out for publication, and would not discuss the strike in any form. During the conference with President Shaffer, Secretary John Williams, Assistant Secretary M. F. Tighe and Manager B. I. Davis, of the Amalgamated Journal, were present most of the time.

The American Sheet Steel company made a somewhat significant move yesterday regarding the W. Dewees Wood plant at McKeesport. The company discharged its watchmen in the plant and the work done by them will be done by the foremen, who are paid annual salaries. A number of the clerks in the mill offices have been relieved from further duty and have been transferred to the general offices of the American Steel and Wire company in Pittsburg. It was announced that the Sheet Steel company had positively abandoned all idea of operating the Wood plant again, and these movements were in line with this determination.

Eczema for Forty Years.

The Unqualified Statement of a Well Known Attorney, St. Ignace, Mich.

Some of the cures made by Dr. A. W. Chase's Ointment of stubborn and long continued eczema and skin diseases are causing much comment. People are beginning to realize that this Ointment is a wonder worker with all kinds of skin trouble. Attorney Jas. J. Brown, St. Ignace, Michigan, writes as follows:

Dr. A. W. Chase Med. Co., Buffalo, N. Y.—Gents:—I cannot refrain from expressing my acknowledgment for the relief I have felt from Dr. Chase's Ointment. For 40 years I was afflicted with a skin disease which was located in one spot—on my leg. I have spent at a rough estimate five hundred dollars trying to effect a cure, and until I applied this ointment did I get relief. You are strangers to me and this letter is prompted directly because I want to say and I feel as though I ought to say it. That Chase's Ointment has effected a complete cure of my affliction. Three boxes did the work on my leg. I was also suffering from itching piles and applied the ointment which gave the best of satisfaction by affording me rest at night and rapidly causing the disease to disappear. I have received such relief and comfort from the ointment that I cannot withhold expressing my gratitude. I was so long afflicted with the tortures of eczema. I feel now that I am cured, a word of recommendation is due from me.

Yours truly,
JAS. J. BROWN.

Latest reports in Lawrenceville last night were to the effect that the strikers had succeeded in inducing seven of the skilled men operating the 12-inch mill in the lower Union mills of the Carnegie company to come out after the last turn this week and they would not return on Sunday night. The promise of these men is said to have been secured during the past week and was reiterated again last night. The officials of the plant deny that this is the case, and say that the men will report for duty as before. The strikers claim accessions to their ranks from the Clark mills during the past week and promise more before starting time on Sunday night.

HELD HIM AS A PRISONER.

Youngstown Strikers Detain Suspected Worker—Non-Unionists Did Not Arrive.

Youngstown, O., Aug. 24.—Several hundred strike sympathizers assembled around the Erie depot in Niles and waited an hour for a bunch of strike breakers who were reported to be coming through there for Lisbon. A message was received from Lisbon strikers that Henry Hollinger, who figured in the recent attempt to take strike breakers through Niles, would pass through Niles with another batch bound for the plant of the American Tin Plate company, in Lisbon.

The news spread and several hundred waited on all Lisbon bound trains. Hollinger was taken into custody by the men, but no one with the earmarks of a striker could be found. He was released after the last Lisbon bound train had pulled out.

PASSENGERS TERRORIZED.

Crazy Woman and Her Two Sons Go Screaming Among Them With a Big Jack Knife.

Corning, N. Y., Aug. 24.—Passengers on Erie Limited, No. 5, had a lively experience between Elmira and Corning. After the train left Elmira Thursday night a woman started running through the train screaming that some one was trying to place her under an anesthetic. She fought off her imaginary foe with a big jack knife. With her were two sons, aged 14 and 17 years, who were afflicted the same as she. The passengers were terrorized.

When the train reached here the woman made a dash, and with her hand smashed the large plate glass in the car vestibule and jumped from the train, followed by the two boys. They ran a block and then rushed into the Corning club.

The woman and her sons were finally caught by the police and a doctor dressed her numerous cuts and bruises. Yesterday she gave her name as Dr. Nellie Poor, and said her sons' names were Henry and Robert. They lived, she said at 616 Kimbark avenue, Chicago.

The woman and her sons had apparently taken some strong narcotic, which crazed them temporarily. They were apparently all right yesterday and proceeded for Chicago last night.

TEN CENTS ON THE DOLLAR.

Said That Depositors of a Cleveland Failed Bank Will Get No More.

Cleveland, Aug. 24.—Upon application of the Superior Realty and Improvement company, Judge Dollenbaugh, of the common pleas court, appointed Walter D. Sayle receiver for the Superior Street Savings and Bank company. The plaintiff in its petition charges, among other things, that the bank refuses to pay back about $4,000 deposited with it by the realty company. Receiver Sayle is quoted as saying after a brief examination of the books of the bank that he doubted if the depositors would realize more than 10 cents on the dollar. It is said that when the doors of the bank were closed Friday morning the total deposits did not exceed $80,000.

BUILD SUMMER HOMES THERE.

Meetings Held to Request Churches to Act—Already Methodists and Presbyterians Have Such Accommodations.

Warsaw, Ind., Aug. 24.—Separate denominational meetings of representatives attending the Winona Bible conference were held again, all of which took action relative to making Winona the religious center of the country by requesting their respective churches to erect summer homes on assembly grounds for the use of their pastors and families.

Already the Methodists and Presbyterians have such accommodations. Ministers of all denominations having annual salaries of $1,000 or less are provided for in the Moody memorial building, and home and foreign missionaries are cared for by the liberality of Rev. J. Wilbur Chapman, immediate work on these proposed cottage homes will be urged, that they may be ready for occupancy by next summer. The women attending the conference met and decided to extend missionary work in China more vigorously than ever. Nearly every denomination was represented. Morning devotional service was led by S. D. Gordon, of Cleveland, which was followed by a lecture, speaker being Rev. Cornelius Woolf, kin, of Brooklyn. Addresses were also given by Rev. W. G. Moorehead, of the Presbyterian Theological seminary, at Xenia, O., and Rev. George T. Purves, of New York. Rev. J. W. Vandever, of Scotland, conducted the third illustrated service for young people in the afternoon. Rev. J. Wilbur Chapman led the hillside service at sunset, which was attended by an immense throng. A sermon last night was delivered by Rev. John McNeill, of Glasgow. Rev. J. Willis Baer, of Boston, secretary of the World's United Christian Endeavor societies, will address the Bible conference on Sunday.

STRAPPED HIM TO A BOARD

Charles Nordstrom, Convicted of Murder, Collapses Completely in Sight of the Gallows.

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 24.—Charles W. Nordstrom was hanged here for the murder, on November 27, 1891, of William Mason.

Shortly after 9:30 Nordstrom was taken to a room adjoining the death chamber. He wept continually. It required the utmost efforts of five men to keep him on his feet. When he was taken into the death chamber he broke down entirely, crying in a childish voice, and praying that his life be spared. Then he collapsed entirely and fell to the floor.

Efforts to raise him and keep him on his feet were fruitless. Finally Sheriff Cuddehe ordered that a board be brought. To this Nordstrom was tied. It required six men to hold him for the operation. Several times Nordstrom seemed to speak, but his words were unintelligible. The six men who had held him raised his body on the board and with great effort succeeded in getting him upon the scaffold. There he was placed upright, while four men stood on the four sides of the trap and held him. In less than two seconds after the condemned man had been fastened the trap was sprung.

May Challenge Howison Later.

Washington, Aug. 24.—There is apparently no possibility for the lawyers for Admiral Schley to avoid a formal and public challenge of the eligibility of Admiral Howison. Acting Secretary Hackett has come to the conclusion that he will adhere to the decision that was reached by him. Admiral Crowinshield, Lieutenant Ward and Solicitor Hanna in a conference held just before the decision was announced.

COUNTY AND NEIGHBORHOOD

A county medical society is proposed in Carrollton.

Prof. J. F. Finebrock, of Carrollton, will have charge of Bowerston schools the coming term.

Mrs. James P. Cummings, of Carrollton, fell over the foot of the bed and fractured two of her ribs.

Jeremiah Glenn, aged 50 years, an employee of the Lake Shore railroad, was killed by a train at Youngstown.

Harry Atkins, of Chicago, suspected of having hydrophobia, is in jail at Newark, because a hospital would not receive him.

The carpenter and machinists of the Stirling Boiler company's plant, near Akron, joined the striking boiler-makers and nearly 800 men are now out.

The Youngstown and Sharon Electric Railway company has had the authorities of Hubbard enjoined from preventing the building of the road through the town.

At Martin's Ferry Mrs. Peter Wechper was aroused from her sleep by inhaling smoke and found the house in flames. The husband and wife succeeded in getting their seven children out through a window, but lost everything, including their clothing. The house burned.

KEEPING COOL.

It is agreeable to know there is in America at least one woman who can defy the heat. She is the Brooklyn ice woman. Yes, why not an ice woman? This one rises at 3 o'clock in the morning, harnesses her horse, with the aid of a small son, and off she goes, delivering crystal blocks to 134 customers. Her son carries the ice into the houses when he can, and when the chunks are too large his mother helps him.

The only unpleasant thing about the business for the intrepid ice woman is that she hates to have people think she is "queer," when this was the only course to take unless she let the family lose its living, for her husband, the original iceman, was laid up in hospital. Queer? Rather one envies a sitting woman, sitting under a duck awning with those great ice blocks behind her, the cold air from them sweeping all around her and driving off the heat waves.

We can't all be ice wagon drivers, though, so the next best thing is to keep cool in the stations of life whereunto we are called. In the matter of clothing women in summer have the advantage over men. The beautiful fabrics in cotton and linen which women can wear, both in shirt waist and skirt or in a gown all in one piece, are numberless. Infinite comfort is in these when they are kept dainty and clean, which goes, of course, for no real woman is ever anything else than dainty and clean. The most revolting object thinkable is a dirty woman, with gummy hair and dingy skin and garments. Fortunate for civilization that there are not more of this sort.

If you never knew it before, you are probably finding out this summer that there is nothing like water. With garments clean and fresh through frequent renovation, with the luxury of cold baths taken even twice a day in the hottest weather, any woman can keep herself and her family cool if, in addition, she herself only keeps cool in her mind.

One of the most important requisites for being comfortable is to keep cool in your mind, and this is how to do it: Don't fret or fume over the heat, no matter how great. Don't mention it to anybody. Don't keep saying: "Oh, dear me, I'll die! I'm roasted! I can't stand this any longer. I never slept a wink all night." Be serene in your mind. Don't think of the heat at all if you can help it, and when you must think of it picture immediately the ice woman upon the frozen crystal blocks.

The Gentleman's Psalm.
A reader of the Scriptures emphasizes the Fifteenth Psalm as the gentleman's psalm because it describes as among the many who are entitled to be considered as gentlemen "one who leadeth an incorrupt life, speaketh truth from his heart, doeth no evil to his neighbor, is lowly in his own eyes, keepeth his word even if it be to his own hindrance."

Not Alike.
The Professor—Don't use that phrase, my dear. It is grossly unscientific.
His Wife—What phrase? "As much alike as two peas?"
The Professor—Yes. Examined under the microscope, two peas will present startling differences.—Puck.

A Postmaster Writes:
"I wish to add my testimonial to the genuine merit of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. I have tried many remedies, but have found your Syrup Pepsin superior to all other laxatives and stomach medicines. My wife and I both use it and know it does all that you claim for it."

MEN QUIT WORK.

Strikers Induced Some Men to Leave Star Plant, at Pittsburg.

Others Besides Some of Union Leaders Present—Significant Move Made at W. Dewees Wood Plant, at McKeesport.

Pittsburg, Aug. 24.—Twelfth street was full of excitement last night. It was caused by conditions surrounding the operation of the Star mill of the American Tin Plate company, at Twelfth and Etna streets. The strikers say they succeeded in getting 11 men from the mill yesterday, five in the morning and six in the evening. They say also they induced three men, who came from Dennison, O., to take the places in the plant, not to work. The management of the mill claims all is going well, and the men imported two days ago are satisfied.

Conference Held at Pittsburg.

A conference between National President John Mitchell, of the United Mine Workers, and President T. J. Shaffer took place at Amalgamated association headquarters yesterday afternoon. The meeting between the two labor leaders was somewhat unexpected, according to President Shaffer, who said that he had received a telegram from Mr. Mitchell Thursday asking if he could see him for a short time, as he was on his way to Chicago from the anthracite fields. Soon after Mr. Mitchell's arrival yesterday it was announced that Grand Master Sargeant, of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen, was to take part in the conference, but he did not appear at any time. Others who did appear, however, were Ralph M. Easley, secretary of the National Civic Federation, of Chicago; Prof. J. W. Jenks, professor of political economy, of Cornell university, and Henry M. White, president of the National Garment Workers' union, of New York. These men spent four hours in close conference with President Shaffer. President Mitchell and Prof. Jenks left for Chicago last night at the conclusion of the meeting.

President Shaffer said in explanation that there was no formal conference during the day. The matter was wholly informal and those present during the afternoon were simply interested in learning the true situation, and in getting at the bottom of the strike and its causes. There was nothing done at the meeting of importance, he said, and while all details of the matter were gone over with great care and deliberation, it was well understood that it was for information and not for anything else. President Mitchell said after the meeting that he did not come to Pittsburg for any special purpose. He had nothing to give out for publication, and would not discuss the strike in any form. During the conference with President Shaffer, Secretary John Williams, Assistant Secretary M. F. Tighe and Manager B. I. Davis, of The Amalgamated Journal, were present most of the time.

The American Sheet Steel company made a somewhat significant move yesterday regarding the W. Dewees Wood plant at McKeesport. The company discharged its watchmen in the plant and the work done by them will be done by the foremen, who are paid annual salaries. A number of the clerks in the mill offices have been relieved from further duty and have been transferred to the general offices of the American Steel and Wire company in Pittsburg. It was announced that the Sheet Steel company had positively abandoned all idea of operating the Wood plant again, and these movements were in line with this determination.

Eczema for Forty Years.

The Unqualified Statement of a Well Known Attorney, St. Ignace, Mich.

Some of the cures made by Dr. A. W. Chase's Ointment of stubborn and long continued eczema and skin diseases are causing much comment. People are beginning to realize that this Ointment is a wonder worker with all kinds of skin trouble. Attorney Jas. J. Brown, St. Ignace, Michigan, writes as follows:

Dr. A. W. Chase Med. Co., Buffalo, N. Y.—Gents:—I cannot refrain from expressing my acknowledgment for the relief I have felt from Dr. Chase's Ointment. For 40 years I was afflicted with a skin disease which was located in one spot—on my leg. I have spent at a rough estimate five hundred dollars trying to effect a cure, and not until I applied this ointment did I get relief. You are strangers to me and this letter is prompted directly because I want to say and I feel as though I ought to say it. That Chase's Ointment has effected a complete cure of my affliction. Three boxes did the work on my leg. I was also suffering from itching piles and applied the ointment which gave the best of satisfaction by affording me rest at night and rapidly causing the disease to disappear. I have received such relief and comfort from the ointment that I cannot withhold expressing my gratitude. I was not so afflicted with the tortures of eczema. I feel now that I am cured, a word of recommendation is due from me.

Yours truly,
JAS. J. BROWN.

Latest reports in Lawrenceville last night were to the effect that the strikers had succeeded in inducing seven of the skilled men operating the 12-inch mill in the lower Union mills of the Carnegie company to come out after the last turn this week and they would not return on Sunday night. The promise of these men is said to have been secured during the past week and was reiterated again last night. The officials of the plant deny that this is the case, and say that the men will report for duty as before. The strikers claim accessions to their ranks from the Clark mills during the past week and promise more before starting time on Sunday night.

HELD HIM AS A PRISONER.

Youngstown Strikers Detain Suspected Worker—Non-Unionists Did Not Arrive.

Youngstown, O., Aug. 24.—Several hundred strike sympathizers assembled around the Erie depot in Niles and waited an hour for a bunch of strike breakers who were reported to be coming through there for Lisbon. A message was received from Lisbon strikers that Henry Hollinger, who figured in the recent attempt to take strike breakers through Niles, would pass through Niles with another batch bound for the plant of the American Tin Plate company, in Lisbon.

The news spread and several hundred waited on all Lisbon bound trains. Hollinger was taken into custody by the men, but no one with the earmarks of a striker could be found. He was released after the last Lisbon bound train had pulled out.

PASSENGERS TERRORIZED.

Crazy Woman and Her Two Sons Go Screaming Among Them With a Big Jack Knife.

Corning, N. Y., Aug. 24.—Passengers on Erie Limited, No. 5, had a lively experience between Elmira and Corning. After the train left Elmira Thursday night a woman started running through the train screaming that some one was trying to place her under an anesthetic. She fought off her imaginary foe with a big jack knife. With her were two sons, aged 14 and 17 years, who were afflicted the same as she. The passengers were terrorized.

When the train reached here the woman made a dash, and with her hand smashed the large plate glass in the car vestibule and jumped from the train, followed by the two boys. They ran a block and then rushed into the Corning club.

The woman and her sons were finally caught by the police and a doctor dressed her numerous cuts and bruises. Yesterday she gave her name as Dr. Nellie Poor, and said her sons' names were Henry and Robert. They lived, she said at 616 Kimbark avenue, Chicago.

The woman and her sons had apparently taken some strong narcotic, which crazed them temporarily. They were apparently all right yesterday and proceeded for Chicago last night.

TEN CENTS ON THE DOLLAR.

Said That Depositors of a Cleveland Failed Bank Will Get No More.

Cleveland, Aug. 24.—Upon application of the Superior Realty and Improvement company, Judge Dellenbaugh, of the common pleas court, appointed Walter D. Sayle receiver for the Superior Street Savings and Banking company. The plaintiff in its petition charges, among other things, that the bank refuses to pay back about $4,000 deposited with it by the realty company.

Receiver Sayle is quoted as saying after a brief examination of the books of the bank that he doubted if the depositors would realize more than 10 cents on the dollar. It is said that when the doors of the bank were closed Friday morning the total deposits did not exceed $50,000.

BUILD SUMMER HOMES THERE.

Meetings Held to Request Churches to Act—Already Methodists and Presbyterians Have Such Accommodations.

Warsaw, Ind., Aug. 24.—Separate denominational meetings of representatives attending the Winona Bible conference were held again, all of which took action relative to making Winona the religious center of the country by requesting their respective churches to erect summer homes on assembly grounds for the use of their pastors and families.

Already the Methodists and Presbyterians have such accommodations. Ministers of all denominations having annual salaries of $1,000 or less are provided for in the Moody memorial building, and home and foreign missionaries are cared for by the liberality of Rev. J. Wilbur Chapman, immediate work on these proposed cottage homes will be urged, that they may be ready for occupancy by next summer. The women attending the conference met and decided to extend missionary work in China more vigorously than ever. Nearly every denomination was represented. Morning devotional service was led by S. D. Gordon, of Cleveland, which was followed by a lecture, the speaker being Rev. Cornelius Woolfkin, of Brooklyn. Addresses were also given by Rev. W. G. There he was placed upright, while four men stood on the four sides of the trap and held him. In less than two seconds after the condemned man had been fastened the trap was sprung.

May Challenge Howison Later.

Washington, Aug. 24.—There is apparently no possibility for the lawyers for Admiral Schley to avoid a formal and public challenge of the eligibility of Admiral Howison. Acting Secretary Hackett has come to the conclusion that he will adhere to the decision that was reached by him, Admiral Crovinschild, Lieutenant Ward and Solicitor Hanna in a conference held just before the decision was announced.

COUNTY AND NEIGHBORHOOD

A county medical society is proposed in Carrollton.

Prof. J. F. Finebrock, of Carrollton, will have charge of Bowerton schools the coming term.

Mrs. James P. Cummings, of Carrollton, fell over the foot of the bed and fractured two of her ribs.

Jeremiah Glenn, aged 50 years, an employee of the Lake Shore railroad, was killed by a train at Youngstown.

Harry Atkins, of Chicago, suspected of having hydrophobia, is in jail at Newark, because a hospital would not receive him.

The carpenter and machinists of the Stirling Boiler company's plant, near Akron, joined the striking boiler-makers and nearly 800 men are now out.

The Youngstown and Sharon Electric Railway company has had the authorities of Hubbard enjoined from preventing the building of the road through the town.

At Martin's Ferry Mrs. Peter Wecker was aroused from her sleep by inhaling smoke and found the house in flames. The husband and wife succeeded in getting their seven children out through a window, but lost everything, including their clothing. The house burned.

KEEPING COOL.

It is agreeable to know there is in America at least one woman who can defy the heat. She is the Brooklyn ice woman. Yes, why not an ice woman? This one rises at 3 o'clock in the morning, harnesses her horse, with the aid of a small son, and off she goes, delivering crystal blocks to 134 customers. Her son carries the ice into the houses when he can, and when the chunks are too large his mother helps him.

The only unpleasant thing about the business for the intrepid ice woman is that she hates to have people think she is "queer," when this was the only course to take unless she let the family lose its living, for her husband, the original iceman, was laid up in hospital. Queer? Rather one envies that woman, sitting up there under a duck awning with those great ice blocks behind her, the cold air from them sweeping all around her and driving off the heat waves.

We can't all be ice wagon drivers, though, so the next best thing is to keep cool in the stations of life whereunto we are called. In the matter of clothing women in summer have the advantage over men. The beautiful fabrics in cotton and linen which women can wear, both in shirt waist and skirt or in a gown all in one piece, are numberless. Infinite comfort is in these when they are kept dainty and clean, which goes, of course, for no real woman is ever anything else than dainty and clean. The most revolting object thinkable is a dirty woman, with gummy hair and dingy skin and garments. Fortunate for civilization that there are not more of this sort.

If you never knew it before, you are probably finding out this summer that there is nothing like water. With garments clean and fresh through frequent renovation, with the luxury of cold baths taken even twice a day in the hottest weather, any woman can keep herself and her family cool if, in addition, she herself only keeps cool in her mind.

One of the most important requisites for being comfortable is to keep cool in your mind, and this is how to do it: Don't fret or fume over the heat, no matter how great. Don't mention it to anybody. Don't keep saying: "Oh, dear me, I'll die! I'm roasted! I can't stand this any longer. I never slept a wink all night." Be serene in your mind. Don't think of the heat at all if you can help it, and when you must think of it picture immediately the ice woman upon the frozen crystal blocks.

RURAL DELIVERY GROWTH.

The system of free delivery of mail
at the farm homestead is developing
in the United States by great strides.
The first routes bearing the name
"rural free delivery" were established on October 1, 1896, at Halltown, Uvila and Charlestown, W. Va. Others followed at once, and by the close of the fiscal year the experiment showed satisfactory results. There were 44
routes in the fall of 1897. This number increased to 128 in 1898, and on November 1, 1899, had jumped to 634.
They radiated from 383 distributing points and served a population of 452, 735 persons. On June 30, 1900, a little more than six months later, the
for a population of 879,127, and in the next four months the system again
more than doubled its proportions,
showing on November 1, 1900, 2,551
routes for 1,801,524 persons, and there were also at that date 2,158 applications for the establishment of new routes.

The whole of the United States is now laid out in four divisions for the inauguration and maintenance of this service, and the work is going forward
with steadily increasing volume. The
today is 5,062, and by the end of the current fiscal year the total, it is expected, will be 8,000. There have just been added to the service 30 new routes, which involved the discontinuance of almost as many postoffices
or star routes.

In facilitating business, promoting reading habits and the spread of intelligence, the rural free delivery system is doing a grand work. Almost equally important is the fact that it
is causing farming districts to improve the highways, making them
passable at all seasons.

FAMILY TREES TO ORDER.

A "college of heraldry" has been established in New York. Its object is to furnish coats of arms, crests, escutcheons, family trees and other things more ornamental and useful
for which silly customers are willing to pay. American families who wished to establish their claims to an aristocratic or titled lineage have hitherto been compelled to go abroad to do so.
Now an American institution proposes to relieve them of the trouble and annoyance of such work. It is often said that a fool and his money are soon parted. The harmless lunatics
who will feel better if they can trace their ancestry back to some cattle-stealing baron or some pirate of the middles ages might spend their money even more unwisely than by putting it into family trees built to order. Let them get what satisfaction they can from such investments.

The world will not be deceived. It takes brains and worth to establish a genuine aristocracy. Rank is but the guinea's stamp, as Burns asserted. A man whose only claim to distinction
rests on something that his grandfather or some remote ancestor did is
a fool if he expects sensible people
to gaze at him in awe or admiration.

A Harrisburg man claims to have
invented a miraculous telegraphic system, superior to Marconi's. He has probably manipulated wires, as many Pennsylvanians do, until he is tired of it.

"Mr. Bryan makes no claim to leadership," says Mr. Bryan's paper. It is evident that Mr. Bryan has heard from Ohio.

Peaches are plentiful from all reports except those which the fruit dealer gives you.

The loss caused by the fire at the Dresden pottery one week ago today
will not be adjusted until Thursday
next. The adjusters are now enjoying an outing at Put-in-Bay. One of the members of the Dresden company
said yesterday afternoon that the company would commence rebuilding its plant as soon as the loss was adjusted, and that every little change would
be made in the buildings.

The company yesterday afternoon
commenced making clay and next Monday the plant would be in full operation. Shipments will also be made Monday. There are four kilns of ware ready for the warehouse. Of course this ware will not be placed in stock, but will be shipped immediately.

The story has become circulated that the company would not be ready to make ware until the first of the year, but all the employees have received orders to report for duty Monday. Several salesmen for this plant, who are now in the city, will leave for their respective territories within a few weeks with a complete line
of samples for the fall and winter
trade.

All the locals of the National Brotherhood of Operative Pottery will make an attempt to secure the prize that will be offered by Trades and Labor Council for the largest number of men that any local has in line. It has been said by some of the officers of No. 9, that if all the members of that local turn out in the Labor day
parade, the prize is as good as secured,
as the membership of this local is said
to be far in advance of any other local in this city or Wellsville. The caps that will be worn by the kilnmen
on this occasion have been purchased and cost 25 cents each. They are very neat. The miniature kiln that is now in the office of the national officers will be taken down, cleaned and car-
parade.

At a meeting of kilnmen's local No.
9, held last evening in Brotherhood hall, it was decided to participate in the Labor day parade to be given at Wellsville during the morning of that day. Five new members were obligated at this meeting, and at the next session no less than seven applications
for membership will be considered.
These applications are from new apprentices who are now being placed at work in the various potteries. It is said the membership of this local is increasing more rapidly than any other local in the Brotherhood. The local numbers several hundred members.

The announcement has been made that in the future all plain ware made by the East Liverpool Potteries company will be manufactured at the East Liverpool plant. For some time this sort of ware has been made at the Diamond pottery, but it is said that in the future festoon ware will be made there, and all the plain shapes that were made at the Diamond in the past will be discarded.
Every department of the Diamond po-tery is working full, and the same conditions prevail at all the other factories of the East Liverpool Potteries
company.

Charles Marshall, an employe of the Sevres pottery, met with an accident
Wednesday afternoon. He was scuffling with a fellow workman who had a polishing knife in his hand. The blade flew from the handle and struck Marshall in the left arm, inflicting a painful wound. He was taken to the office of Dr. W. J. Taylor, where his injury was dressed. It required four stitches to close the wound.

The toilet set ordered by the Improved Order of Red Men several months ago from the George C. Murphy Pottery company, is ready for shipment. The set is replete with emblems of the order and was made specially for the state convention, which was held at Columbus several months ago. It will be shipped to the lodge claiming the prize not later than next week.

The Vance Faience company, of Tiltonville, O., in order to get ready for a new line of goods have had made by the Crossley Manufacturing company, of Trenton, N. J., a big jigger that is really "big." This jigger is 22x11, with a movement two feet up and down; also an elliptical motion. It was built on a special order, and any-

on it.

To a stranger it would be surprising to learn that no less than four cars of ware are shipped from the Chester potteries daily, and on some occasions this number has been exceeded. All these cars are packed to the limit, and are not touched until
the car is placed in a transfer station,
either at Pittsburg or Columbus.

Local union No. 12, at a meeting
which will be held next Tuesday evening, will complete arrangements
for the Labor day parade. The boys
all claim that they will have a full line, as most all the members have stated they propose to try to capture the prize.

Robert Fraser, a finisher at Taylor-
Lee & Smith's who was poisoned
while on a picnic at Silver Lake two weeks ago and has been compelled to be off duty since, has recovered,
and will resume his duties Monday.

William Bennett has taken a position as kilnman at the Diamond po-tery. He resides at Chester. Quite a number of kilnmen employed at this plant reside across the river.

Hugh Maley, a jiggerman at the Diamond pottery, has purchased a residence property in the West End.
Maley is one of the steadiest workmen at the Diamond.

Harry Joyce has resigned his position at the Sevres and has accepted
one as finisher for a dishmaker at the new end of Knowles, Taylor &
Knowles.

EFFECT OF MALTED MILK

Unionport Woman Goes Insane And Fancies She Is a Maltese
Cat.

Steubenville, Aug. 24.—Mrs. Rebecca Tipton, of Unionport, has gone suddenly insane with the strangest pre-sentiment on record in the probate court and due to reasons that are unique.

While run down physically and sick
she was advised to use malted milk.
The word "malted" in some way suggested to her that she was a Maltese cat, and she began from that time on to lap up milk or other food given
her like a cat, and she tells everybody
she is a Maltese cat, and has the hallucination so bad she has gone insane
and is to be sent to the State hospital
at Columbus. The examining physician pronounces it the strangest case

RURAL DELIVERY GROWTH.

The system of free delivery of mail
at the farm homestead is developing
in the United States by great strides.
The first routes bearing the name
"rural free delivery" were established
on October 1, 1896, at Halltown, Uvil-la and Charlestown, W. Va. Others followed at once, and by the close of the fiscal year the experiment showed
satisfactory results. There were 44
routes in the fall of 1897. This number increased to 128 in 1898, and on November 1, 1899, had jumped to 634.
They radiated from 383 distributing
points and served a population of 452-735 persons. On June 30, 1900, a little more than six months later, the
for a population of 879,127, and in the next four months the system again
more than doubled its proportions,
showing on November 1, 1900, 2,551
routes for 1,801,524 persons, and there were also at that date 2,158 applications for the establishment of new routes.

The whole of the United States is now laid out in four divisions for the inauguration and maintenance of this
with steadily increasing volume. The
today is 5,062, and by the end of the current fiscal year the total, it is ex-
been added to the service 30 new routes, which involved the discontinuance of almost as many postoffice
or star routes.

In facilitating business, promoting reading habits and the spread of intelligence, the rural free delivery system is doing a grand work. Almost equally important is the fact that it
is causing farming districts to improve the highways, making them

FAMILY TREES TO ORDER.

A "college of heraldry" has been established in New York. Its object is to furnish coats of arms, crests, escutcheons, family trees and other things more ornamental and useful
for which silly customers are willing
to establish their claims to an aristocratic or titled lineage have hitherto
been compelled to go abroad to do so.
Now an American institution proposes
to relieve them of the trouble and annoyance of such work. It is often said that a fool and his money are
soon parted. The harmless lunatics
who will feel better if they can trace
their ancestry back to some cattle-
stealing baron or some pirate of the middle ages might spend their money even more unwisely than by putting it into family trees built to
order. Let them get what satisfaction they can from such investments.

The world will not be deceived. It takes brains and worth to establish a genuine aristocracy. Rank is but the guinea's stamp, as Burns asserted. A man whose only claim to distinction
rests on something that his grandfather or some remote ancestor did is
a fool if he expects sensible people
to gaze at him in awe or admiration.

invented a miraculous telegraphic
system, superior to Marconi's. He
has probably manipulated wires, as many Pennsylvanians do, until he is tired of it.

"Mr. Bryan makes no claim to leadership," says Mr. Bryan's paper. It is evident that Mr. Bryan has heard
from Ohio.

Peaches are plentiful from all reports except those which the fruit dealer gives you.

The loss caused by the fire at the Dresden pottery one week ago today
will not be adjusted until Thursday
next. The adjusters are now enjoying an outing at Put-in-Bay. One of the members of the Dresden company
said yesterday afternoon that the company would commence rebuilding its
plant as soon as the loss was adjusted, and that every little change would
be made in the buildings.

The company yesterday afternoon
commenced making clay and next Monday the plant would be in full operation. Shipments will also be made Monday. There are four kilns of ware ready for the warehouse. Of course this ware will not be placed in stock, but will be shipped immediately.

The story has become circulated
that the company would not be ready
to make ware until the first of the
year, but all the employees have received orders to report for duty Monday. Several salesmen for this plant,
who are now in the city, will leave
for their respective territories with-
in a few weeks with a complete line
of samples for the fall and winter
trade.

All the locals of the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters will make an attempt to secure the prize that will be offered by Trades and Labor Council for the largest number of men that any local has in line. It has been said by some of the officers
of No. 9, that if all the members of
that local turn out in the Labor day
parade, the prize is as good as secured,
as the membership of this local is said
to be far in advance of any other local in this city or Wellsville. The
caps that will be worn by the kilnmen
on this occasion have been purchased
and cost 25 cents each. They are very neat. The miniature kiln that is now
in the office of the national officers
will be taken down, cleaned and car-
parade.

At a meeting of kilnmen's local No.
9, held last evening in Brotherhood
hall, it was decided to participate in the Labor day parade to be given at Wellsville during the morning of that
day. Five new members were obligated at this meeting, and at the next session no less than seven applications
for membership will be considered.
These applications are from new apprentices who are now being placed at work in the various potteries. It is
increasing more rapidly than any other local in the Brotherhood. The local numbers several hundred members.

The announcement has been made
that in the future all plain ware made
by the East Liverpool Potteries company will be manufactured at the East Liverpool plant. For some time
this sort of ware has been made at
the Diamond pottery, but it is said
that in the future festoon ware will
be made there, and all the plain
shapes that were made at the Diamond in the past will be discarded.
Every department of the Diamond pottery is working full, and the same conditions prevail at all the other factor-
company.

Charles Marshall, an employee of the Sevres pottery, met with an accident
Wednesday afternoon. He was scuffling with a fellow workman who had a polishing knife in his hand. The blade flew from the handle and
struck Marshall in the left arm, inflicting a painful wound. He was taken to the office of Dr. W. J. Taylor,
where his injury was dressed. It required four stitches to close the
wound.

The toilet set ordered by the improved Order of Red Men several months ago from the George C. Murphy Pottery company, is ready for shipment. The set is replete with emblems of the order and was made specially for the state convention, which
was held at Columbus several months
ago. It will be shipped to the lodge claiming the prize not later than next
week.

The Vance Faience company, of Til-
tonville, O., in order to get ready for a new line of goods have had made by the Crossley Manufacturing company,
of Trenton, N. J., a big jigger that is really "big." This jigger is 22x11,
with a movement two feet up and
was built on a special order, and any-

on it.

To a stranger it would be surprising to learn that no less than four cars of ware are shipped from the Chester potteries daily, and on some occasions this number has been exceeded. All these cars are packed to
the limit, and are not touched until
the car is placed in a transfer station,
either at Pittsburg or Columbus.

Local union No. 12, at a meeting
which will be held next Tuesday
evening, will complete arrangements
for the Labor day parade. The boys
line, as most all the members have stated they propose to try to capture
the prize.

Robert Fraser, a finisher at Taylor, Lee & Smith's who was poisoned
while on a picnic at Silver Lake two weeks ago and has been compelled
to be off duty since, has recovered,
and will resume his duties Monday.

William Bennett has taken a position as kilnman at the Diamond pottery. He resides at Chester. Quite a number of kilnmen employed at this plant reside across the river.

Hugh Maley, a jiggerman at the Diamond pottery, has purchased a
residence property in the West End.
Maley is one of the steady workmen at the Diamond.

Harry Joyce has resigned his position at the Sevres and has accepted
one as finisher for a dishmaker at the new end of Knowles, Taylor &
Knowles'.

The frame work of the large new warehouse at Sherwood Bros.' pottery,
New Brighton, has been completed and is now ready for the sheet iron sidings.

E. M. Criss has resigned his position as printer at the Thompson pottery and has accepted a similar one at Taylor, Lee & Smith.

Thomas Putnam, a jiggerman at the Sevres plant, has resigned his position and is now working out his two weeks'
notice.

George Bloor has resigned his position as presser at the East Liverpool
pottery.

PANHANDLE PICNIC

A Great Event to Occur at Rock Springs Park September 27.

J. Howard Maxwell, manager of Rock Springs park, went to New Cumberland yesterday afternoon, where the final arrangements for the holding of the Hancock county picnic September 27 were closed. This event is always looked forward to by the residents of that county as a gala day, and it is expected by the park management that at least 10,000 persons will visit the park on that date. The Hancock Railroad company will run two special trains to the park on that date, besides extra coaches will be attached to all regular trains.

The first special train will leave the park for down river points at 6:30 o'clock, while the second train will leave Chester at 11:30 o'clock. The committee who will have charge of this event are now working on a program that will excel anything of the past; hence the picnic is sure to be of unusual interest.

TWO CARLOADS OF CATTLE

Brought to Chester By Joseph Laughlin, a Calcutta Farmer.

Joe Laughlin, a well known farmer residing near Calcutta, yesterday afternoon received two carloads of cattle at the Chester station. They were unloaded last night and early this morning were driven to the Laughlin farm. In crossing the bridge the bridge, the latter company charged five cents a head toll.

As soon as the cattle came from the cars they drank all the water lying in small pools about the station. They had been two days in coming from the west to Chester, and it is said the owner of the cattle did not want to unload them until this morning. Station Agent James Stewart would not hear to this and unlocked the car doors last evening.

BY SPECIAL TRAIN

A Thousand Picnickers Came From Beaver Falls to Rock Springs Today.

One of the best picnics of the season was at Rock Springs park today. It was the first annual outing of the Standard Gauge Steel company and Keystone Driller company, of Beaver Falls. A special train composed of 15 coaches hauled by Fort Wayne engine No. 102 arrived here at 10:45 this morning with about 1,000 excursionists on board. Nine special summer cars of the Rock Springs line were in waiting on Union street and the picnickers were soon landed at the park.

The train will return to Beaver Falls from the C. & P. station this evening at 8:30 o'clock.

DISLOCATED A FINGER

Beaver Falls Picnikers Meets With an Accident While Playing Ball.

Charles Murray, of Beaver, met with an accident shortly after his arrival at the park this morning. Some of the young men of the picnickers were playing ball, and Murray, who was in the field, made an attempt to catch a fly. He was shoved by a companion and the ball struck him on the large finger of the right hand, causing a compound dislocation, the bone at the first joint protruding through the flesh about half an inch. He was taken to the office of Dr. Lewis, where the injured member was dressed.

work next week, but it could not be verified.

CHESTER NOTES.

Mrs. John Spencer returned to her home at Franklin, Pa., after a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Geo. A. Arner.

The school board held a meeting this afternoon for the purpose of letting the contract for the seats for the new school building.

A Singing Earthworm.

We have heard of a good many creatures which sing, including Mr. Ruskin's singing serpents in the valley of Diamonds, yet Mr. Annandale has assured us that there exists in the Malay peninsula a being which the Malays described under the above heading.

It lives in a burrow in the ground and cheerfully sings, or at least chirps. But the Malays call everything that creeps a worm, and the beast which they really mean is a large kind of cricket with a voice.

In the very same part of the world, however, is a real earthworm, a huge monster three or four feet in length, which was discovered not long ago and which really has a voice, or at least can produce a sound. The Latin name of muscivora has been given to it on that account.

When it is foraging about near the surface of the ground, the numerous sharp little bristles implanted in its skin, which enable it to hold on to the earth, strike against stones and give out a musical sound. This is rather more like twanging a "Jew's harp" than singing. But any sort of sound from these silent, gliding creatures is singing.—London Express.

Jackson and the Tailor's Bill.

A gentleman in Pennsylvania has a queer document which came into his family's possession many years ago and shows an interesting phase of Andrew Jackson's character as well as a glimpse of the simple times of his presidential term.

It appears that a clerk in the state department contracted a tailor's bill for $64.50, and the tailor, finding himself unable to collect the amount, laid the matter before the president in an appealing letter.

Jackson promptly decided that this was a matter to which he must attend personally, so he transmitted the tailor's letter to the secretary of state, with this strong recommendation:

Referred to the secretary of state. If on inquiry the fact stated be true, unless the clerk pays up his debt let him be forthwith discharged.

The government would become a party to such swindling provided it permitted its officers to become indebted for necessities and not see that they paid their debts out of their salaries.

Honest men will pay their debts. Dishonest men must not be employed by the government.

A. J.

This case is referred to Ames Kendall, Esq., and on $10 per month being secured to C. E. Kioff, Mr. Gooch to be continued in his office.

Lemon Juice.

A little lemon juice in the water in which fish is boiled will make it desirably solid, the too frequent lack of a boiled fish. Sweetbreads left for an hour before cooking in a bath of rather strong dilution of lemon juice are made white and firm. A few drops of lemon juice are declared to add a delicious flavor to scrambled eggs. But a quite new use is in the preparation of rolled beef. This requires a rib roast, with the bones cut out. The juice of a lemon is squeezed over the meat, and the skin of it rolled up in it. The result is a tender, juicy, aromatic meat, very grateful to the palate. The Brazilian beef is highly esteemed for its flavor, and this is because the cattle pasture where lemons are plentiful and eat the fallen fruit, which flavors their flesh.—What to Eat.

Wedding Days Preferred.

The adage "Happy is the bride that the sun shines on" is one that is unknown in many lands. A Breton bride takes it unhappily when the day of her wedding dawns bright and sunny. Rain on her marriage morn is held to signify that all her tears are shed and that she will therefore have a happy married life.

It is said that the Erza of Simbrisk call the day before the wedding the weeping day, and the bride and her girl friends weep as much as possible with the idea of getting the mourning of life over, so that only what is joyful may remain. In some countries this result is attained by sousing the bride with water. The Greeks think that a thorough drenching of the bride will bring her lasting good fortune.

DELAY CAUSES UNEASINESS.

Foreigners Worried Over China's Tardiness In Signing Protocol.

Li Having a Time of It.

Pekin, Aug. 24.—The delay of the Chinese plenipotentiaries in signing the protocol is causing some uneasiness in the foreign community here, although the ministers of the powers do not think that China intends to defy the powers by ultimately refusing to sign. Indeed, they believe China is anxious to wind up the negotiations speedily.

Decrees rectifying the punishment and suspending the examinations will be issued before the Chinese signatures are affixed.

Prince Ching, at the request of the empress dowager, telegraphed to her verbatim the restrictions as to the importations of arms.

Li Hung Chang, having practically conducted all the active negotiations, has retired into the background, leaving to Prince Ching the responsibility of consummating the work. Earl Li finds himself in the same precarious position that he occupied at the close of the negotiations following the war with Japan. The native press is unanimous in violently denouncing him for what is called his surrender to the foreigners; and a number of officials have petitioned the emperor to punish him for betraying his country.

ROOSEVELT CHILDREN ILL.

Two of Them in a Hospital, at New York.

New York, Aug. 24.—Vice President Roosevelt's youngest child, Quintin, 4 years old, is now in Roosevelt hospital as well as his sister Alice. The boy was operated upon Thursday by Dr. George E. Brewer, one of the visiting surgeons in the hospital. It is expected that he will be well in a reasonable length of time. The vice president spent all Friday afternoon by the beds of his children.

Miss Alice Roosevelt, the vice president's eldest child, was operated upon a week ago Thursday. She had an abscess of the jaw and the operation she underwent was very successful. It is expected she will leave the hospital today. Colonel Roosevelt and his wife secured a private apartment in the hospital for themselves, so they would watch the progress of their daughter, and they will continue to keep the room while their boy is ill. His unexpected serious illness has somewhat upset the plans of the vice president, but, it is believed, not seriously.

GUESSING CONTESTS LEGAL.

Newspaper Opinion Rendered by Attorney General Knox.

Washington, Aug. 24.—Attorney General Knox rendered to the postmaster general an opinion in the case of a western newspaper which some time ago inaugurated a guessing contest, offering prizes for the best estimates of Pan-American exposition admissions.

The attorney general says that unless plainly forbidden by law the remedy is with congress and not with the department, and continues: "I am unable to reach the conclusion that the giving of prizes as a reward for superior intelligence in estimates, where the human intellect is exercised in making such estimates, is within the purview of the statute."

DOG FOR THE PRINCE.

Newfoundland Children to Present One to Young Edward.

St. Johns, N. F., Aug. 24.—The government has received a telegram from the Duke of Cornwall and York, filed at Cape Town, announcing that he will attend the two state dinners to be given in government house, St. Johns, on the two evenings of his stay in Newfoundland.

The children of Newfoundland will present to Prince Edward, eldest son of the Duke of Cornwall and York, a Newfoundland dog.

RAIDED POOL ROOMS;

ARRESTED PROPRIETORS.

Cincinnati, Aug. 24.—The trouble of the pool rooms across the river were renewed when Sheriff Miller, of Campbell county, raided and arrested the proprietors of the room which was opened Wednesday just outside of the corporate line of Newport, Ky. The rooms closed in Covington on Tuesday, owing to the opposition of the local courts, and it was expected that they could operate in their new location unmolested. Affidavits were made charging the proprietors and attaches with keeping a disorderly house. They were bound over to the grand jury in bonds of $500, which were furnished.

FIRED UPON MOB;

LYNCHING ATTEMPT FAILS.

Lebanon, Ky., Aug. 24.—An unsuccessful attempt was made to lynch Dan Hotten and Charles Shipp, who are confined in the Marion county jail, charged with murder. The mob called at the house of Jailer Clayton, but his wife refused them the keys to the jail. They then went to the jail and began to batter the doors, when Officer Brent, who was secreted in a coal shed nearby, opened fire upon them. The mob returned the fire, but no one was hit. They then dispersed.

Back From the Philippines.

About all the volunteers are back from the Philippines, where they have had a long, hard experience of soldier life. Nearly all report the health of the soldiers good, except for frequent attacks of dysentery and diarrhoea. The 51st Iowa regiment on leaving San Francisco took a case of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy with them, and many soldiers carried single bottles. This was soon used up and found so effective that a constant demand for it resulted in a large shipment being made from the factory at Des Moines. A teaspoonful of it in a little water always has the desired effect. Sold by Alvin H. Bulger, Druggist.

PANHANDLE PICNIC

A Great Event to Occur at Rock Springs Park September 27.

J. Howard Maxwell, manager of Rock Springs park, went to New Cumberland yesterday afternoon, where the final arrangements for the holding of the Hancock county picnic September 27 were closed. This event is always looked forward to by the residents of that county as a gala day, and it is expected by the park management that at least 10,000 persons will visit the park on that date. The Panhandle Railroad company will run two special trains to the park on that date, besides extra coaches will be attached to all regular trains.

The first special train will leave the park for down river points at 6:30 o'clock, while the second train will leave Chester at 11:30 o'clock. The committee who will have charge of this event are now working on a program that will excel anything of the past; hence the picnic is sure to be of unusual interest.

TWO CARLOADS OF CATTLE

Brought to Chester By Joseph Laughlin, a Calcutta Farmer.

Joe Laughlin, a well known farmer residing near Calcutta, yesterday afternoon received two carloads of cattle at the Chester station. They were unloaded last night and early this morning were driven to the Laughlin farm. In crossing the bridge the bridge, the latter company charged five cents a head toll.

As soon as the cattle came from the cars they drank all the water lying in small pools about the station. They had been two days in coming from the west to Chester, and it is said the owner of the cattle did not want to unload them until this morning. Station Agent James Stewart would not hear to this and unlocked the car doors last evening.

BY SPECIAL TRAIN

A Thousand Picnickers Came From Beaver Falls to Rock Springs Today.

One of the best picnics of the season was at Rock Springs park today. It was the first annual outing of the Standard Gauge Steel company and Keystone Driller company, of Beaver Falls. A special train composed of 15 coaches hauled by Fort Wayne engine No. 102 arrived here at 10:45 this morning with about 1,000 excursionists on board. Nine special summer cars of the Rock Springs line were in waiting on Union street and the picnickers were soon landed at the park.

The train will return to Beaver Falls from the C. & P. station this evening at 8:30 o'clock.

DISLOCATED A FINGER

Beaver Falls Picniker Meets With an Accident While Playing Ball.

Charles Murray, of Beaver, met with an accident shortly after his arrival at the park this morning. Some of the young men of the picnickers were playing ball, and Murray, who was in the field, made an attempt to catch a fly. He was shoved by a companion and the ball struck him on the large finger of the right hand, causing a compound dislocation, the bone at the first joint protruding through the flesh about half an inch. He was taken to the office of Dr. Lewis, where the injured member was dressed.

The program which will be presented by the management of Rock Springs park tomorrow afternoon gives promise of being one of the best of the season. Several special features have been secured by Manager Maxwell, among the number the Harris quartet, of Pittsburg, and the only original reproduction of the world's famous Passion Play. These scenes were from the actual production of the play as presented at Oberammergau, Bavaria. The selections to be rendered by Dowling's orchestra will be new to the park visitors.

Suit Withdrawn.

The case filed at the office of Squire Johnston last week against A. F. Killmer by J. Werner, a tailor, of East Liverpool, for $20.50, claimed due as a balance on a suit of clothes, and which was to have been heard yesterday, has been withdrawn, the plaintiff paying the costs.

More Building Material.

More building material was received at the mill this morning and there is a report in circulation that a day and night force will be placed at work next week, but it could not be verified.

CHESTER NOTES.

Mrs. John Spencer returned to her home at Franklin, Pa., after a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Geo. A. Arner.

The school board held a meeting this afternoon for the purpose of letting the contract for the seats for the new school building.

A Singing Earthworm.

We have heard of a good many creatures which sing, including Mr. Ruskin's singing serpents in the valley of Diamonds, yet Mr. Annandale has assured us that there exists in the Malay peninsula a being which the Malays described under the above heading.

It lives in a burrow in the ground and cheerfully sings, or at least chirps. But the Malays call everything that creeps a worm, and the beast which they really mean is a large kind of cricket with a voice.

In the very same part of the world, however, is a real earthworm, a huge monster three or four feet in length, which was discovered not long ago and which really has a voice, or at least can produce a sound. The Latin name of muscus has been given to it on that account.

When it is foraging about near the surface of the ground, the numerous sharp little bristles implanted in its skin, which enable it to hold on to the earth, strike against stones and give out a musical sound. This is rather more like twanging a "Jew's harp" than singing. But any sort of sound from these silent, gliding creatures is singing.—London Express.

Jackson and the Tailor's Bill.

A gentleman in Pennsylvania has a queer document which came into his family's possession many years ago and shows an interesting phase of Andrew Jackson's character as well as a glimpse of the simple times of his presidential term.

It appears that a clerk in the state department contracted a tailor's bill for $64.50, and the tailor, finding himself unable to collect the amount, laid the matter before the president in an appealing letter.

Jackson promptly decided that this was a matter to which he must attend personally, so he transmitted the tailor's letter to the secretary of state, with this strong recommendation:

Referred to the secretary of state. If on inquiry the fact stated be true, unless the clerk pays up his debt let him be forthwith discharged.

The government would become a party to such swindling provided it permitted its officers to become indebted for necessities and not see that they paid their debts out of their salaries.

Honest men will pay their debts. Dishonest men must not be employed by the government.

A. J.

This case is referred to Ames Kendall, Esq., on $10 per month being secured to C. E. Kioff, Mr. Gooch to be continued in his office.

THE LADY OF LYNN

By SIR WALTER BESANT

Copyright, 1900, by Sir Walter Besant

CHAPTER XVI. A DAY OF FATE.

THIS was the day when all the villainy came to a head and met its worst and met with the first installment of exposure. I have told you what was done at the church and what was our own bewilderment, not knowing what to believe or how to explain things. For my own part, though I might have guessed because I had discovered the jealousy of Lady Anastasia, yet the truth, even the possibility of the truth, never came into my head. I had no manner of doubt in my own mind but it was Molly herself and none other whom I saw standing as a bride at the altar rail with Lord Fylingdale for a bridegroom. The fact, I say, admitted of no dispute. Yet why should Molly change her mind? And why should she deny the fact?

I sought her at the house. I begged her to come into the garden and to talk to me privately. Then I asked those two questions. Her answer to both of them was most amazing.

"Jack," she said, "I know not what you mean. I have not changed my mind. It is impossible for me to marry a man of whom such things can be said unless he can prove that they are false. How can you think that I have changed my mind? As regards this talk about an early wedding, what do I know about it? At 6 o'clock I was in the kitchen with my mother and Nigra. I have not been out of the house at all."

Then I told her. "Molly," I said, "Last night I forgot your letter. There was so much to think and talk about with these disclosures that I forgot. This morning I remembered. Then I hurried ashore. I ran to the Crown. It was just upon 6. I was too late. His lordship had gone out in a chair. I ran to the church. It was just after 6. The doors were open. I heard voices. I went in, Molly. Do not say that I am dreaming. I saw you—you, I say—you yourself, with your pink silk cloak, the hood pulled over your head, a domino to hide your face, just as had been arranged."

"You saw me, Jack? You saw me? How could you see me?"

"And your hand was in Lord Fylingdale's, and Mr. Purden was pronouncing the words which made you his wife. Whom God hath joined together let not man put asunder."

She stared at me with blank amazement.

"In my pink silk cloak? Jack, are you in your right mind, or is it I myself who am gone distraught?"

"Indeed I know not which."

"Did you speak to me? Did you congratulate the bride, Jack?"

"No; I was sick and sorry, Molly. I went out of the church. I had seen enough. The clerk, however, has been telling the story of this private marriage all over the town. Everybody knows it. The marriage is duly entered in the registers. It was a marriage by the archbishop's license. The man I saw may be all that the vicar's letter exposed, but the marriage was in order."

Molly said nothing for awhile; then she said gently: "The letter from the bookseller, your cousin, spoke of Lord Fylingdale as ruined. If he were to marry a woman with money, it would be his."

"I believe that there are sometimes flatters—bills of lading or whatever they are called—which give the wife the control of her own property; otherwise everything becomes her husband's."

"Why did he wish to marry me? There was never a gleam of love in his eye nor a note of love in his voice. Why, except that he might get my money?"

"That is, I am convinced, the reason."

"Villainy, villainy, villainy! Jack, this is a conspiracy. Some woman has been made to play my part. Then he will claim me as his wife and lay hands upon all that I have."

"No, Molly; he shall not while you have friends."

"Friends cannot help where the law orders otherwise. So much I know, Jack. Yet you can do one thing for me. You can protect me from the man. He must not take me away."

"All Lynn will fight for you."

"Jack, I want more. I want all Lynn to believe me. You have known me all my life. Am I capable of such a change of mind? Am I capable of so monstrous a falsehood as to steal out to marry the man and then to declare that I have never left the house? Oh, the villain, the villain!" Her cheek was as white as her eyes flashed.

"I seized her hand, 'Molly,' I cried. 'They shall all believe you. I will tell the truth everywhere.'"

Just then the garden door was thrown open, and Sam Semple appeared. With a smiling face and a bending knee he advanced, bowing low.

"Permit me to offer congratulations to the Countess of Fylingdale."

"I am not a countess, I am plain Molly Miller."

Sam looked disconcerted and puzzled. I perceived that, plot or no plot, he had no hand in it.

"I am come," he said, "from his lordship."

"I have nothing to do with his lordship."

"Surely, madam; surely, my lady, there is some misunderstanding. I am sent by his lordship with his compliments to ask when it will be convenient for the countess to receive him."

"Certainly, my lady."

"Then go back to Lord Fylingdale and tell him that he is a villain and a liar, that I have learned his true character, that I am not married to him and that if he ventures to molest me my friends will protect me. Give him that message, sir, word for word."

"I believe, Sam," I said, for his discomfiture and bewilderment made him reel and stagger, "that you have no hand in this new villainy. It was you, however, who brought that man to Lynn, knowing his true character and his antecedents. Let us never see your face here again. Go. If I thought you were in the plot, I would serve you again as the captain served you three years ago."

He went away without another word. Then the captain came home, his face troubled.

"I know not," he said, "what has happened in this place. I have seen Lord Fylingdale. I told him of the charges and accusations."

"Well, did he deny them?"

"He denied nothing, and he admitted nothing. He says that you married him this morning, Molly."

"I know. He has sent Sam Semple here with the same story. Captain, you believe me, do you not?"

"Believe you, Molly? Why, if I did not believe you, I should believe nothing. Believe you? My dear, I would as soon doubt the prayer book."

He laid his hand upon her arm, and the tears came into his eyes. "My dear, I have been an old fool. But I did it for the best. He says that you are his wife. Let him come and take you—if he can!"

"It is not Molly that he would take; it is Molly's fortune."

"Why, sir," she said, "if he takes the whole and wastes and dissipates it, so long as he does not take me, what does it matter?"

Then the vicar came again, and the whole of the business had to be discussed again. At first he adhered to his theory of unconscious action, because a scholar always likes to explain every theory by examples chosen from Latin and Greek authors. He had looked up several more stories of the kind from his library and came prepared to defend his opinion. But the absolute certainty of Molly's assertion, the evidence of her mother, who declared that Molly had been working with her since half past 5, the firm belief of the captain and my own change of opinion and the possibility of deception shook him.

Finally he abandoned his learned view and adopted our more modern explanations of the case—viz, that the marriage was a sham and that the woman was some creature suborned to personate Molly.

"But what woman can she be?" asked the vicar. "She can write. I have seen the registers. She has signed in a full, round hand without bad spelling. The woman, therefore, is educated. My dear, we may perhaps find the woman. My worthy and pious brother in orders is most certainly in the conspiracy. When there are three, one is generally a traitor. To begin with, the scheme is both bold and dangerous. It is the first step toward obtaining a large sum of money under false pretenses. Their necks are in danger, even the neck of a noble earl."

"It is inconceivable," he went on after a little reflection, "how a woman could be found to play such a part. She must be the mistress of the earl. No other could be trusted."

"What should be done meantime?"

"We must meet the enemy on his own ground. He spreads abroad the report that he married Molly this morning. We must publicly and openly deny the fact. Captain, there will be a large company at the assembly this evening. You will take Molly there. I will with you. Jack shall put on his Sunday best and shall also go with us. We must be prepared for an impudent claim, and we must be ready with a prompt denial. Let us court publicity."

This was clearly the best advice possible. We were left unmolested all the afternoon, though the captain made me stay as a kind of garrison in case of any attempt at abduction being made.

In the evening Molly in her chair and dressed in her finery was carried to the gardens, while the captain, the vicar and myself formed a bodyguard.

We arrived after the dancing had begun. Lady Anastasia was looking on, but her court of ladies and young men for some reason seemed to have melted away. She stood almost alone, save for the support of the old beau Sir Harry. The colonel was also with her, and the Rev. Benjamin Purden stood behind her.

The music was in the gallery at the end of the long room. The dancing was carried on in the middle. Lady Anastasia was standing on the right of the gallery, most of the company on the left. Molly, with the captain and followed by the vicar and myself, turned to the left.

On her entrance all eyes were fixed upon the newly made countess. She had come without her lord! Was this part of the secret—a secret known to all the world—or was his lordship, before the whole company, about to lead his bride to the first place, as became her newly acquired rank? Some of the ladies regarded her with looks of hatred, the successors of the looks of scorn with which they had first welcomed her. Most of them, however, were kindly. A tale of love always meets with a friendly reception. Not a woman in the place but would have taken her place with joy, unmeasured. As no other woman could, they were ready to accept their fate and to make friends with the successful and the fortunate winner of so great a prize.

The minuets were over and the country dance was about to begin when Lord Fylingdale arrived, followed, as usual, by his secretary. He stood at the door; he looked around. Then, with the cold pride which never failed him, he stepped across the room and bowed low to Molly. "Madam," he said, "with your permission, we will dance this country dance together before I take you away with me."

"My lord," replied Molly aloud, so that the whole company heard and trembled, "I shall not dance with you this evening nor on any other evening."

"She will never again dance with you, my lord. Nor will she hold any discourse with you. Nor will she willingly admit you to her presence." It was the vicar who spoke, because the man and the occasion proved too much for the good old captain, who could only roar thunderously between his teeth things more fitted for the quelling of a runaway than for dealing with such a man as his lordship.

"Pray, sir," said Lord Fylingdale, stepping back, "what is the meaning of this? Pray, madam—he turned to Molly—"what is the meaning of this sudden change? Captain Crowle, have I or have I not the right to claim my wife?"

The vicar stepped forward and confronted him. His tall, thin figure, his long cassock, his thin and ascetic face, contrasted with the overhaughtiness of his adversary.

"My lord," he asked, "how long has this lady been your wife?"

"We were married," he said, "at 6 o'clock this morning by the Rev. Mr. Benjamin Purden, who is here to bear witness to the fact. The wedding was private at my request, because, as you may perhaps believe, I was not anxious to join in the wedding feast with a company of bores, bumpkins and sailors."

"Ladies and gentlemen—the vicar raised his voice and by a gesture silenced the orchestra—"I have to lay before you a conspiracy which I believe is unparalleled in any history. You are aware that Lord Fylingdale, who stands before you, came to the spa a few weeks ago for purposes best known to himself. You will also doubtless remember that certain persons who arrived before him were loud in his praises. He was said by them to be a model of all the virtues. I will not repeat the things that were said."

"All this," said Lord Fylingdale, "is beside the mark. I come to claim my wife."

"Among those who accepted these statements for gospel was Captain Crowle, the guardian of the young lady beside me. It was to him a great honor to be admitted to converse with so distinguished a nobleman and to be permitted to consult with him as to the affairs of his ward. He even informed his lordship of the extent of the lady's fortune, which is far greater than was generally understood. Thereupon his lordship began to pay attention of a marked character. You have all, I believe, remarked these attentions. Then came the attempted abduction and the lady's rescue by Lord Fylingdale. After this he formally offered his hand and his rank to the lady. The honor seemed very great. He was accepted. He then engaged the lady to undertake a private marriage without festivities, to which she consented. She promised, in fact, to be married at St. Nicholas' church this very morning at 6 o'clock."

"All this," said Lord Fylingdale coldly, "is quite true, yet why do you detain the company to the narrative I do not understand. The lady kept her promise. I met her at the place and time appointed. We were married. Once more, Captain Crowle, I claim my wife."

"Ladies and gentlemen," the vicar continued, "there is but one reply to the last statement, for the lady did not keep her engagement."

"Sir"—his lordship advanced a step—"are you aware of the meaning of words? Do you assert that I was not married at that time and in that place?"

The Rev. Benjamin Purden advanced. "Sir," he addressed the vicar. "Like his lordship, I am amazed at these words. Why, sir, I myself—I myself at 6 o'clock this morning performed the marriage service as prescribed by the church for the right honorable the Earl of Fylingdale and Miss Mary Miller."

CHAPTER XVII. "AT YOUR PERIL."

Y this time the company were crowding round, eagerly listening. No one could understand what had happened. The bridegroom claimed his bride. The bride's friends denied that she was married.

"Yesterday," the vicar went on, "there arrived simultaneously three letters. One of them, an anonymous letter, was addressed to Captain Crowle; one, from a respectable bookseller in London, was addressed to Mr. Pentecoste, master of the grammar school, and one, from a certain fellow of his college at Cambridge, was addressed to me. All these letters together contained charges which show how deeply we have been deceived."

"Have a care! Have a care!" said Lord Fylingdale.

"By these letters and other sources," the vicar continued, "I learn first as to the noble lord's friends the following particulars:

"I find that the Lady Anastasia Langston hath been lately presented by the grand jury of Middlesex for keeping a house riotous, of great extravagance, luxury, idleness and ill fame."

"I am informed that Lady Anastasia hath held a bank every night in this place, to the hurt and loss of many."

"I turn next to the case of the Rev. Benjamin Purden, who stands before you. He was the tutor of Lord Fylingdale. He is described as the companion of his vices. He was the cause last year of a grievous scandal at Bath. He is the author of a ribald piece of verse, by which he has corrupted many. No bishop would sanction his acceptance of the smallest preferment."

"This is very surprising," said Mr. Purden, shaking his big head, "but we shall see, we shall see—immediately."

"There are next the two gentlemen known as Sir Harry Malyns and Colonel Lanyon. Their occupation is to act as decoy ducks, to lure young men to the gaming table and to plunder them when they are caught."

Both these gentlemen started, but neither replied.

"I now come to the noble lord before me. He is a most notorious profligate. He shares in Lady Anastasia's gaming house. He has long since been refused admittance into the houses of persons of honor. He is an inveterate gambler. He has ruined his own estate, sold the family plate and pictures, library, everything. He is at this moment unable to borrow or to raise the smallest sum of money. The Fleet and the King's Bench prisons are full of the unfortunate tradesmen who trusted him and the young rakes whom he has ruined."

"Ladies and gentlemen, this was the story which reached us yesterday, fortunately in time. Miss Molly broke off her promise and wrote to his lordship for explanations. Captain Crowle called upon his lordship this morning for explanations. He was met with derision. He was told that he was too late—the young lady was already married; there was no necessity for any explanations."

The company murmured. Voices were raised demanding explanations.

"My friends," said his lordship coldly, "these inventions need no reply. I claim my wife."

"She is not your wife," said the vicar. "We are ready to prove that at 6 o'clock the young lady was already engaged with her mother in the still-room or some other occupation. Of that there is no doubt possible. But—and here he lifted a warning finger, but his lordship paid no attention—"there was a wedding early this morning. His reverence, Mr. Purden, performed the service. The wedding was in the name of Mary Miller as bride. The registers are signed 'Mary Miller.' This is therefore a conspiracy."

"You talk nonsense," said his lordship, who certainly carried it off with an amazing assurance. "I claim my wife. Once more, madam, will you come with me?"

"I am not your wife."

"We must endeavor," said the vicar, "to find the woman who personated Miss Molly. The clerk of the parish testifies to the wedding, but he does not appear to have seen the face of the bride. Whoever she was she wore a domino and had thrown her hood over her face."

The Lady Anastasia stepped forward, agitating her fan. "Reverend sir," she said to the vicar, "in matters of society you are a very ignorant and a very simple person. It is quite true that I have been presented by a Middlesex jury for gambling. It is also true that half London might also be presented. As for the rest of your statements—that, for instance, Lord Fylingdale shares in the profits of my bank—let me assure you that your innocence has been abused. These things are not true. However, it is not for me to answer public insults in a public place. Sir Harry, my old friend, they call you a decoy, even you, with your name and your reputation. A decoy! Sir, your cloth should shame you. Sir Harry, take me to my chair. If tomorrow morning the company thinks proper to disseminate itself from this public insult, I will remain in this place, where, I own, I have never found many friends. If not, I shall return to London and to the house presented by the grand jury of Middlesex."

So saying, she retired smiling and, as they say of soldiers, in good order; with her, also in good order, the ancient beau, with no other signs of agitation than a trembling of the knees, and this might very well be laid to the account of his threescore years and fifteen or perhaps fourscore.

Lord Fylingdale once more turned to Molly.

"Madam, for the last time"—

"Send him away—send him away," said Molly. "He makes me sick."

"We deny the marriage, my lord," said the vicar. "That is all we have to say."

"At your peril," replied his lordship. So saying he walked away unmoved apparently. Mr. Purden and Colonel Lanyon went with him. Both men were flushed in the cheeks and restrained themselves by an evident effort. I was sorry for Sam Semple, for he followed, his face full of trouble and disappointment.

When they were gone, the vicar spoke once more.

"Ladies and gentlemen," he said, "we have thought it best to court the greatest publicity possible in this matter. The people whom we have exposed will not again trouble this company."

And with these words he offered his hand to Molly, and we withdrew and the music struck up a lively country dance.

Sure of a Visit.

As a rule, said a prison warden, a man is in a despondent mood during his first week's imprisonment. There are exceptions, however, as this incident will show.

One Saturday about dinner time I was suddenly accosted by one of the new arrivals who had served the first week of his sentence.

"I say," he remarked, "has a lady been asking for me at the gate?"

I told him that if he had been wanted the governor would have sent for him.

"Oh, very well. Keep cool," he said. "This is the first time for ten years I've put in a full week's work, and the old woman is sure to be at the gate for my wages."

And with a grin the cheerful one passed on.—London Answers.

THE LADY OF LYNN

By SIR WALTER BESANT

CHAPTER XVI. A DAY OF FATE.

THIS was the day when all the villainy came to a head and did its worst and met with the first installment of exposure. I have told you what was done at the church and what was our own bewilderment, not knowing what to believe or how to explain things. For my own part, though I might have guessed because I had discovered the jealousy of Lady Anastasia, yet the truth, even the possibility of the truth, never came into my head. I had no manner of doubt in my own mind but it was Molly herself and none other whom I saw standing as a bride at the altar rail with Lord Fylingdale for a bridegroom. The fact, I say, admitted of no dispute. Yet why should Molly change her mind? And why should she deny the fact?

I sought her at the house. I begged her to come into the garden and to talk with me privately. Then I asked those two questions. Her answer to both of them was most amazing.

"Jack," she said, "I know not what you mean. I have not changed my mind. It is impossible for me to marry a man of whom such things can be said unless he can prove that they are false. How can you think that I have changed my mind? As regards this talk about an early wedding, what do I know about it? At 6 o'clock I was in the kitchen with my mother and Nigra. I have not been out of the house at all."

"Then I told her. 'Molly,' I said, 'last night I forgot your letter. There was so much to think and talk about with these disclosures that I forgot. This morning I remembered. Then I hurried ashore. I ran to the Crown. It was just upon 6. I was too late. His lordship had gone out in a chair. I ran to the church. It was just after 6. The doors were open. I heard voices. I went in, Molly. Do not say that I am dreaming. I saw you—yes, I saw you yourself, with your pink silk cloak, the hood pulled over your head, a domino to hide your face, just as had been arranged.'"

"And your hand was in Lord Fylingdale's, and Mr. Purden was pronouncing the words which made you his wife. 'Whom God hath joined together let not man put asunder.'"

She stared at me with blank amazement.

"In my pink silk cloak? Jack, are you in your right mind, or is it I myself who am gone distraught?"

"Indeed I know not which."

The marriage is duly entered in the registers. It was a marriage by the archbishop's license. The man Purden may be all that the vicar's letter exposed, but the marriage was in order."

Molly said nothing for awhile; then she said gently: "The letter from the bookseller, your cousin, spoke of Lord Fylingdale as ruined. If he were to marry a woman with money, it would be his."

"I believe that there are sometimes letters—bills of lading or whatever they are called—which give the wife the control of her own property; otherwise everything becomes her husband's."

"We must meet the enemy on his own ground. He spreads abroad the report that he married Molly this morning. We must publicly and openly deny the fact. Captain, there will be a large company at the assembly this evening. You will take Molly there. I will go with you. Jack shall put on his Sunday best and shall also go with us. We must be prepared for an impudent claim, and we must be ready with a prompt denial. Let us court publicity."

This was clearly the best advice possible. We were left unmolested all the afternoon, though the captain made me stay as a kind of garrison in case of any attempt at abduction being made.

In the evening Molly in her chair and dressed in her finery was carried to the gardens, while the captain, the vicar and myself formed a bodyguard.

We arrived after the dancing had begun. Lady Anastasia was looking on, but her court of ladies and young men for some reason seemed to have melted away. She stood almost alone, save for the support of the old beau Sir Harry. The colonel was also with her, and the Rev. Benjamin Purden stood behind her.

The music was in the gallery at the end of the long room. The dancing was carried on in the middle. Lady Anastasia was standing on the right of the gallery, most of the company on the left. Molly, with the captain and followed by the vicar and myself, turned to the left.

On her entrance all eyes were fixed upon the newly made countess. She had come without her lord! Was this part of the secret—a secret known to all the world—or was his lordship, before the whole company, about to lead his bride to the first place, as became her newly acquired rank? Some of the ladies regarded her with looks of hatred, the successors of the looks of scorn with which they had first welcomed her. Most of them, however, were kindly. A tale of love always meets with a friendly reception. Not a woman in the place but would have taken her place with joy, unmeasured. As no other woman could, they were ready to accept their fate and to make friends with the successful and the fortunate winner of so great a prize.

The minuets were over and the country dance was about to begin when Lord Fylingdale arrived, followed, as usual, by his secretary. He stood at the door; he looked around. Then, with the cold pride which never failed him, he stepped across the room and bowed low to Molly. "Madam," he said, "with your permission, we will dance this country dance together before I take you away with me."

"My lord," replied Molly aloud, so that the whole company heard and trembled. "I shall not dance with you this evening nor on any other evening."

"She will never again dance with you, my lord. Nor will she hold any discourse with you. Nor will she willingly admit you to her presence." It was the vicar who spoke, because the man and the occasion proved too much for the good old captain, who could only roar thunderously between his teeth things more fitted for the quelling of a minion than for dealing with such a man as his lordship.

"Pray, sir," said Lord Fylingdale, stepping back, "what is the meaning of this? Pray, madam," he turned to Molly—"what is the meaning of this sudden change? Captain Crowle, have I or have I not the right to claim my wife?"

The vicar stepped forward and confronted him. His tall, thin figure, his long cascade, his thin and ascetic face, contrasted with the overhaughtiness of his adversary.

"We were married," he said, "at 6 o'clock this morning by the Rev. Mr. Benjamin Purden, who is here to bear witness to the fact. The wedding was private at my request, because, as you may perhaps believe, I was not anxious to join in the wedding feast with a company of bores, bumpkins and sailors."

"Ladies and gentlemen"—the vicar raised his voice and by a gesture silenced the orchestra—"I have to lay before you a conspiracy which I believe is unparalleled in any history. You are aware that Lord Fylingdale, who stands before you, came to the spa a few weeks ago for purposes best known to himself. You will also doubtless remember that certain persons who arrived before him were loud in his praises. He was said by them to be a model of all the virtues. I will not repeat the things that were said."

"All this," said Lord Fylingdale, "is beside the mark. I come to claim my wife."

"Among those who accepted these statements for gospel was Captain Crowle, the guardian of the young lady beside me. It was to him a great honor to be admitted to converse with so distinguished a nobleman and to be permitted to consult with him as to the affairs of his ward. He even informed his lordship of the extent of the lady's fortune, which is far greater than was generally understood. Thereupon his lordship began to pay attention of a marked character. You have all, I believe, remarked these attentions. Then came the attempted abduction and the lady's rescue by Lord Fylingdale. After this he formally offered his hand and his rank to the lady. The honor seemed very great. He was accepted. He then engaged the lady to undertake a private marriage without festivities, to which she consented. She promised, in fact, to be married at St. Nicholas' church this very morning at 6 o'clock."

"All this," said Lord Fylingdale coldly, "is quite true, yet why you detain the company to the narrative I do not understand. The lady kept her promise. I met her at the place and time appointed. We were married. Once more, Captain Crowle, I claim my wife."

"Ladies and gentlemen," the vicar continued, "there is but one reply to the last statement, for the lady did not keep her engagement."

The Rev. Benjamin Purden advanced. "Sir," he addressed the vicar, "like his lordship, I am amazed at these words. Why, sir, I myself—I myself at 6 o'clock this morning performed the marriage service as prescribed by the church for the right honorable the Earl of Fylingdale and Miss Mary Miller."

CHAPTER XVII.
"AT YOUR PERIL."

Y this time the company were crowding round, eagerly listening. No one could understand what had happened. The bridegroom claimed his bride. The bride's friends denied that she was married.

"Yesterday," the vicar went on, "there arrived simultaneously three letters. One of them, an anonymous letter, was addressed to Captain Crowle; one, from a respectable bookseller in London, was addressed to Mr. Pentecoste, master of the grammar school, and one, from a certain fellow of his college at Cambridge, was addressed to me. All these letters together contained charges which show how deeply we have been deceived."

"Have a care! Have a care!" said Lord Fylingdale.

"By these letters and other sources," the vicar continued, "I learn first as to the noble lord's friends the following particulars:

"I find that the Lady Anastasia Langston hath been lately presented by the grand jury of Middlesex for keeping a house riotous, of great extravagance, luxury, idleness and ill fame."

"I am informed that Lady Anastasia hath held a bank every night in this place, to the hurt and loss of many."

"I turn next to the case of the Rev. Benjamin Purden, who stands before you. He is the tutor of Lord Fylingdale. He is described as the companion of his vices. He was the cause last year of a grievous scandal at Bath. He is the author of a ribald piece of verse, by which he has corrupted many. No bishop would sanction his acceptance of the smallest preferment."

"This is very surprising," said Mr. Purden, shaking his big head, "but we shall see, we shall see immediately."

"There are next the two gentlemen known as Sir Harry Malyns and Colonel Lanyon. Their occupation is to act as decoy ducks, to lure young men to the gaming table and to plunder them when they are caught."

Both these gentlemen started, but neither replied.

"I now come to the noble lord before me. He is a most notorious profligate. He shares in Lady Anastasia's gaming house. He has long since been refused admittance into the houses of persons of honor. He is an inveterate gambler. He has ruined his own estate, sold the family plate and pictures, library, everything. He is at this moment unable to borrow or to raise the smallest sum of money. The Fleet and the King's Bench prisons are full of the unfortunate tradesmen who trusted him and the young rakes whom he has ruined."

"Ladies and gentlemen, this was the story which reached us yesterday, fortunately in time. Miss Molly broke off her promise and wrote to his lordship for explanations. Captain Crowle called upon his lordship this morning for explanations. He was met with derision. He was told that he was too late—the young lady was already married; there was no necessity for any explanations."

The company murmured. Voices were raised demanding explanations.

"My friends," said his lordship coldly, "these inventions need no reply. I claim my wife."

"She is not your wife," said the vicar. "We are ready to prove that at 6 o'clock the young lady was already engaged with her mother in the still-room or some other occupation. Of that there is no doubt possible. But—and here he lifted a warning finger, but his lordship paid no attention—"there was a wedding early this morning. His reverence, Mr. Purden, performed the service. The wedding was in the name of Mary Miller as bride. The registers are signed 'Mary Miller.' This is therefore a conspiracy."

"You talk nonsense," said his lordship, who certainly carried it off with an amazing assurance. "I claim my wife. Once more, madam, will you come with me?"

"I am not your wife."

"We must endeavor," said the vicar, "to find the woman who personated Miss Molly. The clerk of the parish testifies to the wedding, but he does not appear to have seen the face of the bride. Whoever she was she wore a domino and had thrown her hood over her face."

The Lady Anastasia stepped forward, agitating her fan. "Reverend sir," she said to the vicar, "in matters of society you are a very ignorant and a very simple person. It is quite true that I have been presented by a Middlesex jury for gambling. It is also true that half London might also be presented. As for the rest of your statements—that, for instance, Lord Fylingdale shares in the profits of my bank—let me assure you that your innocence has been abused. These things are not true. However, it is not for me to answer public insults in a public place. Sir Harry, my old friend, they call you a decoy, even you, with your name and your reputation. A decoy! Sir, your cloth should shame you. Sir Harry, take me to my chair. If tomorrow morning the company thinks proper to dissociate itself from this public insult, I will remain in this place, where, I own, I have never found many friends. If not, I shall return to London and to the house presented by the grand jury of Middlesex."

The Rev. Benjamin Purden advanced. "Sir," he addressed the vicar, "like his lordship, I am amazed at these words. Why, sir, I myself—I myself at 6 o'clock this morning performed the marriage service as prescribed by the church for the right honorable the Earl of Fylingdale and Miss Mary Miller."

THE SULTAN'S BLUFF

Won't Work, as France Will Back Constans, In What
He Does.

YOUNG TURKS CAN CONSPIRE,

As Well as Other Dissatisfied Otto-
mans, Without the Embassy in Paris to Watch, If Turkish Representative Is Handed His Passports.

Paris, Aug. 24.—While the officials of the French foreign office decline to confirm or deny the dispatch of the Associated Press from Constantinople announcing that the French ambassador has sent the sultan a letter which is in the nature of an ultimatum, they admit to having received a telegram from M. Constans, which has been laid before the council which was sitting at the Elysee palace. Only three ministers were not present. The premier, M. Waldeck-Rousseau; the minister of agriculture, M. Dupuy, and the minister of public works, M. Baudin, are absent from Paris.

The correspondent learns that M. Constans has been given a free hand. Any step he finds proper to take will be fully endorsed. The foreign minister, M. Delcasse, if he deems it necessary, will withdraw the French embassy from Constantinople, and Munier Bey, the Turkish ambassador, who is now in Switzerland, will be notified not to return to Paris, in which case Munier Bey will probably withdraw the legation to Berne, as he is also accredited as minister to Switzerland.

No naval demonstration was yet contemplated, but the sultan will probably be seriously inconvenienced by the closure of the Turkish embassy here, which is the center of the espionage maintained to watch the numerous young Turks and other disaffected Ottoman subjects and voluntary exiles who make their headquarters in Paris and who will have a free hand if diplomatic relations between France and Turkey are completely broken off.

It has been suggested that the French government issue orders for the bourse to cease dealing in Turkish securities, but it is not likely that this step will be taken, as it would only injure the French bondholders. The entire Turkish group fell on the bourse Friday, in some cases going down 10 to 12 francs.

According to a special dispatch received here from Berne, Munier Bey has already leased a villa there for the use of the Turkish embassy.

All Payments Except For Military
Are Suspended—Marshal
Law Rules.

Colon, Colombia, via, Galveston, Tex., Aug. 24.—An official decree, dated Bogota, July 18, and addressed to the governors of the departments, was published Aug. 23. It says:

"A new aspect of the war which seems to kindle anew, with the help of foreigners who threaten the frontier, places the government under the necessity of assuming a different attitude from that maintained hitherto, and forces it to proceedings which it has previously tried to avoid.

"It has been resolved, firstly, to suspend the payment of all accounts for war material, pending, and to limit the expenses of the payment of the armed force and administration.

"Secondly, to proceed to expropriate all the necessary elements for the feeding, equipment and mobilization of the army.

"Thirdly, to levy forced and voluntary loans, according to circumstances and to impose war contributions in order to meet the expenses of each department, without depending on the national capital.

"The governors are hereby amply authorized to proceed in these matters according to the requirements of circumstances without the need of a privilege from the government, and each governor must assume the responsibility in order to save the situation within his territory."

OF WELL SUSTAINED VOLUME

Was Business, Though There Were
Some Drawbacks, One of Them
the Steel Strike.

New York, Aug. 24.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade, issued today, said in part:

Though there are some drawbacks, notably the labor troubles in the iron and steel industry, business is of well-sustained volume, to which fact payments through the country's clearing houses, railroad earnings and the strength of prices of staple and partly manufactured merchandise offer ample testimony.

The Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Plate Workers succeeded in enlisting the sympathy of other workmen, with the result that the output of merchant bar and wire rods is curtailed to the extent of about 40,000 tons monthly. Beyond this defection, wage earners in allied branches of the steel industry have refused to break their contracts. Many idle mills resumed during the past week, and even in the tin plate region there is a moderate output.

Plates have begun to arrive from abroad, and prices in the London market sharply advanced. Hoop and sheet mills increase production daily, and there is no loss in the rail division, but some anxiety is felt regarding supplies of cotton ties, as the picking season has begun in many states. Decreased consumption tends to weaken pig iron, and tin is similarly affected.

Slightly better terms asked for staple woolen and worsted goods in no way diminished the volume of sales, and the light weight season promises to be one of activity. In heavy weights there is also noticed greater interest on the part of buyers than is customary at this late date. These improved conditions in the manufacture give a firm tone to raw wool, despite the heavy arrivals at eastern markets of the new clip.

Grain quotations eased off somewhat during the week, though the net decline was small. Corn is still close to the highest price since 1892, even with a host of important influences militating against such inflated figures. Weather conditions steadily improve, making the outlook bright for late planted corn. Foreign customers have been driven away by exorbitant prices to the benefit of Russia and Argentina, and Atlantic exports for three weeks aggregated only 1,862,589 bushels, against 7,636,548 last year, and 12,720,027 two years ago. Meanwhile interior receipts steadily exceed those of a year ago, indicating that farmers have large stocks carried over from previous excessive yields. Nevertheless prices remain above 60 cents. The slight reaction in wheat is explained by the decrease in Atlantic shipments to 4,853,735 bushels, against 7,352,826 in the previous week. Compared with the exports of 1,670,817 bushels last year and 2,798,887 two years ago, however, there appears a phenomenal gain. Pacific exports are still retarded by labor troubles, and the movement will be striking when once started.

Failures for the week numbered 205 in the United States, against 171 last year, and 35 in Canada, against 29 last year.

THE DOMINANT SPECULATION

Was In Pacific and Southwesterns on
the Stock Market Friday.
Some Other Features.

New York, Aug. 24.—The Wall street district had more appearance of animation Friday than for a long time past. The prolonged and persistent resistance of the market to any factors of depression and the continued scarcity of stocks offering, notwithstanding the very considerable advance in the level of prices during the last two weeks, apparently prompted the professional traders Friday, as though by a common impulse, to inaugurate a movement to put prices up. The dominant speculation was in the Pacific and Southwesterns, Union Pacific leading the railroad list in point of strength and activity with an extreme rise of 2%. The so-called Gould stocks were all active and strong, including the Denver and Rio Grande stocks and the Colorado and Southern stocks, the latter apparently on a supposition that developments are impending looking to its absorption into the Gould system. The grain-carrying roads as a whole were affected by the decided weakness in the corn market, indicating the recuperation of the corn crop. The continued heavy foreign demand for wheat, coupled with the reported good condition of that crop, was also an element. Amalgamated Copper was in very large demand, notwithstanding the denials of reports that further absorption of copper interests was intended. The extreme rise in Amalgamated Copper was 2%. There was gossip of coming rights of Baltimore and Ohio to subscribe to new stock, to be issued in connection with the pending reorganization of Pittsburgh and Western. The minor steel stocks were strong. Tennessee Coal rising 1/4. The United States Steel stocks were opened a fraction higher and were held almost immovably all day, the extreme fluctuation in each being 1/2. There were strong points among the minor railroads and specialties and the coalers continued to show strength. The preliminary estimates of the week's cash changes were apparently relied on as foreshadowing a strong bank statement today. Friday there was a further decline in New York exchange at Chicago to 50 cents discount, and an additional $500,000 was deposited at the sub-treasury for transfer to Chicago.

The railroad bond market shared in the greater activity and strength of the stock market, but speculative bonds were most conspicuous. Total sales, par value, $2,585,000. United States bonds were all unchanged on the last call.

Peasant Costumes in Ireland.

A certain number of peasants in the wilder and remoter districts of Ireland still wear something like a national costume. fail to bring in a gusher for well now being drilled on the property located on lot 23, Spindle Top Heights, within ninety days from this date.

If a gusher is obtained, stock will sell many times above par—if not secured your money back—a safe proposition with large returns.

This company has an authorized capital of $500,000 divided into shares of the par value of $1.00 each, fully paid and non-assessable. Their location is the best, being surrounded on every side by wells, and prospects could not be better. Drillers are down over 600 feet, and a gusher is expected soon.

A Peoria expert who has been sent to Beaumont to report on the property of this Company, has sent the following telegram to Mr. L. M. Campbell of Peoria:

"L. M. CAMPBELL: Was at well today, 600 feet deep in hard rock absolutely in proven territory. Nothing more certain than we will strike a gusher at about 850 feet. Gas bubbling from well today. Particles of oil rock coming up. We are strictly in it."

No time will be lost, watch results and progress on our well. In addition to our holdings on Spindle Top Heights we have other valuable oil lands aggregating 3,865 acres. For a short time only I am authorized to offer a limited amount of stock at the low price of 40c PER SHARE.

As stock is selling rapidly and directors reserve the right to advance the price of stock any time without notice early orders are advised. The officers are business men well known and experienced in the oil business, insuring that affairs of company will be wisely managed and good results obtained for all stockholders.

Woman's Horror

Modest women dread to consult a doctor about diseases peculiar to their sex. They have a horror of private examinations and surgical operations. For this reason treatment of dangerous derangements is neglected. But the Wine of Cardui treatment, which can be adopted at home without the knowledge of any one but the patient herself, is now coming into general use. Women who take Wine of Cardui do not have to submit to a physician's local examination nor to a surgical operation. Wine of Cardui cures in the privacy of the home. No publicity, no cutting and torture and no physician or examination, while Wine of Cardui is quietly building up and strengthening the female organs. Menstruation is regulated, the drains of leucorrhoea stopped and the fallen womb restored to its place. The terrible pains which rack the body are but results of the ailments, which yield so readily to the soothing properties of Wine of Cardui. The medicine that cured Miss Garlen will certainly help you.

THE SULTAN'S BLUFF

Won't Work, as France Will Back Constans, In What
He Does.

YOUNG TURKS CAN CONSPIRE,

As Well as Other Dissatisfied Otto-
mans, Without the Embassy in
sentative Is Handed His Passports.

Paris, Aug. 24.—While the officials of the French foreign office decline to confirm or deny the dispatch of the Associated Press from Constantinople announcing that the French ambassador has sent the sultan a letter which is in the nature of an ultimatum, they admit to having received a telegram from M. Constans, which has been laid before the council which was sitting at the Elysee palace. Only three ministers were not present. The premier, M. Waldeck-Rousseau; the minister of agriculture, M. Dupuy; and the minister of public works, M. Baudin, are absent from Paris.

The correspondent learns that M. Constans has been given a free hand. Any step he finds proper to take will be fully endorsed. The foreign minister, M. Delcasse, if he deems it necessary, will withdraw the French embassy from Constantinople, and M. Munier Bey, the Turkish ambassador, who is now in Switzerland, will be notified not to return to Paris, in which case Munier Bey will probably withdraw the legation to Bern, as he is also accredited as minister to Switzerland.

No naval demonstration was yet contemplated, but the sultan will probably be seriously inconvenienced by the closure of the Turkish embassy here, which is the center of the espionage maintained to watch the numerous young Turks and other disaffected Ottoman subjects and voluntary exiles who make their headquarters in Paris and who will have a free hand if diplomatic relations between France and Turkey are completely broken off.

It has been suggested that the French government issue orders for the bourse to cease dealing in Turkish securities, but it is not likely that this step will be taken, as it would only injure the French bondholders. The entire Turkish group fell on the bourse Friday, in some cases going down 10 to 12 francs.

According to a special dispatch received here from Bern, Munier Bey has already leased a villa there for the use of the Turkish embassy.

All Payments Except For Military
Are Suspended—Marsh
Law Rules.

Colon, Colombia, via, Galveston, Tex., Aug. 24.—An official decree, dated Bogota, July 18, and addressed to the governors of the departments, was published Aug. 23. It says:

"A new aspect of the war which seems to kindle anew, with the help of foreigners who threaten the frontier, places the government under the necessity of assuming a different attitude from that maintained hitherto, and forces it to proceedings which it has previously tried to avoid."

"Secondly, to proceed to expropriate all the necessary elements for the feeding, equipment and mobilization of the army."

"Thirdly, to levy forced and voluntary loans, according to circumstances, and to impose war contributions in order to meet the expenses of each department, without depending on the national capital."

"The governors are hereby amply authorized to proceed in these matters according to the requirements of circumstances without the need of a privilege from the government, and each governor must assume the responsibility in order to save the situation within his territory."

OF WELL SUSTAINED VOLUME

Was Business, Though There Were
Some Drawbacks, One of Them
the Steel Strike.

New York, Aug. 24.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade, issued today, said in part:

Though there are some drawbacks, notably the labor troubles in the iron and steel industry, business is of well-sustained volume, to which fact payments through the country's clearing houses, railroad earnings and the strength of prices of staple and partly manufactured merchandise offer ample testimony.

The Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Plate Workers succeeded in enlisting the sympathy of other workmen, with the result that the output of merchant bar and wire rods is curtailed to the extent of about 40,000 tons monthly. Beyond this defection, wage earners in allied branches of the steel industry have refused to break their contracts. Many idle mills resumed during the past week, and even in the tin plate region there is a moderate output. Plates have begun to arrive from abroad, and prices in the London market sharply advanced. Hoop and sheet mills increase production daily, and there is no loss in the rail division, but some anxiety is felt regarding supplies of cotton ties, as the picking season has begun in many states. Decreased consumption tends to weaken pig iron, and tin is similarly affected.

Slightly better terms asked for staple woolen and worsted goods in no way diminished the volume of sales, and the light weight season promises to be one of activity. In heavy weights there is also noticed greater interest on the part of buyers than is customary at this late date. These improved conditions in the manufacture give a firm tone to raw wool, despite the heavy arrivals at eastern markets of the new clip.

Grain quotations eased off somewhat during the week, though the net decline was small. Corn is still close to the highest price since 1892, even with a host of important influences militating against such inflated figures. Weather conditions steadily improve, making the outlook bright for late planted corn. Foreign customers have been driven away by exorbitant prices to the benefit of Russia and Argentina, and Atlantic exports for three weeks aggregated only 1,862,759 bushels, against 7,636,548 last year, and 12,720,027 two years ago. Meanwhile interior receipts steadily exceed those of a year ago, indicating that farmers have large stocks carried over from previous excessive yields. Nevertheless prices remain above 60 cents. The slight reaction in wheat is explained by the decrease in Atlantic shipments to 4,853,735 bushels, against 7,352,826 in the previous year. Compared with the exports of 1,670,817 bushels last year and 2,798,887 two years ago, however, there appears a phenomenal gain. Pacific exports are still retarded by labor troubles, and the movement will be striking when once started.

Failures for the week numbered 205 in the United States, against 171 last year, and 35 in Canada, against 29 last year.

THE DOMINANT SPECULATION

Was in Pacific and Southwesterns on
the Stock Market Friday.

Some Other Features.

New York, Aug. 24.—The Wall street district had more appearance of animation Friday than for a long time past. The prolonged and persistent resistance of the market to any factors of depression and the continued scarcity of stocks offering, notwithstanding the very considerable advance in the level of prices during the last two weeks, apparently prompted the professional traders Friday, as though by a common impulse, to inaugurate a movement to put prices up. The dominant speculation was in the Pacific and Southwesterns, Union Pacific leading the railroad list in point of strength and activity with an extreme rise of 2 1/2. The so-called Gould stocks were all active and strong, including the Denver and Rio Grande stocks and the Colorado and Southern stocks, the latter apparently on a supposition that developments are impending looking to its absorption into the Gould system. The grain-carrying roads as a whole were affected by the decided weakness in the corn market, indicating the recuperation of the corn crop. The continued heavy foreign demand for wheat, coupled with the reported good condition of that crop, was also an element. Amalgamated Copper was in very large demand, notwithstanding the denials of reports that further absorption of copper interests was intended. The extreme rise in Amalgamated Copper was 2 1/4. There was gossip of coming rights of Baltimore and Ohio to subscribe to new stock, to be issued in connection with the pending reorganization of Pittsburgh and Western. The minor steel stocks were strong. Tennessee Coal rising 3/4. The United States Steel stocks were opened a fraction higher and were held almost immovably all day, the extreme fluctuation in each being 1/2. There were strong points among the minor railroads and specialties and the coalers continued to show strength. The preliminary estimates of the week's cash changes were apparently relied on as foreshadowing a strong bank statement today. Friday there was a further decline in New York exchange at Chicago to 50 cents discount, and an additional $500,000 was deposited at the sub-treasury for transfer to Chicago.

The railroad bond market shared in the greater activity and strength of the stock market, but speculative funds were most conspicuous. Total sales, par value, $2,585,000. United States bonds were all unchanged on the last call.

I have suffered from womb trouble for five years. Last spring a year ago I was bedfast for six months. I paid $25 to one doctor, and he said he had done all he could for me. I had about given up, but called another doctor, who said I would have to have surgical treatment. I decided I might as well die a natural death as that. I happened to get a hold of a Ladies' Birthday Almanac, and decided to try your treatment. In nine days after I commenced taking Wine of Cardui and Black-Draught I could walk across my room, and in three weeks I made myself a dress. This was after my neighbors, and even my brothers and sisters, said I would never be any better. I am now in good health.

Joins a Theatrical Troupe—Thomas Roe left yesterday afternoon for Chicago, where he will join the "Uncle John Spruceby" theatrical company to play the cornet for the season. He was accompanied by his mother, Mrs. Annie Roe, who will visit at Chicago for several weeks.

Secretary Wright Home—M. C. Wright, secretary of the Y. M. C. A., returned today from Lake Geneva, Wis., where he has been attending the association summer school. He states that P. J. Stephens, of Terre Haute, Ind., the new physical director, will arrive in East Liverpool about September 15.

Episcopal Harvest Home—Arrangements are now being made by the members of St. Stephen's church for the observance of the annual harvest home festival, which will be given September 27. The harvest home supper will be served in the parish building, while the harvest home service will be held in the church proper. An attempt will be made this year to eclipse the service of this character held in previous years.

Rinehart's Hay Purchase—Livestockman John Rinehart makes an explanation of that suit entered against him by Simon Cameron, of Beaver county, which puts the matter in a very different light. Mr. Rinehart claims that, instead of owing Cameron $35 for hay, he owes him but $6.28 which he has offered again and again to pay. Mr. Rinehart agreed to buy Cameron's hay at $8 a ton. The roads were so bad at the time that he hauled away 1,570 pounds only, agreeing to get the rest when the roads were better. But when he went after the rest of the four tons, he found it had been seized to satisfy a claim of Cameron's landlord for rent.

IN HIS CELLAR

Man Near Salineville Kills Two Copperhead Snakes—Serpents Abound There.

The farm upon which Frank Maple resides, located about two miles south of town, the home of his boyhood days, is a great rendezvous for the deadly copperhead as evidenced by the number of reptiles of this species he has dispatched during his residence on the old home place. A few days ago, says the Salineville Banner, he had occasion to enter the cellar of his dwelling house, where he encountered one of these venomous crotalid snakes with a mouse firmly fastened between its jaws. Upon leaving the cellar, after killing the snake, he walked around the house and picked up a fence rail, when to his surprise another of the same kind of reptiles met his gaze.

The second one was summarily disposed of and two copper-red scapels had been taken in one day. The second reptile killed measured three feet in length, the average length of this kind of snakes. On various other occasions the hero of this sketch has found and killed copperheads and his experience of this double meeting upon the same day was not extraordinary for Mr. Maple.

AN EAST LIVERPOOL MAN

Who Has Made a Success of the Theatrical Business—His Strong Company.

The people of East Liverpool will have a personal interest in the appearance of the McCloy Stock company at the Opera House next Monday evening, because W. D. Campbell, a former East Liverpool man, is the manager of the organization. While treasurer of the opera house here he was widely known, and when he went to Rochester a few years ago to manage the opera house there his departure was much regretted.

By good business methods he has placed the Rochester Opera House high up among the playhouses of western Pennsylvania. Not satisfied with that venture alone he has purchased the McCloy Stock company and makes his debut in the managerial field with a splendid organization, and one that achieved great popularity last season. The play his company will present here is the great New York success, "Under Two Flags."

A LOCAL CANDIDATE

Will Be Chosen One of the State Officers of the Jr. O. U. A. M.

When the annual convention of the Jr. O. U. A. M. meets at this city next month there is sure to be one of the state officers selected from the East Liverpool lodge. Whenever the state convention meets the members always choose at least one of the state officers from the lodge which entertains the convention. It would not be surprising to see the office of vice councillor come to East Liverpool. Of course, this is with the proviso that the local lodge enters a candidate in the race.

There is now one candidate in the field, and an appeal for votes for him was received here a few days ago. This is E. W. Funk, of Findlay. From present indications there is every reason to believe that the convention next month will be attended more largely than any held in recent years.

NOTED BANDIT WAS KILLED IN CUBA.

Havana, Aug. 24.—Lino Lima, the notorious bandit, for whose capture, dead or alive, the military government offered a reward of $1,000, has been killed at Macurijes, in the province of Matanzas. The police assisted the rural guard and four other bandits were captured at the same time. The body of Lima will be photographed for the purpose of identification.

RAIN INTERFERED

Base Ball Game Yesterday at West End Park Had to Be Called Off.

The base ball game scheduled to take place at the West End park yesterday afternoon was called off owing to rain which had its usual disastrous effect on the grounds. A small crowd of spectators collected in the grand stand, expecting to see the game commenced, but the East Liverpool players, with one or two exceptions, failed to show themselves.

All of the players of the Allegheny team went to the grounds and did some practice work. Both on the way to and from the grounds they indulged in singing, with an occasional interspersed in the shape of a college yell, which made the natives hereabouts believe a menagerie had been turned loose. The high school chaps were not aware that the people of East Liverpool are not accustomed to these classic outbursts.

Crushed the Diamond.

Among historic diamonds one, the "Piggott," has gone out of existence. The story of its destruction is a tragic one. It was said to be worth $200,000. The diamond came into the possession of Ali Pasha, who always wore it in a green silk purse attached to his girdle.

He was wearing it when he was wounded by Reshid Pasha. Knowing that his wound was mortal, he immediately retired to his divan, gave orders that his favorite wife should be poisoned and then delivered the diamond to Captain D'Angias with the order that it should be crushed to powder in his presence. His command was obeyed, and the beautiful gem was utterly destroyed.

REFUSED TO SIGN

Contempt of Court Charged Against Unwilling Witnesses in a Salem Court.

Salem, Aug. 24.—An attempt was made in Justice Asty's court to take the deposition of Lewis Smith in the $10,000 damage suit of C. J. Roller, administrator the estate of Almond Orr, against the Buckeye Engine company. Smith appeared at the justice's office, but refused to sign his name to any papers and was very obdurate in the matter. Every effort was made to get Smith to sign his name, but he refused, although Justice Asty threatened to have him arrested for contempt of court.

It is said that considerable trouble is being had with several witnesses and it is probable that several arrests may be made for contempt of court. Justice Asty announced that he would give all persons refusing to sign their names to the necessary papers until 7 o'clock Saturday evening to do so. If they still refuse to do the court's bidding at this time, he will at once have them arrested and prosecuted for contempt of court.

A Career Ending Joke.

This is a true story about one of the mayors of Kansas City. He was mayor when the incident occurred, not so very many years ago. Two newspaper men, both very good friends of the mayor, were about to leave town, and they asked Mr. Mayor to help them celebrate their departure.

It was a hot day in summer, and after an hour or two of convivial indulgence the mayor of Kansas City was very much under the influence of liquor. The newspaper men were feeling jovial, but they were still able to walk around. It finally became necessary to do something for the mayor. Seeing a fruit wagon pass, one of the newspaper men ran out and hailed the driver. When he drew up to the curb, he was asked whether or not he wanted to make $2. He replied that he most certainly did.

It was then explained to him that a drunken man would be stretched out in his wagon, face toward the sky, and that he must drive through all the business streets of the town and then take the man home. Not knowing who his passenger was to be, the driver consented, and the joke was carried out to the letter. Through the streets of Kansas City the mayor of the town, stretched out on an open wagon asleep, was driven, and there was a placard that announced the cause of the strange plight fastened on the back of the wagon. The mayor was not re-elected.—Chicago Chronicle.

Seeing a fruit wagon pass, one of the newspaper men ran out and hailed the driver. When he drew up to the curb, he was asked whether or not he wanted to make $2. He replied that he most certainly did.

It was then explained to him that a drunken man would be stretched out in his wagon, face toward the sky, and that he must drive through all the business streets of the town and then take the man home.

Not knowing who his passenger was to be, the driver consented, and the joke was carried out to the letter. Through the streets of Kansas City the mayor of the town, stretched out on an open wagon asleep, was driven, and there was a placard that announced the cause of the strange plight fastened on the back of the wagon. The mayor was not re-elected.—Chicago Chronicle.

LAY DOWN ON THE TRACK HOPING TO BE RUN OVER

And Two Men Were Unable to Pull Him Away As Engines Came Near.

When the Locomotives Were Stopped And Their Crews Carried the Man to a Place of Safety—He Had Been Drinking Heavily.

Half crazed by over-indulgence in liquor and while suffering from a fit of jealousy, Jasper M. Johnson, a teamster of this city, who returned a few days ago from southwestern Ohio, where he has been working for several months, tried to kill himself last evening and came dangerously close to succeeding.

Johnson was married several years ago to Lizzie Brighthouse, who at that time resided in East Liverpool, but their domestic life became unpleasant to the wife, who separated from her husband and went to Wellsville to live. Since that time Johnson is said to have done little good for himself, but roamed about the country, finally landing at Hamilton, this state, where he secured a position with a showman.

Since his return to this city he has been drinking heavily and though he has made repeated efforts to induce his wife to live with him again she persistently refused. Johnson learned that she was keeping company with another East Liverpool man, which aroused within him a feeling of intense jealousy and he determined to watch the woman so as to learn the identity of her new suitor, who, it was told him by friends, lived in a boat house near the flint mill.

Making his way last evening to the vicinity of the flint mill Johnson stationed himself where he could have a commanding view of the boat house. It was not long before his wife made her appearance and later the husband saw her in conversation with his rival. This was too much for the man to bear, and making his way to the boat he implored his wife to come with him, but she refused.

Johnson was drunk at the time and becoming desperate at his wife's indifference in her treatment toward him, he threatened in her presence to kill himself. This did not have the effect of appealing to the tender mercies of the woman and Johnson immediately started up the river bank and climbed to the railroad track between the flint mill and the glass house.

Taking off his coat the man threw it over one of the rails and then placing his neck down upon the garment he pushed his arms under the rail between two ties and held himself in his dangerous position with bull-dog determination. A few moments later the yard engine coupled to another came speedily around the curve above the flint mill, both engines having just finished doing some shifting at the freight house. Some small boys who were playing in the neighborhood saw Johnson on the track, and believing he had accidentally fallen they ran to his assistance and endeavored to pull him off.

Their efforts were powerless, as he retained the firm lock hold he had secured on the rail and in a few minutes two men who had been summoned to the spot also were trying to get the man out of his dangerous position, but without success.

The engineer of the forward locomotive saw Johnson on the rail soon after coming around the curve, but believing he would be pulled off the track in plenty of time no attempt was made at first to stop. Johnson saw the approaching engine, but the harder his would-be rescuers tried to drag him loose from the rail the more determined he became to baffle them.

Finally seeing that something was wrong the men in charge of both engines applied the airbrakes. The speed was checked instantly, but before the wheels were brought to a stop the forward truck of the engine in the lead was within six inches of Johnson's neck, while the pilot was close against his head. Several brakemen, who were with the engines, ran to the assistance of the men, who were yet vainly struggling to break Johnson's hold on the rail, but before he was finally drawn out from his perilous position it required rough handling on the part of the six men to accomplish the task.

After he had been placed on his feet at the side of the track the engines again started toward Wellsville, when Johnson made a move to throw himself under the wheels. The brakemen grappled with the man and held him fast until the rear engine passed and then ran ahead and jumped aboard. On reaching Wellsville one of the engineers telephoned the circumstances to the mayor's office here. Several officers went to the scene, but found that Johnson had taken his departure. He was seen on the streets last night, but as he was then in a sober state no attempt was made to arrest him.

UPSET A BUGGY

An odd accident occurred on Sixth street last night in which Mr. and Mrs. Fred A. Smith escaped being seriously injured. The latter were sitting in a buggy standing in front of the residence of Fred Nagle, while Mrs. Smith was talking to her mother, Mrs. Nagle. Without a moment's warning the head of a horse attached to a surrey struck Mrs. Smith on the shoulder. The surrey was being driven at such a rate of speed that it wrecked the buggy occupied by Mr. Smith and his wife, and threw the occupants to the ground.

When Mr. Smith recovered from his fright he found himself lying on the pavement under the buggy, but uninjured. Mrs. Smith was also thrown from the vehicle by it turning over, but she also escaped injury. The wrecked buggy was purchased by Mr. Smith a few weeks ago and was valued at $100. It is now a complete wreck.

Mr. Smith when seen this morning said: "The affair happened so quick that I do not know much about it, except that my buggy is a wreck, and my wife and I were thrown out. After the buggy was upset it was run over by the surrey, which was occupied by several liquor dealers. We were standing within a few inches of the curb, and there was ample room for any vehicle to pass. There was also an electric lamp burning near us and our buggy could be seen by any driver. Unless the buggy is repaired and placed in as good condition as before the accident, action may be entered to recover damages."

MARRIED BY THE SQUIRE

Girl From Texas Came North And Married a Pittsburg Man Here.

Justice McCarron yesterday afternoon married Miss Emma Brown, of Ft. Worth, Tex., and George Harlan, of Pittsburg.

There seems to be a romance back of the marriage, but the accommodating justice says if there is he knows nothing about it.

Miss Brown is the daughter of a prosperous farmer in Texas, and is good looking. Her age, perhaps, one might judge, is too tender to permit her to be married in her native state. Harlan is a steel worker, and did not feel as if he could afford to make a trip to the sunny south for his bride just now. So he asked her to come north. Within a few weeks Mr. and Mrs. Harlan will go south to make their home in the "Lone Star State."

The River Is Six Feet.

The heavy rains in the upper valleys yesterday caused the river to rise last night and the marks at the wharf this morning registered 6 feet. The Bessie Smith will pass up tomorrow for Pittsburg.

Lisbon Men Can Have Their Places Monday on the Company's Terms.

A WILD RUMOR AFLOAT

Of Men Shipped Into the Mill in Box Cars—Sheriff Noragon Vindicated. Strikers Satisfied He Did Not Swear in Deputies at Wellsville.

Lisbon, Aug. 24.—(Special)—The committee of strikers from the Lisbon Amalgamated lodge, which went to Wellsville to learn what Sheriff Noragon had done there, did not make a report at the special meeting of the lodge last night. In view of the developments of yesterday—the company's attempt to start the Lisbon mill—it was thought the part of wisdom to withhold the report until the next regular meeting, one week from today.

The exact nature of the report is not known except to the committee. But it is learned that the strikers are now satisfied that the sheriff has sworn in no deputies and has had nothing to do with Mayor Dennis' actions.

It was reported yesterday that 40 non-union men had been smuggled into the Lisbon mill in box cars. This is not true. If Manager Evans' statement that he has sufficient men to put the plant in operation be correct, the strikers cannot imagine how the men got into Lisbon undetected by the pickets. Those in a position to know think there may be a few men here who will go back to work, but not many—only the natural-born non-unionists, as Ed Herbert put it.

About 50 strikers met Erie passenger trains last night and this morning, as it was expected men would be brought in on them. But none came. The striking employees will be offered their places Monday by the mill management, on conditions similar to those offered the Niles strikers. So far everything is serene.

Henry Hollinger, one of the Lisbon men who was captured by strikers in company with Manager Evans, en route to Niles, left Lisbon yesterday. Strikers here thought he was out for a hunt for men for the Beaver mill and notified Niles and Youngstown to watch for him. It has been learned that he was away on private business. He came home last night shadowed by two Niles men.

After a long and careful inspection of the mill the strikers assert that there are not a dozen men in the plant and that these are office men, with perhaps a laborer or two. A man whose name the association would not divulge is said to have gained entrance to the mill today. He says there are no men at work and none to go to work.

Rev. George Fowler, pastor of the Christian church, will preach tomorrow on the labor question. He is a staunch friend of the workmen.

OLD SOLDIER ARRESTED

Told Mayor Davidson a Pathetic Story, Which Was Believed, And He Was Released.

William Voget, an old soldier and a cripple, was found on the street last night by Officer Davidson, suffering from an overdose of East Liverpool tanglefoot. The veteran was assisted to the bastille and this morning he told Mayor Davidson a story which was truly pitiful.

He stated that two months ago his house was burned in a southern Ohio town, and aside from the loss of his household goods his wife was so badly burned that death resulted. He was left penniless, but by selling pencils he managed to get this far on his way to Oil City, Pa., where he has a son. The mayor was convinced the man told the truth and gave him his liberty, but cautioned him to let liquor alone. The soldier said friends he met were responsible for his downfall.

STRIKERS QUIET AT WELLSVILLE

Their Attention Seems to Have Been Turned to Irondale and Lisbon.

Union Men Who Went to Work in Irondale Agree to Quit—Strike Breaker in Wellsville, But Did Not Remain Long.

No important developments in the strike situation at Wellsville occurred last night or today. Since Irondale and Lisbon have taken a stir and succeeded in working up their share of the excitement, Wellsville strikers have almost forgotten their personal troubles and seem to be more interested in the doings of their neighbors.

The Wellsville mill continues to move along with the same force which has been at work there the past few weeks, there being none of the men to quit or others to join the ranks of the non-union men. The strikers are satisfied to allow the mill to continue as it is at present, as they are convinced that it is being operated at a daily loss to the trust. Manager Brookman insists that five mills are at work, but the strikers laugh at this statement.

At Irondale the situation is little different from yesterday, although it is claimed that the mill will be forced to close down on Monday. Several of the men now at work have given their promise to quit tonight, and it is believed they will do as agreed. On their way home from the mill last evening they were met by a crowd of the strikers, but no attempt was made to do them harm. The men claimed they were forced to return to work in order to provide for their families, as they were financially unable to do otherwise.

A meeting was held by the members of the Amalgamated Association of the Irondale lodge, at which Vice President Chappell was present. It is said an agreement was made by the lodge to give to the members of the union who had returned to work the sum of $40 per month if they would consent to leave the mill, and it is thought every one of them will accept the offer.

Another report which gained credence in Wellsville, but which is incorrect, was that the employees of the Banfield coal mine, which furnishes fuel for the Irondale mill, had struck this morning. One or two of the men quit, but the mine is still in operation.

Mr. Chappell returned to Wellsville on the noon train today, in company with several of the Wellsville strikers who went to that town yesterday. As the train left Irondale a young man named Thompson, who was among the number to return to work with Manager Banfield, stepped aboard and came as far as Wellsville, where he went up the street past the Amalgamated headquarters to call on his sister, who is employed in a restaurant on Third street. He was closely watched by the strikers, but as Sheriff Noragon and Deputy Bick were close at hand the fellow was not molested.

Just as the train was ready to leave, Thompson started for the depot. Several of the strikers followed him, but he hurried aboard. It was learned he was on his way to East Liverpool, and it was decided to follow him. Word was sent ahead of the train to some potters to be on the lookout, but Thompson succeeded in eluding capture, and it is thought he went to Rock Springs this afternoon.

The report which became circulated lastnight that a carload of men had arrived at Lisbon to work in the mill there excited the Wellsville strikers for a time, but it was soon learned that the rumor was incorrect. A number of the Lisbon men who have been in Wellsville the past several days went home this afternoon and several Wellsville men accompanied them. More will go Monday.

Owing to a difference which has arisen between the owner of the property now occupied as the headquarters of the Amalgamated Association at Wellsville and the officials of the lodge a change will be made in a day or two. The vacant room just opposite the present headquarters will be occupied.

Organizer Evans expects to go to Lisbon Monday, at which time it is thought Organizer Griffiths will be again in Wellsville. It is not believed

ARRESTED HERE

An Irondale Strike Breaker Surrounded By Union Men in East Liverpool.

Will Thompson, a doubler, employed at the Irondale mill, arrived in East Liverpool this afternoon and went to Chester after some clothing. He was watched by a "spy," so he told a reporter, who saw him at the passenger station this afternoon and warned the Wellsville man to keep away from him. Thompson was surrounded by a number of potters while at the station, and while he seemed somewhat nervous refused to leave the ladies' waiting room.

A number of Amalgamated men were also in the crowd, but no violence was attempted.

About 3 o'clock Thompson was arrested on the charge of carrying concealed weapons. Chief Thompson made the arrest.

LOST HIS POCKETBOOK

Farmer Got Drunk on the Money He Obtained From a Load of Produce.

A farmer from near Calcutta who bought a load of country produce to this city yesterday morning, polluted himself with liquefied cheerfulness of the amber hue before returning home last evening and wandered to the West End, where an acquaintance came to his assistance.

When the man was brought back to the place where he had left his team standing he found it missing. An investigation disclosed that his wife, who accompanied him to town, had driven home and left him. He was then escorted to a livery stable, where he expected to hire a rig to take him home, but found that his pocketbook was missing. The man's friend procured a horse and buggy and drove him to his place of abode, where his wife met him with a well-seasoned club. He claimed that the pocketbook he lost contained $20.

PROMISED TO BE GOOD

And a Leetonia Boy Was Released From Jail And Sent Home.

Lisbon, Aug. 24.—(Special)—Frank Inman, of Leetonia, aged 14, who has been in jail for a week, charged with train jumping, was yesterday sentenced to the Boys' Industrial School at Lancaster by Judge Boone. On the boy's promise to be good, the court suspended sentence. Inman was allowed to return home.

Contracts Soon to Be Let For the Erection of 75 Houses.

In Addition Grading, Paving and Sewering Will Be Done.

THE WORK WILL BE HASTENED

A Promising Outlook for Much Active Business on the Southside in Connection With the Starting of the Tin Mill.

It has become currently reported in among contractors that within the next three weeks work will be commenced upon the erection of probably 75 houses, which will be built on the flat owned by the old Chester mill company, occupying the space between the mill and the residence of E. D. Marshall.

Contractors will bid at once for this work, and a number of contractors from abroad are expected here to look after the work soon. This is by far the greatest improvement that has been planned for the rapidly growing town since it was incorporated.

These houses, it is said, will be built by the old stockholders of the mill, and will include 25 four-roomed houses, the cost of which is estimated at $900 each. The building of 50 six-room houses has been estimated at $1,400 each. Besides this, the streets that were laid out several years ago when the land was first surveyed, will be graded, sewered, curbed and paved. The cost of this work could not be ascertained. A large number of workmen will be employed on this work and the improvement will be pushed as soon as contracts are let.

The erection of these houses in the location of the mill will make the town put on city airs. Last year the Southside Land company erected 30 houses in the east end of Chester, but as the number that will now be built greatly exceeds this, the future of the town is exceedingly bright. The 75 houses which will be built will practically fill the space between the mill and the Marshall property.

BY LIGHTNING

BOY AND HORSE KILLED WHILE AT WORK PLOWING.

The Unfortunate Youth Was Frank Cope, Who Lived Near Winona.

Salem, August 24.—(Special)—Frank Cope, who made his home with his grandfather, Elijah Raley, south of Winona, was struck and killed by lightning Thursday afternoon while he was plowing. It was not raining, but as he neared a tree that was standing in the field the tree received an electric shock and he and one of the horses was killed.

The young and unfortunate man would have been 17 years of age next month. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Freeman Cope, of Winona. He was a relative of the Tomlinson family of this city.

A SAD OCCURENCE

Child Dies While Father Is Absent in Michigan With Unknown Address.

Lisbon, Aug. 24.—The 10-year-old daughter of William Wirebaugh died at the family home in Salineville a few days ago after a brief illness with typhoid fever. The family lived until last spring on the Aldridge farm, north of town, moving from here to Salineville.

One bad feature of the death is that the father is employed in Michigan, and as his address was unknown he is still unaware of the death of his child. The funeral was held Wednesday.

Barn Burned By Lightning.

A barn owned by James L. Russell, a farmer, residing near Salineville, was struck by lightning Saturday night and burned to the ground, together with the contents, consisting of a large quantity of hay, grain and wool. The loss is placed at $2,000, with only $700 insurance.

EAST END

MISSIONARY SWAN

Will Not Return to China for at Least a Year—To Work in America.

Owing to the advice of physicians and for the benefit of the health of his wife and children, Rev. Charles Swan, for several years a missionary in China, under the supervision of the Presbyterian church, will not return to that country for a year at least. Such was the statement made by Rev. Mr. Swan this morning. His family has been ill since returning from the Orient soon after the war in China broke out, and at that time it was the purpose of the reverend gentleman to return to China within a few months. Since, however, the plans have been changed.

Rev. Mr. Swan expects to do missionary work in this country until the health of his family permits him to return to China. It is thought that upon his return there he will be sent into the interior of the country. In the past he has been working mainly in the coast and small inland towns.

A TRIVIAL CASE

East End Woman Fined $1, Pleading Guilty to Assaulting a Child.

In the court of Justice Carman, of the East End, yesterday Mrs. A. B. McCullough pleaded guilty to a charge of assault, and paid a fine of $1 and costs. A few days ago, it is alleged, Artie Jones, a little girl of probably 12 years, was gathering berries near the home of the McCullough family in the Calhoun addition, when it is said that Mrs. McCullough struck her.

A charge of assault and battery was preferred against the woman by the child, but when before the justice of the peace Mrs. McCullough denied that any blows were struck and pleaded guilty to a charge of assault. The case was a trivial one.

To Be Held at the Second M. E. Church in the East End.

The last quarterly conference of the congregation of the Second M. E. church, of the East End, will be held in the church on Pennsylvania avenue next Saturday evening. The last quarterly service will be held Sunday morning. At the meeting of Saturday evening reports of all the societies of the church for the past year will be presented.

The meeting will probably be presided over by Presiding Elder Holmes, of Steubenville, who is expected to arrive here next Saturday afternoon. This church was never known to be in a better condition than it has been during the present conference year.

Street Commissioner Alex Bryan this morning made a trip about the East End for the purpose of ascertaining the condition of the streets of the suburb. There is an obstruction at the corner of St. George street and Ohio avenue that has occupied the attention of the street force for some time, and now this is to be removed.

EAST END AFFAIRS.

In the court of Justice Carman yesterday a lien was filed against the property of Philip Baker, for about $38 by Swan & Culbertson, contractors.

This evening in their rooms on Mulberry street a meeting of local union No. 52, Amalgamated Association of Street Railway Employees of America, will be held. The meeting promises to be of unusual interest, as there is much special business to transact. Several applications for membership will likely be presented at this meeting.

STILL DEADLY

Were Diphtheria Germs That Had Lurked in a Child's Toys 15 Years.

Mt. Vernon, Aug. 24.—Germs that lurked for 15 years in a child's toys may cause the death of two children at the home of Charles Hutton, in this city.

Mrs. Hutton died about a week ago, and her daughter, Mrs. George Keck, of Indiana, came to attend the funeral, bringing with her a small daughter. Yesterday this child and another child of Mrs. Hutton were taken suddenly and dangerously ill. Physicians were summoned and they pronounced the disease malignant diphtheria.

There is not another case of diphtheria in the city, and the physicians were at a loss to account for its origin. Upon investigation they found that a child of Mrs. Hutton had died 15 years ago of diphtheria. During her illness she had played with an assortment of toys, which, after her death, were gathered together by the father and stored in the garret of the home.

About a week ago the present victims found these toys, gathered them from their hiding place, and amused themselves with them. The physicians are certain that the germs have lingered about the toys all these years, and have caused the present illness.

WORK STOPPED

On the Alliance and Salem Street Car Line at Sebring—Trouble With the Sebrings.

Salem, August 24.—Fourteen teams which have been employed on the Alliance and Salem street car line stopped operations last evening and will not resume work again until the trouble with the Sebrings is settled. Rapid progress was being made by the officials of the company, but the action of the Sebrings have at present knocked their plan in the head.

The Sebrings wanted the street railway people to go through Sebring on the main thoroughfare of the burg. The route as laid out did not go this way and this action on the part of the company made the Sebrings angry and they are doing all in their power to block the street car men. The teams and men will at once be placed to work on the line between Alliance and Canton.

WHITE MAN WEDS NEGRESS

As a Result the Bride, Groom and Minister Who Married Them Are in Jail.

Wheeling, Aug. 24.—Frank Graves, a white man of good appearance and evident breeding, and Rev. J. R. Atkins, colored, pastor of the Ebenezer Baptist church, were arrested and are now in jail on a serious charge.

Graves, whose home is in this city, was married to Irene May Taylor, of Pittsburg. Irene is a dark brown negress with nearly straight hair and rather good looking. Atkins performed the ceremony. The West Virginia statute provides a fine of $100 and a year in state prison for any white person who marries a negro, and a fine of $200 for the minister who performs the ceremony. The law provides no penalty to the negro contracting such an alliance.

The marriage license was issued because Graves failed to state that his bride was not white.

Akron, Aug. 24.—The company which proposes to utilize the Cuyahoga river for power is being promoted and financed by Columbus men, at the head of whom is G. A. Ritchie, an engineer of prominence. A million dollar company will be organized, and Mr. Ritchie claims that the necessary power plant can be installed for $75,000. He estimates that 30,000 horse power can be furnished at the lowest stage that the river has ever reached.

A CASE OF IT

Many More Like It in East Liverpool.

The following case is but one of many occurring daily in East Liverpool. It is an easy matter to verify its correctness. Surely you cannot ask for better proof than such conclusive evidence:

Mrs. Edward Orr, of 220 Thompson street, says: "My sister, Mrs. Borland, of Pittsburg, while visiting us, recommended Doan's Kidney Pills so highly that I was induced to try them. I had severe attacks of kidney complaint. Some times I was so bad I could not get up; many times my neighbors came and found me lying on the lounge suffering, when I intended to do a big day's work. I was so miserable I could do nothing. After my sister told me of the pills I made up my mind to try them and got a box at the W. & W. pharmacy. They did just what they claimed they would do—cured me sound and well in a few days. My little girl was feeling poorly and had a sallow complexion, for some time I gave her a few doses and after the treatment she felt splendidly."

SPOILED CHILDREN.

Cure Them by Teaching Them Mutual Consideration.

A summer hotel is a good place to study children's dispositions. The little troop which races around the piazzas and plays hide and seek on the lawn has all the characteristics of a circle of grown ups. You see the miniature conceited man, the tiny woman back biter and the embryo flirts of the next decade; but, above all, you are painfully aware of the prevalence of spoiled children.

For instance, the lunch bell rings. Bobby, aged 4, dashes up to his mother and tries to pull her away from a woman friend with whom she is talking. "Mamma," he cries sharply. "Mamma, come; I want to eat!" No answer. "Mamma, mamma, ma-amma-a-a!" Do you hear? (Stamp of foot.) "Hurry up!" Bobby's mother turns half around and in a mild manner remarks, "Bobby, be still."

But Bobby won't be still. He tugs, pulls, pushes and squirms until finally his mother is glad to get up and follow him into the dining room.

"What a horrid temper that child has!" a woman remarks, and another who is wiser answers: "Not a bit of it! It's a temper he is acquiring because of the way she is bringing him up. When he annoys her too much, she punishes him; otherwise she endures him as a necessary evil. At all times she is sweetly unselfish. She gives him the best of everything and waits on him like a slave. By her very unselfishness she is making him into the most selfish little brute alive."

Which was only too true.

Children are being brought up differently nowadays. It is no longer the fashion to quote the proverb, "Children should be seen, but not heard." On the contrary, the tots are allowed to assert their individuality and even encouraged to that effect. Well trained children are simply brought up to act like well bred men and women. Jack is told that his mother is a lady and that he must treat her as such if he wants to be treated like a grown up man. On the same principle he is taught to be courteous to his little sister and to give up his chair to her the way men do to girls. He mustn't interrupt, not because he is a child, but because well bred grown ups never do it. And so forth and so on. This method of mutual consideration is the only right way of bringing up a child.

HINTS TO THE HOUSEWIFE.

Things Which Are Useful to Remember.

Raw potato juice is an excellent cleanser. It will remove stains from the hands and also from woolen materials.

Blacklead should be mixed either with turpentine or with soapy water, for thus a good polish is soon produced. The smell of onions may easily be removed from the hands by rubbing over with celery and then washing them with cold water.

Alabaster may be cleaned by applying a paste of starch mixed with water. Leave the paste on till dry, then remove with a stiff brush, when all dirt will come away with it.

To make red wash for bricks put an ounce of glue into three quarts of water and then gently heat it until the glue is dissolved, then add an ounce of alum. Mix together half a pound of venetian red and half an ounce of Spanish brown. Gradually pour the liquid on to the powder, stirring it well to make it smooth. Be sure that the bricks or hearthstones are quite clean, and then put on the color with a large flat brush. The color may be varied to suit individual taste by adding or diminishing the quantity of red or brown.

Unbleached calico shrinks, therefore in making it up one extra inch in each yard should be allowed for shrinkage.

To clean black cloth mix one part of spirits of ammonia with three parts of hot water. Apply with a sponge and rinse off with clean water.

A Little Too Faithful.

A thief in Paris, being chased by the police, threw away during his flight the purse he had stolen and was in a fair way, after being taken to the police station, of being allowed to go free for lack of sufficient evidence to hold him when his faithful dog, which he had trained to fetch and carry, trotted into the station, wagging its tail, with the missing purse in its mouth.—Paris Journal.

A Bit of Events' Wit.

When William M. Evans was secretary of state in President Hayes' cabinet, he said in an after dinner speech at Omaha: "I like the west. I like her self made men. And the more I travel west, the more I meet with her public men, the more I am satisfied of the truthfulness of the Bible statement that the wise men came from the east."

Sunny.

The word sunny borrowed its original significance from astrology. It described a person born under the influence of the sun, this luminary being supposed to exercise a beneficial influence on the character of the individual.

MEN QUIT WORK.

Strikers Induced Some Men to Leave Star Plant, at Pittsburg.

Others Besides Some of Union Leaders Present—Significant Move Made at W. Dewees Wood Plant, at McKeesport.

Pittsburg, Aug. 24.—Twelfth street was full of excitement last night. It was caused by conditions surrounding the operation of the Star mill of the American Tin Plate company, at Twelfth and Etna streets. The strikers say they succeeded in getting 11 men from the mill yesterday, five in the morning and six in the evening. They say also they induced three men, who came from Dennison, O., to take the places in the plant, not to work. The management of the mill claims all is going well, and the men imported two days ago are satisfied.

Conference Held at Pittsburg.

A conference between National President John Mitchell, of the United Mine Workers, and President T. J. Shaffer took place at Amalgamated association headquarters yesterday afternoon. The meeting between the two labor leaders was somewhat unexpected, according to President Shaffer, who said that he had received a telegram from Mr. Mitchell Thursday asking if he could see him for a short time, as he was on his way to Chicago from the anthracite fields. Soon after Mr. Mitchell's arrival yesterday it was announced that Grand Master Sargeant, of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen, was to take part in the conference, but he did not appear at any time. Others who did appear, however, were Ralph M. Easley, secretary of the National Civic Federation, of Chicago; Prof. J. W. Jenks, professor of political economy, of Cornell university, and Henry M. White, president of the National Garment Workers' union, of New York. These men spent four hours in close conference with President Shaffer. President Mitchell and Prof. Jenks left for Chicago last night at the conclusion of the meeting.

President Shaffer said in explanation that there was no formal conference during the day. The matter was wholly informal and those present during the afternoon were simply interested in learning the true situation, and in getting at the bottom of the strike and its causes. There was nothing done at the meeting of importance, he said, and while all details of the matter were gone over with great care and deliberation, it was well understood that it was for information and not for anything else. President Mitchell said after the meeting that he did not come to Pittsburg for any special purpose. He had nothing to give out for publication, and would not discuss the strike in any form. During the conference with President Shaffer, Secretary John Williams, Assistant Secretary M. F. Tighe and Manager B. I. Davis, of The Amalgamated Journal, were present most of the time.

Significant Move at Wood Plant.

The American Sheet Steel company made a somewhat significant move yesterday regarding the W. Dewees Wood plant at McKeesport. The company discharged its watchmen in the plant and the work done by them will be done by the foremen, who are paid annual salaries. A number of the clerks in the mill offices have been relieved from further duty and have been transferred to the general offices of the American Steel and Wire company in Pittsburg. It was announced that the Sheet Steel company had positively abandoned all idea of operating the Wood plant again, and these movements were in line with this determination.

Eczema for Forty Years.

The Unqualified Statement of a Well Known Attorney, St. Ignace, Mich.

Some of the cures made by Dr. A. W. Chase's Ointment of stubborn and long continued eczema and skin diseases are causing much comment. People are beginning to realize that this Ointment is a wonder worker with all kinds of skin trouble. Attorney Jas. J. Brown, St. Ignace, Michigan, writes as follows:

Dr. A. W. Chase Med. Co., Buffalo, N. Y.—Gents:—I cannot refrain from expressing my acknowledgment for the relief I have felt from Dr. Chase's Ointment. For 40 years I was afflicted with a skin disease which was located in one spot—on my leg. I have spent at a rough estimate five hundred dollars trying to effect a cure, and not until I applied this ointment did I get relief. You are strangers to me and this letter is prompted directly because I want to say it. I feel as though I ought to say it. That Chase's Ointment has effected a complete cure of my affliction. Three boxes did the work on my leg. I was also suffering from itching piles and applied the ointment which gave the best of satisfaction by affording me rest at night and rapidly causing the disease to disappear. I have received such relief and comfort from the ointment that I cannot withhold expressing my gratitude. I was so long afflicted with the tortures of eczema. I feel now that I am cured, a word of recommendation is due from me.

Yours truly,

JAS. J. BROWN.

Latest reports in Lawrenceville last night were to the effect that the strikers had succeeded in inducing seven of the skilled men operating the 12-inch mill in the lower Union mills of the Carnegie company to come out after the last turn this week and they would not return on Sunday night. The promise of these men is said to have been secured during the past week and was reiterated again last night. The officials of the plant deny that this is the case, and say that the men will report for duty as before. The strikers claim accessions to their ranks from the Clark mills during the past week and promise more before starting time on Sunday night.

HELD HIM AS A PRISONER.

Youngstown Strikers Detain Suspected Worker—Non-Unionists Did Not Arrive.

Youngstown, O., Aug. 24.—Several hundred strike sympathizers assembled around the Erie depot in Niles and waited an hour for a bunch of strike breakers who were reported to be coming through there for Lisbon. A message was received from Lisbon strikers that Henry Hollinger, who figured in the recent attempt to take strike breakers through Niles, would pass through Niles with another batch bound for the plant of the American Tin Plate company, in Lisbon.

The news spread and several hundred waited on all Lisbon bound trains. Hollinger was taken into custody by the men, but no one with the ear-marks of a striker could be found. He was released after the last Lisbon bound train had pulled out.

PASSENGERS TERRORIZED.

Crazy Woman and Her Two Sons Go Screaming Among Them With a Big Jack Knife.

Corning, N. Y., Aug. 24.—Passengers on Erie Limited, No. 5, had a lively experience between Elmira and Corning. After the train left Elmira Thursday night a woman started running through the train screaming that some one was trying to place her under an anesthetic. She fought off her imaginary foe with a big jack knife. With her were two sons, aged 14 and 17 years, who were afflicted the same as she. The passengers were terrorized.

When the train reached here the woman made a dash, and with her hand smashed the large plate glass in the car vestibule and jumped from the train, followed by the two boys. They ran a block and then rushed into the Corning club.

The woman and her sons were finally caught by the police and a doctor dressed her numerous cuts and bruises. Yesterday she gave her name as Dr. Nellie Poor, and said her sons' names were Henry and Robert. They lived, she said at 616 Kimbark avenue, Chicago.

The woman and her sons had apparently taken some strong narcotic, which crazed them temporarily. They were apparently all right yesterday and proceeded for Chicago last night.

TEN CENTS ON THE DOLLAR.

Said That Depositors of a Cleveland Failed Bank Will Get No More.

Cleveland, Aug. 24.—Upon application of the Superior Realty and Improvement company, Judge Dellenbaugh, of the common pleas court, appointed Walter D. Sayle receiver for the Superior Street Savings and Banking company. The plaintiff in its petition charges, among other things, that the bank refuses to pay back about $4,000 deposited with it by the realty company. Receiver Sayle is quoted as saying after a brief examination of the books of the bank that he doubted if the depositors would realize more than 10 cents on the dollar. It is said that when the doors of the bank were closed Friday morning the total deposits did not exceed $80,000.

NAVAL OFFICERS TO RETIRE.

Schley's Retirement Will Promote Two Captains to Rear Admirals.

Washington, Aug. 24.—Important retirements and promotions in the United States navy will occur within the next few weeks, as announced at the navy department. Among them is that of Rear Admiral Schley, who retires from the active list Oct. 10. Other retirements are those of Captain Farenholt, Sept. 2; Captain Robinson, Sept. 21; Capt. Forsyth, Sept. 25, and Captain Ide, Sept. 27. As a result of these retirements 45 promotions in the service will be made.

The retirement of Rear Admiral Schley will promote two captains to the grade of rear admiral. They are Captains Frank Wildes and Henry Glass.

RELIGIOUS CENTER.

Different Denominations to be Asked to Locate at Winona Lake.

BUILD SUMMER HOMES THERE.

Meetings Held to Request Churches to Act—Already Methodists and Presbyterians Have Such Accommodations.

Warsaw, Ind., Aug. 24.—Separate denominational meetings of representatives attending the Winona Bible conference were held again, all of which took action relative to making Winona the religious center of the country by requesting their respective churches to erect summer homes on assembly grounds for the use of their pastors and families.

Already the Methodists and Presbyterians have such accommodations. Ministers of all denominations having annual salaries of $1,000 or less are provided for in the Moody memorial building, and home and foreign missionaries are cared for by the liberality of Rev. J. Wilbur Chapman, immediate work on these proposed cottage homes will be urged, that they may be ready for occupancy by next summer. The women attending the conference met and decided to extend missionary work in China more vigorously than ever. Nearly every denomination was represented. Morning devotional service was led by S. D. Gordon, of Cleveland, which was followed by a lecture, the speaker being Rev. Cornelius Woolfkin, of Brooklyn. Addresses were also given by Rev. W. G. Moorehead, of the Presbyterian Theological seminary, at Xenia, O., and Rev. George T. Purves, of New York. Rev. J. W. Vandeventer, of Scotland, conducted the third illustrated service for young people in the afternoon. Rev. J. Wilbur Chapman led the hillside service at sunset, which was attended by an immense throng. A sermon last night was delivered by Rev. John McNeill, of Glasgow. Rev. J. Willis Baer, of Boston, secretary of the World's United Christian Endeavor societies, will address the Bible conference on Sunday.

presented to the anti-Tammany conference on Sept. 9 as a candidate for mayor. At this conference will be representatives of the Republican county committee, the Independent Democratic organization, the Citizens' union and the German-American union. Mr. Coler was elected comptroller on the Tammany ticket at the last city election.

STRAPPED HIM TO A BOARD

Charles Nordstrom, Convicted of Murder, Collapses Completely in Sight of the Gallows.

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 24.—Charles W. Nordstrom was hanged here for the murder, on November 27, 1891, of William Mason. Shortly after 9:30 Nordstrom was taken to a room adjoining the death chamber. He wept continually. It required the utmost efforts of five men to keep him on his feet. When he was taken into the death chamber he broke down entirely, crying in a childish voice, and praying that his life be spared. Then he collapsed entirely and fell to the floor.

Efforts to raise him and keep him on his feet were fruitless. Finally Sheriff Cuddehe ordered that a board be brought. To this Nordstrom was tied. It required six men to hold him for the operation. Several times Nordstrom seemed to speak, but his words were unintelligible. The six men who had held him raised his body on the board and with great effort succeeded in getting him upon the scaffold. There he was placed upright, while four men stood on the four sides of the trap and held him. In less than two seconds after the condemned man had been fastened the trap was sprung.

May Challenge Howison Later. Washington, Aug. 24.—There is apparently no possibility for the lawyers for Admiral Schley to avoid a formal and public challenge of the eligibility of Admiral Howison. Acting Secretary Hackett has come to the conclusion that he will adhere to the decision that was reached by him, Admiral Crowinshield, Lieutenant Ward and Solicitor Hanna in a conference held just before the decision was announced.

COUNTY AND NEIGHBORHOOD

A county medical society is proposed in Carrollton.

Prof. J. F. Finebrock, of Carrollton, will have charge of Bowerston schools the coming term.

Mrs. James P. Cummings, of Carrollton, fell over the foot of the bed and fractured two of her ribs.

Jeremiah Glenn, aged 50 years, an employee of the Lake Shore railroad, was killed by a train at Youngstown.

Harry Atkins, of Chicago, suspected of having hydrophobia, is in jail at Newark, because a hospital would not receive him.

The carpenter and machinists of the Stirling Boiler company's plant, near Akron, joined the striking boiler-makers and nearly 800 men are now out.

The Youngstown and Sharon Electric Railway company has had the authorities of Hubbard enjoined from preventing the building of the road through the town.

At Martin's Ferry Mrs. Peter Wechper was aroused from her sleep by inhaling smoke and found the house in flames. The husband and wife succeeded in getting their seven children out through a window, but lost everything, including their clothing. The house burned.

KEEPING COOL.

It is agreeable to know there is in America at least one woman who can defy the heat. She is the Brooklyn ice woman. Yes, why not an ice woman? This one rises at 3 o'clock in the morning, harnesses her horse, with the aid of a small son, and off she goes, delivering crystal blocks to 134 customers. Her son carries the ice into the houses when he can, and when the chunks are too large his mother helps him.

The only unpleasant thing about the business for the intrepid ice woman is that she hates to have people think she is "queer," when this was the only course to take unless she let the family lose its living, for her husband, the original iceman, was laid up in hospital. Queer? Rather one envies.

One envies, sitting up there under a duck awning with those great ice blocks behind her, the cold air from them sweeping all around her and driving off the heat waves. We can't all be ice wagon drivers, though, so the next best thing is to keep cool in the stations of life whereunto we are called. In the matter of clothing women in summer have the advantage over men. The beautiful fabrics in cotton and linen which women can wear, both in shirt waist and skirt or in a gown all in one piece, are numberless. Infinite comfort is in these when they are kept dainty and clean, which goes, of course, for no real woman is ever anything else than dainty and clean. The most revolting object thinkable is a dirty woman, with gummy hair and dingy skin and garments. Fortunate for civilization that there are not more of this sort.

If you never knew it before, you are probably finding out this summer that there is nothing like water. With garments clean and fresh through frequent renovation, with the luxury of cold baths taken even twice a day in the hottest weather, any woman can keep herself and her family cool if, in addition, she herself only keeps cool in her mind.

One of the most important requisites for being comfortable is to keep cool in your mind, and this is how to do it: Don't fret or fume over the heat, no matter how great. Don't mention it to anybody. Don't keep saying: "Oh, dear me, I'll die! I'm roasted! I can't stand this any longer. I never slept a wink all night." Be serene in your mind. Don't think of the heat at all if you can help it, and when you must think of it picture immediately the ice woman upon the frozen crystal blocks.

The Gentleman's Psalm.

A reader of the Scriptures emphasizes the Fifteenth Psalm as the gentleman's psalm because it describes as among the many who are entitled to be considered as gentlemen "one who leadeth an incorrupt life, speaketh truth from his heart, doeth no evil to his neighbor, is lowly in his own eyes, keepeth his word even if it be to his own hindrance."

Not Alike.

The Professor—Don't use that phrase, my dear. It is grossly unscientific.

His Wife—What phrase? "As much alike as two peas?"

The Professor—Yes. Examined under the microscope, two peas will present startling differences.—Puck.

A Postmaster Writes:

"I wish to add my testimonial to the genuine merit of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. I have tried many remedies, but have found your Syrup Pepsin superior to all other laxatives and stomachic medicines. My wife and I both use it and know it does all that you claim for it."

RURAL DELIVERY GROWTH.

The system of free delivery of mail
at the farm homestead is developing
in the United States by great strides.
The first routes bearing the name
"rural free delivery" were established
on October 1, 1896, at Halltown, Uvil-
la and Charlestown, W. Va. Others followed at once, and by the close of the fiscal year the experiment showed satisfactory results. There were 44
routes in the fall of 1897. This number increased to 128 in 1898, and on November 1, 1899, had jumped to 634.
They radiated from 383 distributing
points and served a population of 452-735 persons. On June 30, 1900, a little more than six months later, the number of routes had grown to 1,214
for a population of 879,127, and in the next four months the system again
more than doubled its proportions,
showing on November 1, 1900, 2,551
routes for 1,801,524 persons, and there were also at that date 2,158 applications for the establishment of new routes.

The whole of the United States is now laid out in four divisions for the inauguration and maintenance of this
with steadily increasing volume. The number of rural free delivery carriers
today is 5,062, and by the end of the current fiscal year the total, it is expected, will be 8,000. There have just been added to the service 30 new routes, which involved the discontinuance of almost as many postoffices
or star routes.

In facilitating business, promoting reading habits and the spread of intelligence, the rural free delivery system is doing a grand work. Almost equally important is the fact that it
is causing farming districts to improve the highways, making them
passable at all seasons.

FAMILY TREES TO ORDER.

A "college of heraldry" has been established in New York. Its object is to furnish coats of arms, crests, escutcheons, family trees and other things more ornamental and useful
for which silly customers are willing to pay. American families who wished
to establish their claims to an aristocratic or titled lineage have hitherto
been compelled to go abroad to do so.
Now an American institution proposes to relieve them of the trouble and annoyance of such work. It is often said that a fool and his money are soon parted. The harmless lunatics
who will feel better if they can trace
their ancestry back to some cattle-stealing baron or some pirate of the middles ages might spend their money even more unwisely than by putting it into family trees built to
order. Let them get what satisfaction they can from such investments.

The world will not be deceived. It takes brains and worth to establish a genuine aristocracy. Rank is but the guinea's stamp, as Burns asserted. A man whose only claim to distinction
rests on something that his grandfather or some remote ancestor did is a fool if he expects sensible people to gaze at him in awe or admiration.

A Harrisburg man claims to have
invented a miraculous telegraphic
system, superior to Marconi's. He has probably manipulated wires, as many Pennsylvanians do, until he is tired of it.

"Mr. Bryan makes no claim to leadership," says Mr. Bryan's paper. It is evident that Mr. Bryan has heard
from Ohio.

Peaches are plentiful from all reports except those which the fruit dealer gives you.

59-1

The loss caused by the fire at the Dresden pottery one week ago today
will not be adjusted until Thursday
next. The adjusters are now enjoying an outing at Put-in-Bay. One of the members of the Dresden company
said yesterday afternoon that the company would commence rebuilding its plant as soon as the loss was adjusted, and that every little change would
be made in the buildings.

The company yesterday afternoon
commenced making clay and next Monday the plant would be in full operation. Shipments will also be made Monday. There are four kilns of ware ready for the warehouse. Of
course this ware will not be placed in stock, but will be shipped immediately.

The story has become circulated
that the company would not be ready
to make ware until the first of the
year, but all the employees have received orders to report for duty Monday. Several salesmen for this plant,
who are now in the city, will leave
for their respective territories with-
in a few weeks with a complete line
of samples for the fall and winter
trade.

All the locals of the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters will make an attempt to secure the prize that will be offered by Trades and Labor Council for the largest number of men that any local has in line. It has been said by some of the officers
of No. 9, that if all the members of
that local turn out in the Labor day
parade, the prize is as good as secured,
as the membership of this local is said
to be far in advance of any other local in this city or Westville. The caps that will be worn by the kilnmen
on this occasion have been purchased
and cost 25 cents each. They are very neat. The miniature kiln that is now
in the office of the national officers
will be taken down, cleaned and car-
parade.

At a meeting of kilnmen's local No.
9, held last evening in Brotherhood
hall, it was decided to participate in the Labor day parade to be given at Westville during the morning of that day. Five new members were obligated at this meeting, and at the next session no less than seven applications
for membership will be considered.
These applications are from new apprentices who are now being placed at work in the various potteries. It is
increasing more rapidly than any other local in the Brotherhood. The local numbers several hundred members.

The announcement has been made
that in the future all plain ware made
by the East Liverpool Potteries company will be manufactured at the East Liverpool plant. For some time
this sort of ware has been made at
the Diamond pottery, but it is said
that in the future festoon ware will
be made there, and all the plain shapes that were made at the Diamond in the past will be discarded.
Every department of the Diamond pottery is working full, and the same conditions prevail at all the other factories of the East Liverpool Potteries
company.

Charles Marshall, an employee of the Sevres pottery, met with an accident
Wednesday afternoon. He was scuffling with a fellow workman who had a polishing knife in his hand. The blade flew from the handle and
struck Marshall in the left arm, inflicting a painful wound. He was taken to the office of Dr. W. J. Taylor, where his injury was dressed. It required four stitches to close the
wound.

The toilet set ordered by the Improved Order of Red Men several months ago from the George C. Murphy Pottery company, is ready for shipment. The set is replete with emblems of the order and was made specially for the state convention, which
was held at Columbus several months
ago. It will be shipped to the lodge claiming the prize not later than next week.

The Vance Faience company, of Tiltonville, O., in order to get ready for a new line of goods have had made by the Crossley Manufacturing company,
of Trenton, N. J., a big jigger that is really "big." This jigger is 22x11,
with a movement two feet up and
was built on a special order, and anything up to a washtub can be made

on it.

To a stranger it would be surprising to learn that no less than four cars of ware are shipped from the Chester potteries daily, and on some occasions this number has been exceeded. All these cars are packed to
the limit, and are not touched until
the car is placed in a transfer station,
either at Pittsburg or Columbus.

Local union No. 12, at a meeting
which will be held next Tuesday
evening, will complete arrangements
for the Labor day parade. The boys
all claim that they will have a full line, as most all the members have stated they propose to try to capture
the prize.

Robert Fraser, a finisher at Taylor-
Lee & Smith's who was poisoned
while on a picnic at Silver Lake two weeks ago and has been compelled
to be off duty since, has recovered,
and will resume his duties Monday.

William Bennett has taken a position as kilnman at the Diamond pottery. He resides at Chester. Quite a number of kilnmen employed at this plant reside across the river.

Hugh Maley, a jiggerman at the Diamond pottery, has purchased a residence property in the West End.
Maley is one of the steadiest workmen at the Diamond.

Harry Joyce has resigned his position at the Sevres and has accepted
one as finisher for a dishmaker at the new end of Knowles, Taylor &
Knowles'.

The frame work of the large new warehouse at Sherwood Bros.' pottery,
New Brighton, has been completed
and is now ready for the sheet iron
sidings.

E. M. Criss has resigned his position as printer at the Thompson pottery and has accepted a similar one at Taylor, Lee & Smith.

Thomas Putnam, a jiggerman at the Sevres plant, has resigned his position
and is now working out his two weeks'
notice.

George Bloor has resigned his position as presser at the East Liverpool
pottery.

Unionport Woman Goes Insane And Fancies She Is a Maltese
Cat.

Steubenville, Aug. 24.—Mrs. Rebecca Tipton, of Unionport, has gone suddenly insane with the strangest pre-
sentiment on record in the probate court and due to reasons that are unique.

While run down physically and sick
she was advised to use malted milk.
The word "malted" in some way suggested to her that she was a Maltese
cat, and she began from that time on
to lap up milk or other food given
her like a cat, and she tells everybody
she is a Maltese cat, and has the hallucination so bad she has gone insane
and is to be sent to the State hospital
at Columbus. The examining physician pronounces it the strangest case
he has seen.

PANHANDLE PICNIC

A Great Event to Occur at Rock Springs Park September 27.

J. Howard Maxwell, manager of Rock Springs park, went to New Cumberland yesterday afternoon where the final arrangements for the holding of the Hancock county picnic September 27 were closed. This event is always looked forward to by the residents of that county as a gala day, and it is expected by the park management that at least 10,000 persons will visit the park on that date. The Panhandle Railroad company will run two special trains to the park on that date, besides extra coaches will be attached to all regular trains.

The first special train will leave the park for down river points at 6:30 o'clock, while the second train will leave Chester at 11:30 o'clock. The committee who will have charge of this event are now working on a program that will excel anything of the past; hence the picnic is sure to be of unusual interest.

TWO CARLOADS OF CATTLE

Brought to Chester By Joseph Laughlin, a Calcutta Farmer.

Joe Laughlin, a well known farmer residing near Calcutta, yesterday afternoon received two carloads of cattle at the Chester station. They were unloaded last night and early this morning were driven to the Laughlin farm. In crossing the bridge the bridge, the latter company charged five cents a head toll.

As soon as the cattle came from the cars they drank all the water lying in small pools about the station. They had been two days in coming from the west to Chester, and it is said the owner of the cattle did not want to unload them until this morning. Station Agent James Stewart would not hear to this and unlocked the car doors last evening.

BY SPECIAL TRAIN

A Thousand Picnickers Came From Beaver Falls to Rock Springs Today.

One of the best picnics of the season was at Rock Springs park today. It was the first annual outing of the Standard Gauge Steel company and Keystone Driller company, of Beaver Falls. A special train composed of 15 coaches hauled by Fort Wayne engine No. 102 arrived here at 10:45 this morning with about 1,000 excursionists on board. Nine special summer cars of the Rock Springs line were in waiting on Union street and the picnickers were soon landed at the park.

The train will return to Beaver Falls from the C. & P. station this evening at 8:30 o'clock.

DISLOCATED A FINGER

Beaver Falls Picnicker Meets With an Accident While Playing Ball.

Charles Murray, of Beaver, met with an accident shortly after his arrival at the park this morning. Some of the young men of the picnickers were playing ball, and Murray, who was in the field, made an attempt to catch a fly. He was shoved by a companion and the ball struck him on the large finger of the right hand, causing a compound dislocation, the bone at the first joint protruding through the flesh about half an inch. He was taken to the office of Dr. Lewis, where the injured member was dressed.

The program which will be presented by the management of Rock Springs park tomorrow afternoon gives promise of being one of the best of the season. Several special features have been secured by Manager Maxwell, among the number the Harris quartet, of Pittsburgh, and the only original reproduction of the world's famous Passion Play. These scenes were from the actual production of the play as presented at Oberammergau, Bavaria. The selections to be rendered by Dowling's orchestra will be new to the park visitors.

Suit Withdrawn.

The case filed at the office of Squire Johnston last week against A. F. Killmer by J. Werner, a tailor, of East Liverpool, for $20.50, claimed due as a balance on a suit of clothes, and which was to have been heard yesterday, has been withdrawn, the plaintiff paying the costs.

More Building Material.

More building material was received at the mill this morning and there is a report in circulation that a day and night force will be placed at work next week, but it could not be verified.

CHESTER NOTES.

Mrs. John Spencer returned to her home at Franklin, Pa., after a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Geo. A. Arner.

The school board held a meeting this afternoon for the purpose of letting the contract for the seats for the new school building.

A Singing Earthworm.

We have heard of a good many creatures which sing, including Mr. Ruskin's singing serpents in the valley of Diamonds, yet Mr. Annandale has assured us that there exists in the Malay peninsula a being which the Malays described under the above heading.

It lives in a burrow in the ground and cheerfully sings, or at least chirps. But the Malays call everything that creeps a worm, and the beast which they really mean is a large kind of cricket with a voice.

In the very same part of the world, however, is a real earthworm, a huge monster three or four feet in length, which was discovered not long ago and which really has a voice, or at least can produce a sound. The Latin name of muscous has been given to it on that account.

When it is foraging about near the surface of the ground, the numerous sharp little bristles implanted in its skin, which enable it to hold on to the earth, strike against stones and give out a musical sound. This is rather more like twanging a "Jew's harp" than singing. But any sort of sound from these silent, gliding creatures is singing.—London Express.

Jackson and the Tailor's Bill.

A gentleman in Pennsylvania has a queer document which came into his family's possession many years ago and shows an interesting phase of Andrew Jackson's character as well as a glimpse of the simple times of his presidential term.

It appears that a clerk in the state department contracted a tailor's bill for $64.50, and the tailor, finding himself unable to collect the amount, laid the matter before the president in an appealing letter.

Jackson promptly decided that this was a matter to which he must attend personally, so he transmitted the tailor's letter to the secretary of state, with this strong recommendation:

Referred to the secretary of state. If on inquiry the fact stated be true, unless the clerk pays up his debt let him be forthwith discharged.

The government would become a party to such swindling provided it permitted its officers to become indebted for necessities and not see that they paid their debts out of their salaries.

Honest men will pay their debts. Dishonest men must not be employed by the government.

This case is referred to Ames Kendall, Esq., and on $10 per month being secured to C. E. Kloss, Mr. Gooch to be continued in his office.

Lemon Juice.

A little lemon juice in the water in which fish is boiled will make it desirably solid, the too frequent lack of a boiled fish. Sweetbreads left for an hour before cooking in a bath of rather strong dilution of lemon juice are made white and firm. A few drops of lemon juice are declared to add a delicious flavor to scrambled eggs. But a quite new use is in the preparation of rolled beef. This requires a rib roast, with the bones cut out. The juice of a lemon is squeezed over the meat, and the skin of it rolled up in it. The result is a tender, juicy, aromatic meat, very grateful to the palate. The Brazilian beef is highly esteemed for its flavor, and this is because the cattle pasture where lemons are plentiful and eat the fallen fruit, which flavors their flesh.—What to Eat.

Wedding Days Preferred.

The adage "Happy is the bride that the sun shines on" is one that is unknown in many lands. A Breton bride takes it unhappily when the day of her wedding dawns bright and sunny. Rain on her marriage morn is held to signify that all her tears are shed and that she will therefore have a happy married life.

It is said that the Erza of Simbrisk call the day before the wedding the weeping day, and the bride and her girl friends weep as much as possible with the idea of getting the mourning of life over, so that only what is joyful may remain. In some countries this result is attained by sousing the bride with water. The Greeks think that a thorough drenching of the bride will bring her lasting good fortune.

DELAY CAUSES UNEASINESS.

Foreigners Worried Over China's Tardiness in Signing Protocol. Li Having a Time of It.

Pekin, Aug. 24.—The delay of the Chinese plenipotentiaries in signing the protocol is causing some uneasiness in the foreign community here, although the ministers of the powers do not think that China intends to defy the powers by ultimately refusing to sign. Indeed, they believe China is anxious to wind up the negotiations speedily.

Decrees reciting the punishments and suspending the examinations will be issued before the Chinese signatures are affixed.

Prince Ching, at the request of the empress dowager, telegraphed to her verbatim the restrictions as to the importations of arms.

Li Hung Chang, having practically conducted all the active negotiations, has retired into the background, leaving to Prince Ching the responsibility of consummating the work. Earl Li finds himself in the same precarious position that he occupied at the close of the negotiations following the war with Japan. The native press is unanimous in violently denouncing him for what is called his surrender to the foreigners; and a number of officials have petitioned the emperor to punish him for betraying his country.

ROOSEVELT CHILDREN ILL.

Two of Them in a Hospital, at New York.

New York, Aug. 24.—Vice President Roosevelt's youngest child, Quintin, 4 years old, is now in Roosevelt hospital as well as his sister Alice. The boy was operated upon Thursday by Dr. George E. Brewer, one of the visiting surgeons in the hospital. It is expected that he will be well in a reasonable length of time. The vice president spent all Friday afternoon by the beds of his children.

Miss Alice Roosevelt, the vice president's eldest child, was operated upon a week ago Thursday. She had an abscess of the jaw and the operation, the underwent was very successful. It is expected she will leave the hospital today. Colonel Roosevelt and his wife secured a private apartment in the hospital for themselves, so they would watch the progress of their daughter, and they will continue to keep the room while their boy is ill. His unexpected serious illness has somewhat upset the plans of the vice president, but, it is believed, not seriously.

GUESSING CONTESTS LEGAL.

Newspaper Opinion Rendered by Attorney General Knox.

Washington, Aug. 24.—Attorney General Knox rendered to the postmaster general an opinion in the case of a western newspaper which some time ago inaugurated a guessing contest, offering prizes for the best estimates of Pan-American exposition admissions.

The attorney general says that unless plainly forbidden by law the remedy is with congress and not with the department, and continues: "I am unable to reach the conclusion that the giving of prizes as a reward for superior intelligence in estimates, where the human intellect is exercised in making such estimates, is within the purview of the statute."

DOG FOR THE PRINCE.

Newfoundland Children to Present One to Young Edward.

St. Johns, N. F., Aug. 24.—The government has received a telegram from the Duke of Cornwall and York, filed at Cape Town, announcing that he will attend the two state dinners to be given in government house, St. Johns, on the two evenings of his stay in Newfoundland.

RAIDED POOL ROOMS; ARRESTED PROPRIETORS.

Cincinnati, Aug. 24.—The trouble of the pool rooms across the river were renewed when Sheriff Miller, of Campbell county, raided and arrested the proprietors of the room which was opened Wednesday just outside of the corporate line of Newport, Ky. The rooms closed in Covington on Tuesday, owing to the opposition of the local courts, and it was expected that they could operate in their new location unmolested. Affidavits were made charging the proprietors and attaches with keeping a disorderly house. They were bound over to the grand jury in bonds of $500, which were furnished.

FIRED UPON MOB; LYNCHING ATTEMPT FAILS.

Lebanon, Ky., Aug. 24.—An unsuccessful attempt was made to lynch Dan Hotten and Charles Shipp, who are confined in the Marion county jail, charged with murder. The mob called at the house of Jailer Clayton, but his wife refused them the keys to the jail. They then went to the jail and began to batter the doors, when Officer Brent, who was secreted in a coal shed nearby, opened fire upon them. The mob returned the fire, but no one was hit. They then dispersed.

Back From the Philippines.

About all the volunteers are back from the Philippines, where they have had a long, hard experience of soldier life. Nearly all report the health of the soldiers good, except for frequent attacks of dysentery and diarrhoea. The 51st Iowa regiment on leaving San Francisco took a case of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy with them, and many soldiers carried single bottles. This was soon used up and found so effective that a constant demand for it resulted in a large shipment being made from the factory at Des Moines. A teaspoonful of it in a little water always has the desired effect. Sold by Alvin H. Bulger, Druggist.

THE LADY OF LYNN

CHAPTER XVI.

A DAY OF FATE.

THIS was the day when all the villainy came to a head and did its worst and met with the first installment of exposure. I have told you what was done at the church and what was our own bewilderment, not knowing what to believe or how to explain things. For my own part, though I might have guessed before I had discovered the jealousy of Lady Anastasia, yet the truth, even the possibility of the truth, never came into my head. I had no manner of doubt in my own mind but it was Molly herself and none other whom I saw standing as a bride at the altar rail with Lord Fylingdale for a bridegroom. The fact, I say, admitted of no dispute. Yet why should Molly change her mind? And why should she deny the fact?

I sought her at the house. I begged her to come into the garden and to talk with me privately. Then I asked those two questions. Her answer to both of them was most amazing.

"Jack," she said, "I know not what you mean. I have not changed my mind. It is impossible for me to marry a man of whom such things can be said unless he can prove that they are false. How can you think that I have changed my mind? As regards this talk about an early wedding, what do I know about it? At 6 o'clock I was in the kitchen with my mother and Nigra. I have not been out of the house at all."

Then I told her. "Molly," I said, "last night I forgot your letter. There was so much to think and talk about with these disclosures that I forgot. This morning I remembered. Then I hurried ashore. I ran to the Crown. It was just upon 6. I was too late. His lordship had gone out in a chair. I ran to the church. It was just after 6. The doors were open. I heard voices. I went in, Molly. Do not say that I am dreaming. I saw you—pink, I say—you yourself, with your pink silk cloak, the hood pulled over your head, a domino to hide your face, just as had been arranged."

"And your hand was in Lord Fylingdale's, and Mr. Purden was pronouncing the words which made you his wife. Whom God hath joined together let not man put asunder."

She stared at me with blank amazement.

"In my pink silk cloak? Jack, are you in your right mind, or is it I myself who am gone distraught?"

"Indeed I know not which."

"Did you speak to me? Did you congratulate the bride, Jack?"

"No; I was sick and sorry, Molly. I went out of the church. I had seen enough. The clerk, however, has been telling the story of this private marriage all over the town. Everybody knows it. The marriage is duly entered in the registers. It was a marriage by the archbishop's license. The man I saw was Mr. Purden, and the woman was Molly."

Molly said nothing for awhile; then she said gently: "The letter from the bookseller, your cousin, spoke of Lord Fylingdale as ruined. If he were to marry a woman with money, it would be his."

"I believe that there are sometimes letters—bills of lading or whatever they are called—which give the wife the control of her own property; otherwise everything becomes her husband's."

"That is, I am convinced, the reason."

"Villainy, villainy, villainy! Jack, this is a conspiracy. Some woman has been made to play my part. Then he will claim me as his wife and lay hands upon all that I have."

"No, Molly; he shall not while you have friends."

"Friends cannot help where the law orders otherwise. So much I know, Jack. Yet you can do one thing for me. You can protect me from the man. He must not take me away."

"All Lynn will fight for you."

"Jack, I want more. I want all Lynn to believe me. You have known me all my life. Am I capable of such a change of mind? Am I capable of so monstrous a falsehood as to steal out to marry the man and then to declare that I have never left the house? Oh, the villain, the villain!" Her cheek was as pale as her eyes flashed.

"I seized her hand. 'Molly,' I cried, 'they shall all believe you. I will tell the truth everywhere.'"

Just then the garden door was thrown open, and Sam Semple appeared. With a smiling face and a bending knee he advanced, bowing low.

"Permit me to offer congratulations

to the Countess of Fylingdale."

"I am not a countess, I am plain Molly Miller."

Sam looked disconcerted and puzzled. I perceived that, plot or no plot, he had no hand in it.

"I am come," he said, "from his lordship."

"I have nothing to do with his lordship."

"Surely, madam; surely, my lady, there is some misunderstanding. I am sent by his lordship with his compliments to ask when it will be convenient for the countess to receive him."

"You have been informed, I suppose, that I was married to him this morning."

"Certainly, my lady."

"Then go back to Lord Fylingdale and tell him that he is a villain and a liar, that I have learned his true character, that I am not married to him and that if he ventures to molest me my friends will protect me. Give him that message, sir, word for word."

"I believe, Sam," I said, for his discomfort and bewilderment made him reel and stagger, "that you have no hand in this new villainy. It was you, however, who brought that man to Lynn, knowing his true character and his antecedents. Let us never see your face here again. Go. If I thought you were in the plot, I would serve you again as the captain served you three years ago."

He went away without another word. Then the captain came home, his face troubled.

"I know not," he said, "what has happened in this place. I have seen Lord Fylingdale. I told him of the charges and accusations."

"Well, did he deny them?"

"He denied nothing, and he admitted nothing. He says that you married him this morning, Molly."

"I know. He has sent Sam Semple here with the same story. Captain, you believe me, do you not?"

"Believe you, Molly? Why, if I did not believe you, I should believe nothing. Believe you? My dear, I would as soon doubt the prayer book."

He laid his hand upon her arm, and the tears came into his eyes. "My dear, I have been an old fool. But I did it for the best. He says that you are his wife. Let him come and take you—if he can!"

"It is not Molly that he would take; it is Molly's fortune."

"Why, sir," she said, "if he takes the whole and wastes and dissipates it, so long as he does not take me, what does it matter?"

Then the vicar came again, and the whole of the business had to be discussed again. At first he adhered to his theory of unconscious action, because a scholar always likes to explain every theory by examples chosen from Latin and Greek authors. He had looked up several more stories of the kind from I know not what folio volumes in his library and came prepared to defend his opinion. But the absolute certainty of Molly's assertion, the evidence of her mother, who declared that Molly had been working with her since half past 5, the firm belief of the captain and my own change of opinion and the possibility of deception shook him.

Finally he abandoned his learned view and adopted our more modern explanations of the case—viz, that the marriage was a sham and that the woman was some creature suborned to personate Molly.

"But what woman can she be?" asked the vicar. "She can write. I have seen the registers. She has signed in a full, round hand without bad spelling. The woman, therefore, is educated. My dear, we may perhaps find the woman. My worthy and pious brother in orders is most certainly in the conspiracy. When there are three, one is generally a traitor. To begin with, the scheme is both bold and dangerous. It is the first step toward obtaining a large sum of money under false pretenses. Their necks are in danger, even the neck of a noble earl.

"What should be done meantime?"

"We must meet the enemy on his own ground. He spreads abroad the report that he married Molly this morning. We must publicly and openly deny the fact. Captain, there will be a large company at the assembly this evening. You will take Molly there. I will

This was clearly the best advice possible. We were left unmolested all the afternoon, though the captain made me stay as a kind of garrison in case of any attempt at abduction being made.

In the evening Molly in her chair and dressed in her finery was carried to the gardens, while the captain, the vicar and myself formed a bodyguard.

We arrived after the dancing had begun. Lady Anastasia was looking on, but her court of ladies and young men for some reason seemed to have melted away. She stood almost alone, save for the support of the old beau Sir Harry. The colonel was also with her, and the Rev. Benjamin Purden stood behind her.

The music was in the gallery at the end of the long room. The dancing was carried on in the middle. Lady Anastasia was standing on the right of the gallery, most of the company on the left. Molly, with the captain and followed by the vicar and myself, turned to the left.

On her entrance all eyes were fixed upon the newly made countess. She had come without her lord! Was this part of the secret—a secret known to all the world—or was his lordship, before the whole company, about to lead his bride to the first place, as became her newly acquired rank? Some of the ladies regarded her with looks of hatred, the successors of the looks of scorn with which they had first welcomed her. Most of them, however, were kindly. A tale of love always meets with a friendly reception. Not a woman in the place but would have taken her place with joy, unmeasured. As no other woman could, they were ready to accept their fate and to make friends with the successful and the fortunate winner of so great a prize.

It was a great prize, indeed, if they only knew.

The minuets were over and the country dance was about to begin when Lord Fylingdale arrived, followed, as usual, by his secretary. He stood at the door; he looked around. Then, with the cold pride which never failed him, he stepped across the room and bowed low to Molly. "Madam," he said, "with your permission, we will dance this country dance together before I take you away with me."

"My lord," replied Molly aloud, so that the whole company heard and trembled, "I shall not dance with you this evening nor on any other evening."

"She will never again dance with you, my lord. Nor will she hold any discourse with you. Nor will she willingly admit you to her presence."

It was the vicar who spoke, because the man and the occasion proved too much for the good old captain, who could only roll thunderously between his teeth things more fitted for the quelling of a uniting than for dealing with such a man as his lordship.

"Pray, sir," said Lord Fylingdale, stepping back, "what is the meaning of this? Pray, madam"—he turned to Molly—"what is the meaning of this sudden change? Captain Crowle, have I or have I not the right to claim my wife?"

The vicar stepped forward and confronted him. His tall, thin figure, his long cascade, his thin and ascetic face, contrasted with the overhaughtiness of his adversary.

"We were married," he said, "at 6 o'clock this morning by the Rev. Mr. Benjamin Purden, who is here to bear witness to the fact. The wedding was private at my request, because, as you may perhaps believe, I was not anxious to join in the wedding feast with a company of bores, bumpkins and sailors."

"Ladies and gentlemen"—the vicar raised his voice and by a gesture silenced the orchestra—"I have to lay before you a conspiracy which I believe is unparalleled in any history. You are aware that Lord Fylingdale, who stands before you, came to the spa a few weeks ago for purposes best known to himself. You will also doubtless remember that certain persons who arrived before him were loud in his praises. He was said by them to be a model of all the virtues. I will not repeat the things that were said."

"All this," said Lord Fylingdale, "is beside the mark. I come to claim my wife."

"Among those who accepted these statements for gospel was Captain Crowle, the guardian of the young lady beside me. It was to him a great honor to be admitted to converse with so distinguished a nobleman and to be permitted to consult with him as to the affairs of his ward. He even informed his lordship of the extent of the lady's fortune, which is far greater than was generally understood. Thereupon his lordship began to pay attention of a marked character. You have all, I believe, remarked these attentions. Then came the attempted abduction and the lady's rescue by Lord Fylingdale. After this he formally offered his hand and his rank to the lady. The honor seemed very great. He was accepted. He then engaged the lady to undertake a private marriage without festivities, to which she consented. She promised, in fact, to be married at St. Nicholas' church this very morning at 6 o'clock."

"All this," said Lord Fylingdale coldly, "is quite true, yet why you detain the company to the narrative I do not understand. The lady kept her promise. I met her at the place and time appointed. We were married. Once more, Captain Crowle, I claim my wife."

"Ladies and gentlemen," the vicar continued, "there is but one reply to the last statement, for the lady did not keep her engagement."

This was clearly the best advice possible. We were left unmolested all the afternoon, though the captain made me stay as a kind of garrison in case of any attempt at abduction being made.

She stood almost alone, save for the support of the old beau Sir Harry. The colonel was also with her, and the Rev. Benjamin Purden stood behind her.

The music was in the gallery at the end of the long room. The dancing was carried on in the middle. Lady Anastasia was standing on the right of the gallery, most of the company on the left. Molly, with the captain and followed by the vicar and myself, turned to the left.

On her entrance all eyes were fixed upon the newly made countess. She had come without her lord! Was this part of the secret—a secret known to all the world—or was his lordship, before the whole company, about to lead his bride to the first place, as became her newly acquired rank? Some of the ladies regarded her with looks of hatred, the successors of the looks of scorn with which they had first welcomed her. Most of them, however, were kindly. A tale of love always meets with a friendly reception. Not a woman in the place but would have taken her place with joy, unmeasured. As no other woman could, they were ready to accept their fate and to make friends with the successful and the fortunate winner of so great a prize.

The minuets were over and the country dance was about to begin when Lord Fylingdale arrived, followed, as usual, by his secretary. He stood at the door; he looked around. Then, with the cold pride which never failed him, he stepped across the room and bowed low to Molly. "Madam," he said, "with your permission, we will dance this country dance together before I take you away with me."

"My lord," replied Molly aloud, so that the whole company heard and trembled, "I shall not dance with you this evening nor on any other evening."

"She will never again dance with you, my lord. Nor will she hold any discourse with you. Nor will she willingly admit you to her presence."

It was the vicar who spoke, because the man and the occasion proved too much for the good old captain, who could only roll thunderously between his teeth things more fitted for the quelling of a uniting than for dealing with such a man as his lordship.

"Pray, sir," said Lord Fylingdale, stepping back, "what is the meaning of this? Pray, madam"—he turned to Molly—"what is the meaning of this sudden change? Captain Crowle, have I or have I not the right to claim my wife?"

The vicar stepped forward and confronted him. His tall, thin figure, his long cascade, his thin and ascetic face, contrasted with the overhaughtiness of his adversary.

"We were married," he said, "at 6 o'clock this morning by the Rev. Mr. Benjamin Purden, who is here to bear witness to the fact. The wedding was private at my request, because, as you may perhaps believe, I was not anxious to join in the wedding feast with a company of bores, bumpkins and sailors."

"Ladies and gentlemen"—the vicar raised his voice and by a gesture silenced the orchestra—"I have to lay before you a conspiracy which I believe is unparalleled in any history. You are aware that Lord Fylingdale, who stands before you, came to the spa a few weeks ago for purposes best known to himself. You will also doubtless remember that certain persons who arrived before him were loud in his praises. He was said by them to be a model of all the virtues. I will not repeat the things that were said."

"All this," said Lord Fylingdale coldly, "is quite true, yet why you detain the company to the narrative I do not understand. The lady kept her promise. I met her at the place and time appointed. We were married. Once more, Captain Crowle, I claim my wife."

"Ladies and gentlemen," the vicar continued, "there is but one reply to the last statement, for the lady did not keep her engagement."

This was clearly the best advice possible. We were left unmolested all the afternoon, though the captain made me stay as a kind of garrison in case of any attempt at abduction being made.

In the evening Molly in her chair and dressed in her finery was carried to the gardens, while the captain, the vicar and myself formed a bodyguard.

THE SULTAN'S BLUFF

Won't Work, as France Will Back Constans, In What
He Does.

YOUNG TURKS CAN CONSPIRE,

As Well as Other Dissatisfied Otto-
mans, Without the Embassy in
sentative is Handed His Passports.

Paris, Aug. 24.—While the officials of the French foreign office decline to confirm or deny the dispatch of the Associated Press from Constantinople announcing that the French ambassador has sent the sultan a letter which is in the nature of an ultimatum, they admit to having received a telegram from M. Constans, which has been laid before the council which was sitting at the Elysee palace. Only three ministers were not present. The premier, M. Waldeck-Rousseau; the minister of agriculture, M. Dupuy, and the minister of public works, M. Baudin, are absent from Paris.

The correspondent learns that M. Constans has been given a free hand. Any step he finds proper to take will be fully endorsed. The foreign minister, M. Delcasse, if he deems it necessary, will withdraw the French embassy from Constantinople, and Munier Bey, the Turkish ambassador, who is now in Switzerland, will be notified not to return to Paris, in which case Munier Bey will probably withdraw the legation to Berne, as he is also accredited as minister to Switzerland.

No naval demonstration was yet contemplated, but the sultan will probably be seriously inconvenienced by the closure of the Turkish embassy here, which is the center of the espionage maintained to watch the numerous young Turks and other disaffected Ottoman subjects and voluntary exiles who make their headquarters in Paris and who will have a free hand if diplomatic relations between France and Turkey are completely broken off.

It has been suggested that the French government issue orders for the bourse to cease dealing in Turkish securities, but it is not likely that this step will be taken, as it would only injure the French bondholders. The entire Turkish group fell on the bourse Friday, in some cases going down 10 to 12 francs.

According to a special dispatch received here from Berne, Munier Bey has already leased a villa there for the use of the Turkish embassy.

COLOMBIA PREPARES FOR WAR.

Are Suspended—Marshals
Law Rules.

Colon, Colombia, via Galveston, Tex., Aug. 24.—An official decree, dated Bogota, July 18, and addressed to the governors of the departments, was published Aug. 23. It says:

"A new aspect of the war which seems to kindle anew, with the help of foreigners who threaten the frontier, places the government under the necessity of assuming a different attitude from that maintained hitherto, and forces it to proceedings which it has previously tried to avoid.

"It has been resolved, firstly, to suspend the payment of all accounts for war material, pending, and to limit the expenses of the payment of the armed force and administration.

"Secondly, to proceed to expropriate all the necessary elements for the feeding, equipment and mobilization of the army.

"Thirdly, to levy forced and voluntary loans, according to circumstances and to impose war contributions in order to meet the expenses of each department, without depending on the national capital.

"The governors are hereby amply authorized to proceed in these matters according to the requirements of circumstances without the need of a privilege from the government, and each governor must assume the responsibility in order to save the situation within his territory."

OF WELL SUSTAINED VOLUME

Was Business, Though There Were
Some Drawbacks, One of Them
the Steel Strike.

New York, Aug. 24.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade, issued today, said in part:

Though there are some drawbacks, notably the labor troubles in the iron and steel industry, business is of well-sustained volume, to which fact payments through the country's clearing houses, railroad earnings and the strength of prices of staple and partly manufactured merchandise offer ample testimony.

Except in certain branches of the textile markets, sellers of merchandise have an advantage over buyers, and distribution is as large as stocks will permit.

The Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Plate Workers succeeded in enlisting the sympathy of other workmen, with the result that the output of merchant bar and wire rods is curtailed to the extent of about 40,000 tons monthly. Beyond this defection, wage earners in allied branches of the steel industry have refused to break their contracts. Many idle mills resumed during the past week, and even in the tin plate region there is a moderate output. Plates have begun to arrive from abroad, and prices in the London market sharply advanced. Hoop and sheet mills increase production daily, and there is no loss in the rail division, but some anxiety is felt regarding supplies of cotton ties, as the picking season has begun in many states. Decreased consumption tends to weaken pig iron, and tin is similarly affected.

Slightly better terms asked for staple woolen and worsted goods in no way diminished the volume of sales, and the light weight season promises to be one of activity. In heavy weights there is also noticed greater interest on the part of buyers than is customary at this late date. These improved conditions in the manufacture give a firm tone to raw wool, despite the heavy arrivals at eastern markets of the new clip.

Grain quotations eased off somewhat during the week, though the net decline was small. Corn is still close to the highest price since 1892, even with a host of important influences militating against such inflated figures. Weather conditions steadily improve, making the outlook bright for late planted corn. Foreign customers have been driven away by exorbitant prices to the benefit of Russia and Argentina, and Atlantic exports for three weeks aggregated only 1,862,789 bushels, against 7,636,548 last year, and 12,720,027 two years ago. Meanwhile interior receipts steadily exceed those of a year ago, indicating that farmers have large stocks carried over from previous excessive yields. Nevertheless prices remain above 60 cents. The slight reaction in wheat is explained by the decrease in Atlantic shipments to 4,853,735 bushels, against 7,352,826 in the previous week. Compared with the exports of 1,670,817 bushels last year and 2,798,887 two years ago, however, there appears a phenomenal gain. Pacific exports are still retarded by labor troubles, and the movement will be striking when once started.

Failures for the week numbered 205 in the United States, against 171 last year, and 35 in Canada, against 29 last year.

THE DOMINANT SPECULATION

Was In Pacifics and Southwesterns on
the Stock Market Friday.

Some Other Features.

New York, Aug. 24.—The Wall street district had more appearance of animation Friday than for a long time past. The prolonged and persistent resistance of the market to any factors of depression and the continued scarcity of stocks offering, notwithstanding the very considerable advance in the level of prices during the last two weeks, apparently prompted the professional traders Friday, as though by a common impulse, to inaugurate a movement to put prices up. The dominant speculation was in the Pacifics and Southwesterns, the Union Pacific leading the railroad list in point of strength and activity with an extreme rise of 2 1/2. The so-called Gould stocks were all active and strong, including the Denver and Rio Grande stocks and the Colorado and Southern stocks, the latter apparently on a supposition that developments are impending looking to its absorption into the Gould system. The grain-carrying roads as a whole were affected by the decided weakness in the corn market, indicating the recuperation of the corn crop. The continued heavy foreign demand for wheat, coupled with the reported good condition of that crop, was also an element. Amalgamated Copper was in very large demand, notwithstanding the denials of reports that further absorption of copper interests was intended. The extreme rise in Amalgamated Copper was 2 1/2. There was gossip of coming rights of Baltimore and Ohio to subscribe to new stock, to be issued in connection with the pending reorganization of Pittsburgh and Western. The minor steel stocks were strong. Tennessee Coal rising 1 1/2. The United States Steel stocks were opened a fraction higher and were held almost immovable all day, the extreme fluctuation in each being 1/2. There were strong points among the minor railroads and specialties and the coalers continued to show strength. The preliminary estimates of the week's cash changes were apparently relied on as foreshadowing a strong bank statement today. Friday there was a further decline in New York exchange at Chicago to 50 cents discount, and an additional $500,000 was deposited at the sub-treasury for transfer to Chicago.

The railroad bond market shared in the greater activity and strength of the stock market, but speculative bonds were most conspicuous. Total sales, par value, $2,585,000. United States bonds were all unchanged on the last call.

Peasant Costumes In Ireland.

A certain number of peasants in the wilder and remoter districts of Ireland still wear something like a national costume. About Lough Mask plenty of the lasses are to be seen in picturesque red petticoats that artists loved to bring into their sketches of Irish life. A sprinkling of the old high hats may be seen. The older fishermen wear them, but the younger school shun such antiquated headgear, as the English peasant of today does the smock frock.—London Express.

If a gusher is obtained, stock will sell many times above par—if not secured your money back—a safe proposition with large returns.

This company has an authorized capital of $500,000 divided into shares of the par value of $1.00 each, fully paid and non-assessable. Their location is the best, being surrounded on every side by wells, and prospects could not be better. Drillers are down over 600 feet, and a gusher is expected soon.

A Peoria expert who has been sent to Beaumont to report on the property of this company, has sent the following telegram to Mr. L. M. Campbell of Peoria:

"L. M. CAMPBELL: Was at well today, 600 feet deep in hard rock absolutely in proven territory. Nothing more certain than we will strike a gusher at about 800 feet. Gas is bubbling from well today. Particles of oil rock coming up. We are strictly in it." H. J. WEISSBUCH.

Woman's Horror

Modest women dread to consult a doctor about diseases peculiar to their sex. They have a horror of private examinations and surgical operations. For this reason treatment of dangerous derangements is neglected. But the Wine of Cardui treatment, which can be adopted at home without the knowledge of any one but the patient herself, is now coming into general use. Women who take Wine of Cardui do not have to submit to a physician's local examination nor to a surgical operation. Wine of Cardui cures in the privacy of the home. No publicity, no cutting and torture and no physician or examination, while Wine of Cardui is quietly building up and strengthening the female organs. Menstruation is regulated, the drains of leucorrhoea stopped and the fallen womb restored to its place. The terrible pains which rack the body are but results of the ailments, which yield so readily to the soothing properties of Wine of Cardui. The medicine that cured Miss Garlen will certainly help you.

I have suffered from womb trouble for five years. Last spring a year ago I was bedfast for six months. I paid $25 to one doctor, and he said he had done all he could for me. I had about given up, but called another doctor, who said I would have to have surgical treatment. I decided I might as well die a natural death as that. I happened to get hold of a Ladies' Birthday Almanac, and in nine days after I commenced taking Wine of Cardui and Black-Draught I could walk across my room, and in three weeks I made myself a dress. This was after my neighbors, and even my brothers and sisters, said I would never be any better. I am now in good health.

Blood Poisoning Feared—Ex-Sheriff Charles Gill, who has been suffering from rheumatism, has now a more serious complaint. For the rheumatism he rubbed his leg with a liniment, which caused the skin to come off. It is now feared he has blood poisoning.

Joins a Theatrical Troupe—Thomas Roe left yesterday afternoon for Chicago, where he will join the "Uncle John Spruceby" theatrical company to play the cornet for the season. He was accompanied by his mother, Mrs. Annie Roe, who will visit at Chicago for several weeks.

Secretary Wright Home—M. C. Wright, secretary of the Y. M. C. A., returned today from Lake Geneva, Wis., where he has been attending the association summer school. He states that P. J. Stephens, of Terre Haute, Ind., the new physical director, will arrive in East Liverpool about September 15.

Episcopal Harvest Home—Arrangements are now being made by the members of St. Stephen's church for the observance of the annual harvest home festival, which will be given September 27. The harvest home supper will be served in the parish building, while the harvest home service will be held in the church proper. An attempt will be made this year to eclipse the service of this character held in previous years.

Rinehart's Hay Purchase—Livestock man John Rinehart makes an explanation of that suit entered against him by Simon Cameron, of Beaver county, which puts the matter in a very different light. Mr. Rinehart claims that, instead of owing Cameron $35 for hay, he owes him but $6.28 which he has offered again and again to pay. Mr. Rinehart agreed to buy Cameron's hay at $8 a ton. The roads were so bad at the time that he hauled away 1,570 pounds only, agreeing to get the rest when the roads were better. But when he went after the rest of the four tons, he found it had been seized to satisfy a claim of Cameron's landlord for rent.

PROF. KINKADE, BALLOON ASCENSION AND PARACHUTE LEAP, ROCK SPRINGS SATURDAY EVENING AT 7:30 P. M. 59-1

"When We Were Twenty-One."
"When We Were Twenty-One" is a constant succession of fearful laughter. Certainly this comedy is the best England or France has favored us with for years, and as depicted by the excellent organization engaged to portray the life-like characters, the acme of the natural school of acting is very nearly obtained. At the Opera House Wednesday, August 28. 60-h

The Right Rev. Monsignor F. Zabler, Rector of Saint Martin's Church, Louisville, Ky., Says:

"The scenes elevate the heart of every Christian, and Mr. Walter A. Kilrain's graphic description of each moving picture aids not a little to make a deep and lasting impression on the hearers. I, therefore, warmly recommend the Cinematographic reproduction of the Passion Play." At Rock Springs August 25. 59-1

IN HIS CELLAR

The farm upon which Frank Maple resides, located about two miles south of town, the home of his boyhood days, is a great rendezvous for the deadly copperhead as evidenced by the number of reptiles of this species he has dispatched during his residence on the old home place. A few days ago, says the Salineville Banner, he had occasion to enter the cellar of his dwelling house, where he encountered one of these venomous crotalid snakes with a mouse firmly fastened between its jaws. Upon leaving the cellar, after killing the snake, he walked around the house and picked up a fence rail, when to his surprise another of the same kind of reptiles met his gaze.

The second one was summarily disposed of and two copper-red scalps had been taken in one day. The second reptile killed measured three feet in length, the average length of this kind of snakes. On various other occasions the hero of this sketch has found and killed copperheads and his experience of this double meeting upon the same day was not extraordinary for Mr. Maple.

AN EAST LIVERPOOL MAN

Who Has Made a Success of The Theatrical Business—His Strong Company.

The people of East Liverpool will have a personal interest in the appearance of the McCloy Stock company at the Opera House next Monday evening, because W. D. Campbell, a former East Liverpool man, is the manager of the organization. While treasurer of the opera house here he was widely known, and when he went to Rochester a few years ago to manage the opera house there his departure was much regretted.

By good business methods he has placed the Rochester Opera House high up among the playhouses of western Pennsylvania. Not satisfied with that venture alone he has purchased the McCloy Stock company and makes his debut in the managerial field with a splendid organization, and one that achieved great popularity last season. The play his company will present here is the great New York success, "Under Two Flags."

A LOCAL CANDIDATE

Will Be Chosen One of the State Officers of the Jr. O. U. A. M.

When the annual convention of the Jr. O. U. A. M. meets at this city next month there is sure to be one of the state officers selected from the East Liverpool lodge. Whenever the state convention meets the members always choose at least one of the state officers from the lodge which entertains the convention. It would not be surprising to see the office of vice councillor come to East Liverpool. Of course, this is with the proviso that the local lodge enters a candidate in the race.

There is now one candidate in the field, and an appeal for votes for him was received here a few days ago. This is E. W. Funk, of Findlay. From present indications there is every reason to believe that the convention next month will be attended more largely than any held in recent years.

NOTED BANDIT WAS KILLED IN CUBA.

Havana, Aug. 24.—Lino Lima, the notorious bandit, for whose capture, dead or alive, the military government offered a reward of $1,000, has been killed at Macurijes, in the province of Matanzas. The police assisted the rural guard and four other bandits were captured at the same time. The body of Lima will be photographed for the purpose of identification.

RAIN INTERFERED

Base Ball Game Yesterday at West End Park Had to Be Called Off.

The base ball game scheduled to take place at the West End park yesterday afternoon was called off owing to rain which had its usual disastrous effect on the grounds. A small crowd of spectators collected in the grand stand, expecting to see the game commenced, but the East Liverpool players, with one or two exceptions, failed to show themselves.

All of the players of the Allegheny team went to the grounds and did some practice work. Both on the way to and from the grounds they indulged in singing, with an occasional interspersed in the shape of a college yell, which made the natives hereabouts believe a menagerie had been turned loose. The high school chaps were not aware that the people of East Liverpool are not accustomed to these classic outbursts.

Crushed the Diamond.

Among historic diamonds one, the "Piggott," has gone out of existence. The story of its destruction is a tragic one. It was said to be worth $200,000. The diamond came into the possession of Ali Pasha, who always wore it in a green silk purse attached to his girdle.

He was wearing it when he was wounded by Reshid Pasha. Knowing that his wound was mortal, he immediately retired to his divan, gave orders that his favorite wife should be poisoned and then delivered the diamond to Captain D'Anglais with the order that it should be crushed to powder in his presence. His command was obeyed, and the beautiful gem was utterly destroyed.

REFUSED TO SIGN

Contempt of Court Charged Against Unwilling Witnesses in a Salem Court.

Salem, Aug. 24.—An attempt was made in Justice Astory's court to take the deposition of Lewis Smith in the $10,000 damage suit of C. J. Roller, administrator the estate of Almond Orr, against the Buckeye Engine company.

Smith appeared at the justice's office, but refused to sign his name to any papers and was very obdurate in the matter. Every effort was made to get Smith to sign his name, but he refused, although Justice Astory threatened to have him arrested for contempt of court.

It is said that considerable trouble is being had with several witnesses and it is probable that several arrests may be made for contempt of court. Justice Astory announced that he would give all persons refusing to sign their names to the necessary papers until 7 o'clock Saturday evening to do so. If they still refuse to do the court's bidding at this time, he will at once have them arrested and prosecuted for contempt of court.

A Career Ending Joke.

This is a true story about one of the mayors of Kansas City. He was mayor when the incident occurred, not so very many years ago. Two newspaper men, both very good friends of the mayor, were about to leave town, and they asked Mr. Mayor to help them celebrate their departure.

It was a hot day in summer, and after an hour or two of convivial indulgence the mayor of Kansas City was very much under the influence of liquor. The newspaper men were feeling jovial, but they were still able to walk around. It finally became necessary to do something for the mayor. Seeing a fruit wagon pass, one of the newspaper men ran out and hailed the driver. When he drew up to the curb, he was asked whether or not he wanted to make $2. He replied that he most certainly did.

It was then explained to him that a drunken man would be stretched out in his wagon, face toward the sky, and that he must drive through all the business streets of the town and then take the man home. Not knowing who his passenger was to be, the driver consented, and the joke was carried out to the letter. Through the streets of Kansas City the mayor of the town, stretched out on an open wagon asleep, was driven, and there was a placard that announced the cause of the strange plight fastened on the back of the wagon. The mayor was not re-elected.—Chicago Chronicle.
